The Jewish Hospital's 9,000,000 building-expansion program is proceeding on schedule despite more than a month-long strike of materials drivers. Before the strike took effect, material was stockpiled here to work out any possible delay to the project.

The last concrete slab was poured on the Mark Stei gen Memorial Hospital late in May. Crumbling of the face brick work have been com trolled on the lower floors of the west addition and the east wing running from Fort Park boulevard to Parkview Place.

Alternatively giving priority to the front (West) wing. This will yield some private patients' rooms, new passenger elevators, main entrances, and lobby and new offices. It is hoped that this phase of the project will be completed early in 1956.

The Hospital will have more air conditioned rooms available already this summer. Five rooms on the 4th floor and 47 rooms on the 6th floor are equipped with room air condi tioners. Air conditioning units were generally discouraged in previous years.

Sanatorium Awarded Chest Plaque

The Sanatorium Divi

What Is a Hospital?

(Reprinted from "Today's Hospital, a story of progress," published by the American Hospital Association, Chicago.)

What is a hospital? It is a health team: doctors, nurses, technicians, social workers, secretaries, engineers, dietitians, volunteers, carpenters and housekeepers. It is a restaurant providing food for special needs, a laundry, a power plant, a pharmacy, and a laboratory for x-ray, pathological and other diagnostic services. It is also an educational institution training doctors, nurses and other personnel. It is a workshop for physicians. It may be a center for medical research. It is a center for community health. It is helping to close the gap between preventive and curative medicine.

It is these things—and many others too—24 hours a day, 365 days a year, year in and year out. Its doors are never closed. While hospital business is "big business," it is big business "plus," and this "plus" is what distinguishes it from commerce. (A) With a few exceptions it is non-profit. (B) Its "product" is human life. (C) Its principals are professional people. (D) Its services are not infrequently rendered at a fee below the total cost. The end product is community health, not financial profit. Hospital care is an essential community service which varies from institution to institution, depending on the amount of medical knowledge applied and on the assignment of each hospital in meeting the community's health needs. The hospitals of the United States and Canada have a great story to tell.

Their dedication to the improvement of the health of our peoples is unwavering. Their story is one of service and progress.

How's Your Public Relations? . . .

Dean Walter A. Bloedorn of George Washington University School of Medicine, in a recent issue of the Journal of the Oklahoma Medical Association, has some wise thoughts on public relations, as written:

"First, it might be well to consider some of the things public relations is—and is not. Public relations is not primarily an effort to influence public opinion so that it is favorable publicity. It is not getting our names in the papers at every turn. It is not the simple juggling of phraseology. It is not the product of the publicist. It is not the noise and business of the public relations office. It is not primarily people, but it is people who have the public in mind. It is not an agency for luring the public, but it is an agency for perceiving what the public is about to do, and for communicating with the public. I submit this definition: Public relations is making known to the public all the available information that it needs or wants to know, in a form that can be readily understood. This simple, straightforward approach divulges public relations of all misundestanding, mistrust and mystery. It is a practically foolproof—indeed, it does not have to waste energy trying to remember what he said, or failed to say, last week."

"We would like to add to Dean Bloedorn's astute analysis of public relations that it begins with the individual and is rooted in the individual's daily behavior toward other individuals. We feel that this interpretation carries immense weight in the hospital, where pressures, tensions, pain tend to cause individuals to look inward, to concentrate on themselves and their own immediate problems to the exclusion of others. An attitude of concern for others, no matter what their station in life, is not only the root of good public relations for a person or an institution, but greater and immediate reward is in the happiness it brings the concerned individual. A hospital, dedicated as it is to the care of the sick and unfortunate, is the institution above all others in which every individual should be alert to the importance of a pleasant attitude toward everyone he meets all day, patient and fellow worker alike."

Following is a partial text of Mayor Tucker's address at the 50th anniversary commencement of the Jewish Hospital School of Nursing held May 15 at Temple Israel:

As Mayor of St. Louis, it gives me a great deal of personal satisfaction to be permitted to address this class tonight upon its graduation.

It is a high honor, not only because I am privileged to talk to a group of nurses who are soon to take their place in the community, but because it is the fiftieth graduation exercise held by the Jewish Hospital School of Nursing.

I feel that this is not only the golden anniversary, but it marks a golden opportunity for each of us to look to the future.

Naturally, I have devoted most of my speeches during the last few weeks to the subject of the long-awaited municipal bond issue. In my mind, it is paramount and of great import.

Tonight, however, we also leave some message in the future.

NEW X-RAY SCHOOL OPENS

RUBY G. SWEAT, R.N., Executive Housekeeper, recently returned from a week's stay in New York City where she visited six hospitals. Mrs. Sweat attended a meeting of the Hospital Building Service Managers Association, made rounds at Grovewick Village and was given a valuable museum piece in the form of a miniature oil lamp antique. She arrived back in St. Louis with a variety of new ideas for the hospital and in her opinion, tax fares and 20 cents left over.

Mrs. Stainless Steel Harrison, former Housekeeping Department head, made a very excellent job of operating the Housekeeping Department in Mrs. Vestal's absence. The first students are Barbara Downey and Rhoda Kunitz, both high school graduates and having the qualifications to work a little better in this community.

New Committee Heads Chosen For X-RAY

Many changes to head up the various committees of the Auxiliary have been appointed by Mrs. Harry Kilmon, the new president. A partial list of the committee heads and their committees is as follows:

- Mrs. Bernice Zeldin, Fund Raising Committee
- Mrs. Robert A. Kinsella, Hospitality
- Mrs. Albert Felber, Publications
- Mrs. Eliza Middleman, Life Membership
- Mrs. Stansfield Middleman, Volunteer Services
- Mrs. Arnold Block, Croquet
- Mrs. Elmer Abramson, Gift Gallery
- Mrs. Frank Block, X-Ray Advisory
- Mrs. Melvin Block, Banquet Room
- Mrs. Elma Block, Youth Brigade
- Mrs. John Anshe, B'nai B'rith

Other changes have been made in the leadership of the Auxiliary.

HomeMaker Service For Jewish Community

The Jewish Family Service Agency now has a HomeMaker Service for Jewish Community. This service enables families to continue normal living, should the mother, for example, become ill or be confined. It allows elderly folks or others who are completely to care for themselves, to remain in their own houses as long as possible. The service employs women who have been investigated, trained and approved for their capability. They are mature women, who are well adapted to different people and situations. They usually work in eight hour shifts, a day, a week, but other times may be available by arrangement. They perform almost any task in the home, related to the good health and general well being of the family.

Several members of the staff of the Division of Laboratories attended the annual meetings of the American College of Angiology, which is a national organization composed of physicians and surgeons dealing with the problems of vascular diseases. Sanatorium Patients
Prove "You're Never Too Old" With Fine Hobby Show Exhibits

Patients at Jewish Sanatorium Division of Jewish Hospital entered an unusual activity recently with the gusto and zeal of a group of youngsters. Working hard on displays and projects of handicraft and art, they exhibited their wares at the Senior Citizens Hobby Show at Washington University Field House which had as one of its sponsors, the Globe-Democrat. All agreed it was a lot of fun, interesting work and "you're never too young to start with a hobby", they intimated.

A good new idea for a graduation gift is the "Sport Pal," it's a combination spoon, fork, bottle opener and knife. Looks like a pocket knife when closed. Any boy would love it. Father, too! Price is $1.19—with the brown leather case. For the boy who will be a "college man" in the fall, the traveling tie case is perfect. Sure to keep his new ties neat—at least 'till he gets there.

Here are a few suggestions: Glass napkin rings, $0.95; Penny scrap book $2.25, it's going to be a busy summer and fall with lots of invitations and parties to keep; desk set, $24.98 (it's a beauty!); fountain pen ($4.50); Silver Paper Mate $2.50, alarm clock (those early classes) $4.95. There's lots more. Drop in to G.G. and see for yourself. Or call and we'll be happy to suggest other gifts.

Summer entertaining is just around the corner. To make it easier and prettier, George Briard has designed many outstanding, useful and beautiful items. And since pink is the color in decorating this year, of course G.G. is thrilled because it's always been our color, we're featuring lots of it.

One of our favorites at G.G. is the George Briard set of plates and napkins in pink and white for hors d'oeuvres. It includes four small plates and one large plate in pink and white stripes, and four cocktail size napkins in a stunning pink and black pattern. The set is $10.00.

An unusual cheese dish is the pink metal tray with an all-over design of refreshing lemon slices. Set of eight glass straws and eight pretty glass straws only $7.95.

To complete the pretty picture is our tall pink ice bucket. Lovely for a patio or milkman's breakfast. $18.00.

We remind you again that G.G. welcomes you at any time. If you can't come by, we're always happy to have you phone. Remember—G.G. is there to serve you.

Highlight Meetings
Displaying high styles at Hospital benefits this Spring were two active groups connected with J.H. The Jewish Sanatorium Auxiliary gave a luncheon and fashion show at the Congress Towers (left) and the Women's Auxiliary held its annual affair, a breakfast, at the Chase Club (right). Both shows displayed the up and coming fashions for the summer and were highlighted by generous donations to the Hospital from both groups.

Children played an important part in the Chase Club event which was aided considerably by Kline's West. Appearing in the show, from top right, were: Sisters Jill, age 12 (on left) and Elm Linz, 15, daughter of the Willard Levys; Noel and Jean Messing, daughters of the Roswell Messing, Jrs.; Mrs. Eric Ross and daughter Lauren, Mrs. Robert Potasnick and daughter Suzanne.

"Operation Hostess"
New Aux. Project
Newest project of the Auxiliary's volunteer office is "Operation Hostess," a thrilling new opportunity for service to the Hospital. The project is already under way but at least 15 more women are needed.

A Hostess' duties are as follows:
1. Assist the person at the information desk.
2. Direct incoming patients and visitors to various areas within the hospital.
3. Introduce patients to clerk in the Admitting Office.
4. Escort incoming patients to nursing division and then take patients to their rooms.
5. Assist patients in getting settled in rooms.
6. Take flowers and gifts to the patients' rooms.
7. Pick up and deliver patients' packages and mail.
8. Help keep waiting room in order.

Dr. Loevinger Gets $2000 Fellowship

Dr. Jane Loevinger, a research physiologist at Jewish Hospital in St. Louis, has been awarded a $2,000 fellowship by the American Association of University Women.

Dr. Loevinger, wife of Samuel Weissman, a professor of chemistry at Washington University, lives at 7209 Pershing Avenue, University City. She will study measurement of personality traits. The fellowship, providing for a year's study, is named in honor of Margaret M. Justin, a member of the A.A.U.W.

Dr. Sherry Awarded Grants Totaling $41,160 For Studies

Grants totaling $41,160 have been awarded to Dr. Sol Sherry, Director of the Department of Internal Medicine of the Jewish Hospital Medical Center, to support research projects in enzyme studies.

One grant for $9,750 yearly for three years—a total of $29,160—is from the National Heart Institute of the National Institutes of Health. The grant is in support of the research project: "Enzymatic Factors Influencing Intravascular Fibrinolysis."

The other grant is for $12,000 from the Research Division of the American Cyanamid Company, to support work in enzyme studies.

Dr. Sherry's studies at the Jewish Hospital are concerned with the development of a new type of treatment by which blood clots can be dissolved after they have formed in the body. Blood clots which have formed or lodged in the brain, heart or lungs are one of the most serious problems which face the physician in his daily practice.

Previous studies by Dr. Sherry have indicated that certain enzymes can successfully dissolve clots in the blood vessels of dogs. Preliminary studies in humans have shown that it may be feasible to use some of these enzymes successfully in patients.

Funds from the grants will be used to carry on advanced studies in patients. Dr. and Mrs. Sherry reside at 2350 Delmar Boulevard, University City, Missouri.

Dr. Robson Is Elected To Society

Dr. Jules H. Kopp was elected to the East St. Louis Community Chest Board of Directors. Following is a reprint of an editorial which appeared on the subject in the East St. Louis Journal:

"Election of Dr. Max Goldenberg as president of the East St. Louis Community Chest board of directors is welcome news. It is fitting reward for a busy man who has devoted more than his expected share of time to the welfare of the community."

"Dr. Goldenberg is an unusual representative of a busy medical profession. Too frequently and in most cases justifiably, doctors lack the time to participate in community civic and welfare matters. Now and then, however, a community finds a doctor who finds the time, and he is to be honored in that."

Dr. Max Goldenberg of the East St. Louis Jewish staff has been elected president of the East St. Louis Jewish Community Chest. The new board was named last Jan. 1 with Dr. Leonard J. Rosen as its head.

Purpose of the department according to Dr. Rosen, is to "provide better and more specialized care of children patients and to give the Hospital's dental intern a more thorough training in this field."

Dr. Rosen says the new program "allows consultation and treatment on more comprehensive problems concerning pediatric dentistry. These problems are both technical and psychological in nature. The technical problems include such things as stainless steel crowns, pulp (nerve) treatments, full dentures and partial dentures, all existing artificial teeth, and to the child's need and must be done from the start."

"Psychological problems include bad (or frightened) attitudes toward the patient, physical and mental handicapped patient. This requires a special kind of psychology. Unless the intern can get along well with children, he will have no difficulty with adults."

One of the first patients under the new program was a four-year-old boy, Henry Czerner, who had full dentures made with intern Dr. Edgar Davison doing most of the work. Photos of the event appeared in local papers and was covered by the Associated Press, United Press and the Washington Daily News. Dr. Rosen is a graduate of the Washington University School of Dentistry Class of 1947. He recently returned from Army service.

Jewish Welfare Drive

In Last Lap; Reports In

The Jewish Welfare Fund Drive in the Hospital has reached about 90 per cent of its goal. Miss Imogene Lawrell, drive chairman, has announced.

"There is still time to make the Hospital 100 per cent in this important event," Miss Lawrell said. "Since the Hospital derives much of its operating funds from the Jewish Welfare Fund Drive, it is imperative that all of us here at Jewish Hospital contribute to the fund. We can still reach our goal if those who have not given, turn in their pledge cards now.'

Drive Key Men are:

George Horne, Shirley Ludwig, Flora Kienzle, Margaret Harte, Irene Sacks, Beverly Littauer, Harry Colck and Shirley Oppeliste.

Dorothy Bigland, Alice Greenspan, Anna Schneider, Rita Hornitz, Uppthal Harper, Pearl Roth, Helen Wohletz and Mary McKeever.

Marilyn Fleischman, Martha Johnson, Ruth Greene, Joe Winfield,ucceeded by. Iris Grace, Betty Bailey, Christ Yangerman and Dorothy Schmidt.

Divisions reaching 100 per cent numbered nine. They are: Central Supply, Miss Marley; Home Care & Social Services, Mrs. McKeever; Head Nurse Supervisor, Miss Wohletz; Heart Station, Miss Oppeliste; Fiscal Services, Miss Ludwig; Medical Records, Miss Harte; Pharmacy, Mr. Horne; and House Staff, Dr. Braverman.

A large thermometer, whose mercury is painted red as the drive total goes up, is on display in lunch room.

The overall drive goal is $1,625,000 of which about $533,000 goes to the Jewish Hospital Medical Center. Remainder of the funds raised go to supporting over 40 needy agencies.

Dr. Harry Agress is chairman of the Medical Section of the 1955 drive. Dr. Agress, director of the Hospital Out-Patient Clinic, has as his co-chairman Dr. Leon Foster and Dave Rothman, with a $40,000 goal for that section.
