Jewish Hospital's 1968 United Fund Drive is now in progress and will continue through October 18. The Hospital's goal for this year's campaign is set at $15,912. To meet this goal employees are urged to give a fair share gift of one hour's pay per month for twelve months.

Mrs. Virginia Reisinger, R.N., chairman, and John Bacher, co-chairman, head a fifteen-member steering committee which has been meeting since July to make plans for the drive. The theme for this year's campaign is "Up, Up and Away."

Earlier, employees received payroll enclosures, including a balloon printed with a United Fund message, alerting them to the drive. Announcements urging participation in the drive are being heard in the employees' cafeteria each day during the drive. The announcements were recorded by winners of a "mystery voice" contest conducted among employees prior to the opening of the drive. A second contest is being held to identify the owners of the "mystery voice." Winners of both contests will be announced in the next issue of the "216."

Progress of the 1968 drive is being recorded on a chart, marked by an ascending balloon, now located in the ground floor lobby.

Last year Jewish Hospital employees oversubscribed their United Fund goal by 31% with a total gift of $14,580. The Hospital is one of 119 agencies which benefit from the Drive. In 1967 the Hospital received $265,120 from the Fund to help care for indigent patients of all races and creed.

The total 1968 United Fund goal for the metropolitan St. Louis area is $12,200,000. Funds are used to aid young and old, handicapped and physically disabled; victims of fires and disasters; armed forces personnel and travelers in distress. More than 500,000 persons use United Fund agencies. These agencies provide 92% of all voluntary, rehabilitative family service and youth programs in the metropolitan area.

AHA membership was presented to Mrs. Mabel Howell, assistant director of Jewish Hospital, at the opening session of the Association's annual meeting. The plaque calls attention to the institution's 50 years of "...dedication to community services and ...participation toward our mutual goal of providing better health care services for all the people."

Jewish Hospital became a member of the American Hospital Association the first year after it was reorganized in 1918 from an association of individual members to a hospital association. In that year, leaders in the hospital field proposed the reorganization as "...a real demonstration of the power of the organized hospitals of America to think and plan constructively... for the future."

Barnes Hospital was the only other institution so honored in the St. Louis area.

The AHA's annual meeting is the nation's largest health care meeting. Some 15,000 hospital and health care personnel, health industry representatives and other guests attended.

Mrs. Howell was advanced to membership status in the American College of Hospital Administrators on September 15, at a ceremony held in Convention Hall in Atlantic City. Mrs. Howell has been an assistant director at Jewish Hospital since January 1967. She is a graduate of Washington University School of Medicine's graduate program in hospital administration.

Jewish Hospital United Fund Drive Now In Progress

Edward B. Greensfelder, president of Jewish Hospital, was elected vice chairman and vice president of the Washington University Medical School and Associated Hospitals board at the annual meeting of the WUMSAH board of directors in September.

Jewish Hospital has been a member of WUMSAH since 1962. The WUMSAH group is composed of the following health care facilities: Barnes Hospital, St. Louis Children's Hospital, Barnard Free Skin and Cancer Hospital, Central Institute for the Deaf and Jewish Hospital.

Dr. William H. Danforth, chancellor of Washington University Medical School, was re-elected president.

Other officers include Edwin M. Johnson, Children's Hospital chairman; George H. Capps, Washington University, treasurer; and Reven M. McClure, Central Institute for the Deaf, secretary.

The WUMSAH Board explores cooperative programs among member institutions as a means of reducing costs and avoiding unnecessary duplication of services within the Medical Center Complex.

Insuance Policy Presented Hospital by Isaacs Family

Edward B. Greensfelder, president of Jewish Hospital, has announced a gift of $10,000 from Mr. and Mrs. John A. Isaacs, Jr. Mrs. Isaacs, an investment broker with Reidel, Nicholas and Company, made the gift in appreciation for the care which his wife, Eleanor, received during her recent stay at the Hospital, and in recognition of the long range needs of the institution.

The gift, a $10,000 life insurance policy, was transferred to Jewish Hospital with absolute assignment.

Under the conditions established, Mr. Isaacs will continue to pay the net premiums on the policy. The $10,000 will constitute an endowment known as the "Eleanor M. and John A. Isaacs, Jr. Research Fund."

Mr. Greensfelder said: "We are very grateful to the Isaacs for their generosity and foresight. Many philanthropists throughout the country have chosen this excellent method of making a contribution to charitable institutions. It is similar to a bequest, but one for which the Hospital can express its appreciation during the donor's lifetime. We are hopeful that others in the community will consider this type of gift."

Associates Hold Program

David Rothman, M.D., (left) director of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, and Alex Kaplan, M.D., former director of the Department of Psychiatry at Jewish Hospital, were speakers for the Associates' October 8 program, "The Pill and Pot," held in the Steinberg Amphitheatre in the Yeom Research Building.

Hospital Nurse Has A Musical Family

By Barbara Levy

A recently overheard conversation between two R.N.'s concerned the merits of a co-worker, Mrs. Leonard Repking, R.N. Mrs. Repking, a delivery and labor room staff nurse, and her husband managed a very talented musical group called "John Repking and the Classics."

When asked about "John Repking and the Classics," Mrs. Repking said that as a child she and her brother and father enjoyed family musical sessions. "I suppose it was natural that a similar routine would evolve amongst children. Ultimately, the school began engaging the children for entertainment at P.T.A. meetings. They also played for various church socials. In all instances, there was a strong non-professional basis and was as enjoyable for them as for the audiences. As the group's talent increased, Mr. and Mrs. Repking discussed the possibility of their turning professional.

"Since the boys were under age," said Mrs. Repking, "it was necessary for us to manage them, as well as escort them to various bookings, which required a real carpet. We have traveled down to a science now. It takes at least three cars to travel, with drums and amplifiers along with set up one car. We also transport our own P.A. system. The boys invented a music stand which is assembled easily and conserves packing space.

"John Repking and the Classics" provide a variety of dance music, including square dance, jitterbug, polka, waltz, and of course, rock and roll. "No long hair or tidbits for my boys," exclaimed Mrs. Repking; "and, it's white dinner jackets in summer and dark suits in winter."

Mrs. Repking's daughter, Rosemary, is the wife of Leo Kozlowski, who plays clarinet and saxophone. Obviously, the family not only acquired a son-in-law, but another musician.

Johnny, age 17, began studying the bass guitar, drums and banjo at age six. Exceptionally talented, he plans to continue the group. He teaches music at Nash Studios, in addition to giving private lessons in the Repking home.

Stephen, who is 14 years old, has been studying the accordion for three years, and has studied the flute for the past five years. He has been a member of the Fontbonne Civic Chorus since the age of 10, a choral group that has performed with the St. Louis Symphony. His greatest interest, however, is his association with his family musical sessions. "I suppose it was natural that a similar routine would evolve amongst children. Ultimately, the school began engaging the children for entertainment at P.T.A. meetings. They also played for various church socials. In all instances, there was a strong non-professional basis and was as enjoyable for them as for the audiences. As the group's talent increased, Mr. and Mrs. Repking discussed the possibility of their turning professional.

Meet Homer Fulkerson; Food Services Director

Most housewives would panic at the thought of preparing and serving 2,000 meals each day. However, that is the routine task facing Homer Fulkerson when he comes to work each day as the director of Food Services at Jewish Hospital.

Mr. Fulkerson has an impressive background in the food preparation business. He said, "I unknowingly began my career when I took a part time job in our high school cafeteria. When I started the job, my only interest was the money. I ultimately found myself intrigued by the food preparation business. It was my impression that I had managed to work myself through nearly every position in the cafeteria except manager."

Mr. Fulkerson has been in the food service business ever since, except for a brief tour in the armed services when, in his words, "with typical Navy ingenuity they made me a diesel mechanic."

Following graduation from Michigan State University with a degree in institutional management, he resumed his career of food preparation work with the Junior Theater. Both Johnny and Stephen won first-prize trophies for the past two years in the Mid-American Music Festival competition, and are vocalists for their own group.

Stephen, age 9, has been studying the banjo and drums. In addition to weddings and parties "John Repking and the Classics" have been engaged by organizations such as the Knights of Columbus and the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and have also appeared at numerous school programs in the Missouri-Illinois area.

Despite all the travel and practice, Mrs. Repking indicates that the boys maintain "A" and "B" averages in school. According to Mrs. Repking, "they are working their way through school and are saving up for college. Although Johnny for his first love, music, athletics is a close second, which explains his ambition to enter professional baseball.

Stephen aspires to a career in acting and singing, and Gregory's main objective is to be an upcoming drum artist."

Although she has returned to nursing after a 10 year hiatus, Mrs. Repking plans to continue managing the group.
