HYRSUS presented "Mrs. Dot," a three-act comedy by W. S. Maugham, at the Victoria Theater on the evening of April 4th. The audience was large and very appreciative of the talented and finished style of the actors. The settings were very artistic, and the acting showed the effective result of hard work.

All the cast deserve great praise for their productions. Mrs. Dot herself was played admirably. Miss Alice Johann, in this part, should receive most of the credit. The part was a difficult one, owing to the many shifts of mood and the necessity for continual liveliness, but Miss Johann carried it off in fine style. Miss Mildred Brookes, as Nellie Sellinger, was very effective, and struck the exact note of her role. Miss Rachel Metcalfe, in the part of Lady Sellinger, and Miss Frances Duffet, as Eliza MacGregor, the maiden aunt, were very good in the minor parts. Of the men, Mr. Sommers had the hardest work to do, but he played his part of Blenkinsop, the bachelor, with ability. In the part of Gerald Halstane, the hero, Mr. Sharon acted with great skill and dignity. Freddie, the secretary, was played by Mr. Drey, who showed his usual ability and talent. Mr. Bartlett and Mr. Swender made discreet and interesting servants.

On May 10, Thyrsus showed its skill in another line. "The Maid of McMillan," a two-reel "movie," filmed on the campus and enacted by Thyrsus members, was presented at the Univee Surfuss to the great delight of Washington University students. Gordon Morrison was the hero and Dean McDaris, the heroine. The other principal was Phil Bryan, who played the part of the hick. The story was one concerned with life at Washington, in which a great track meet figured, and was varied with such thrilling events as an elopement, hold-up, etc. This gave an opportunity for the whole club to act in many scenes.

The first monthly play of the new season, "Arms and the Man," a comedy by Bernard Shaw, was presented on November 23 and 24. A cast of eight characters, many of whom were new on the Thyrsus stage, carried the action through a complicated series of events, involving the pursuit of a Swiss adventurer, who takes refuge in a lady's bedroom. Adele Grafeman played the feminine lead, and was ably supported by Minette Buddecke and Mildred Hess. Dan Bartlett, as the Swiss soldier, acted his part with ease and skill. Roland Tait, Victor Hoester, Edward Byrd, and Sylvester Horn were the other members of the cast.

On the evenings of December 19 and 20, Thyrsus gave its next play, "The Importance of Being Earnest," by Oscar Wilde. The play was a clever one and the acting unusually good. The plot was the story of events resting on the pun made on the last word of the title. Frances Wendl, as Cicely Cardew, made a very attractive heroine. H. Clarke Venable and Phil Bryan played the parts of the Englishmen who discovered the importance of being "Earnest." Tom Birdsall, Kathleen Lucy, Vera Dauernheim, Grace Lewis and Calvin Hermer filled the remaining places in the cast.

Glee and Mandolin Clubs, Season of 1917

HISTORY-FIVE members of the combined Glee and Mandolin Club left the Union Station on Tuesday morning, January the ninth, for the annual trip of the musical clubs. While en tour the Club appeared at Farmington, Charleston, Sikeston, and Cape Girardeau, Missouri.

The first stop was made at Farmington. The thirty-five arrived there at midday; and in the afternoon a tea was given in their honor. That evening the Washingtonians presented their program to a large and appreciative audience. And later the stay in Farmington was consummated with an enjoyable dance.

The next evening found the entertainers at Charleston. Here the boys were again successful in amusing the crowd.

On Thursday morning the Club favored the students of the High School of Sikeston with a few selections. The Club appeared in concert that evening. As an indication of their appreciation, the townspeople received the musicians most hospitably.

The tour was concluded with the concert given at Cape Girardeau. Here, too, the boys were extensively entertained. And the performance was attended by an enthusiastic audience.

Upon returning to St. Louis on January thirteenth, the Club felt confident that it had made a success. Not only was that fact true, but everyone knew that the Club had enjoyed the most successful trip that a group of musicians from Washington University had ever experienced. Owing to the fact that the Club was “keyed up to the top notch” through its previous practice, the Annual St. Louis Concert of January seventeenth at the Victoria Theater was a pronounced triumph. H. A. H.
Glee and Mandolin Club Concert

A LARGE audience of well pleased patrons attended the Annual Concert of the Combined Glee and Mandolin Club in the Victoria Theater on the evening of Wednesday, January seventeenth. Judging from comments made upon the merits of the performance, the varied and well selected numbers on the program were rendered effectively and made an impression upon the attentive audience.

The Glee Club scored with its opening number, "Immortal Music," by Robyn; but the "songsters" showed their real caliber by an excellent production of Dudley Buck's "Hark! The Trumpet Calleth!" This work was indeed rivaled by the delightful and finished playing of Rossini's "William Tell" and Charles Gounod's "Sing, Smile, Slumber," by the Mandolin Club.

The Varsity Quartette, composed of Messrs. Phelps, Lyon, Harlan, and Becker, showed up to advantage in diversified selections. Various combinations of Mandolin Club members, namely, the Mandolin Club Quartette, the Banjo Quintette, and the Musical Four, consisting of Messrs. Horn, Tucker, Preston, and Brooks, added much to the pleasing effect of the program and were encored many times.

Solo work was successfully done by Milton Tucker on the violin. Walter Bode in a "takeoff" on Carmen, Hughes and Bartlett as blackface comedians; Robert Harlan in an imitation of Harry Lauder, and Herbert Hausman in song. This solo work contrasted with the more concerted forms of entertainment of the evening, lent a charming variation of program.

Therefore the performance was a decided success. However, it was such not only from the point of view of quality, but also from the point of view of finance.

Washington University Alumni Association

From the graduation of the first class of the Undergraduate Department in 1862, down to date, there has existed an Alumni Association, with regularly elected officers and periodic meetings.

On April 14, 1887, the alumni of the Undergraduate Department adopted the constitution and by-laws of "The Alumni Association of Washington University," stating its objects to be the advancement of the interests of the University by such means as may from time to time seem best and the encouragement of mutual acquaintance among the members. Any graduate of any department, upon receiving his or her degree, is eligible to membership.

The Association keeps a roster of the graduates of the College and Engineering School, with correct addresses; has noted the deaths of its members; and has published periodically several bulletins containing this data, thereby doing a service valuable to the University and the alumni. Each new class on graduation selects a secretary to assist the Corresponding Secretary of the Association in the maintenance of the Alumni Roster.

A business meeting is held annually for the transaction of business and the election of officers, and an annual alumni dinner is had on the Saturday in February nearest to Washington's Birthday. Other meetings of a business or social nature are held on call, of which especial mention should be made of the luncheons frequently given on Commencement Day to welcome the graduating class. For many years the alumni resident in New York and Chicago have held annual meetings.

The Association has a fund placed with its Executive Committee to afford financial aid to deserving students.

Although drawing its members from the graduates of all departments, the main support of the Association is derived from the graduates of the College and Engineering School.
The Annual Alumni Banquet

The Annual Alumni Banquet at the City Club on February 17th, was, in every respect, a most remarkable gathering of Washington University graduates. There were one hundred and twenty-seven alumni and thirteen guests present, an attendance nearly double that of any meeting in recent years. Thirty-two of the last forty classes were represented.

The Class of 1914 entered the Banquet Hall en masse, effectually tardy and in costume and were unanimously awarded First Prize for Attendance, Deportment and Mechanical Noise. They occupied the central table, immediately in front of the speakers, and were flanked on each side by the Class of 15 and ’16, sitting at long tables. The justly famous aggregations of ’05 and ’07 occupied adjoining tables in a distant corner, far from the repressive influence of the head table.

At the conclusion of the disorder, President Chaplin, ’96, called on Mr. George H. Pegram, ’77, to describe “Washington University from an Eastern Viewpoint.” Mr. Pegram who, aside from being an alumnus, is also Chief Engineer of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company of New York, and incidentally is President of the American Society of Civil Engineers, had made the trip solely to attend this banquet. He spoke of the big things Washington men have done and are doing in the East and of the extent to which the reputation of the University has been established there.

Dr. Nipher recounted some incidents illustrating the seriousness of purpose of the students in the earlier days of the University and showed the rapidity with which these men had achieved prominence after graduation.

Dr. Engler, for the Class of ’74, which was the first class represented at the meeting, produced further evidence of the laurels which our earlier graduates have placed at the foot of Alma Mater.

Mr. Robert Brookings, President of the Board of Directors, told of the development of the institution and of some of its present problems. He told of the need for further additional buildings and also of the value, which an Alumni Fund, similar to the Yale scheme, would be to the University.

Judge W. H. Allen, ’94, speaking of “Our Debt to the University,” suggested that the Alumni of the University are now well able to assume some responsibility in the financial conduct of the University’s affairs and stated that the Association should decide at once what phase of the work it should aid and what means should be used to raise the necessary funds.

At the conclusion of these serious matters, President Chaplin proceeded to relieve himself of further responsibility for the meeting, which thereupon returned to that state of carefree goodfellowship which had marked the earlier hours.

In order to satisfy students of the University who were interested in discussing not only the poetry of “real poets” but also their own original compositions, the Poetry Club was organized. In order to prove to the Committee for Admissions that he is truly interested in the writing of poetry, an applicant for membership must write an original poem. The Poetry Club has no formal meetings nor organization. It meets twice a month with a despot, chosen from the members, presiding.
