Shown above is the group of Danforth girls who visited our medical center on July 26.
A.H.A. ANNUAL CONVENTION TO BE HELD AT ATLANTIC CITY, SEPTEMBER 19-22.

"Working together for better health" is the theme of the 57th annual American Hospital Association convention in Atlantic City, New Jersey, September 19-22. The 8th annual conference of Hospital Auxiliaries will be held concurrently.

New feature on the program for this year's convention is the 100 round table sessions on a variety of pertinent subjects, and the concurrent sessions on "Hospital Planning", "Civil Defense - Its Implications to Hospitals", and "Hospital-Physician Relation". Conventioners may attend those of greatest interest to them.

These will supplement the four general sessions on "The Hospital and the Community", "Hospital and Blue Cross", "National Activities to Coordinate Health Service", and "Extension of Hospital Relationships".

AHA headquarters will be at the Traymore Hotel. Because of the need for housing officers and members of the House of Delegates there, few rooms are available for general assignment. Members are asked to reserve rooms in another hotel whenever possible.

Monday night a reception for conventioners is scheduled. The annual AHA banquet will be Wednesday.

BARNES HOSPITAL OFFERS NEW PHARMACY ADMINISTRATION INTERNSHIP

Barnes Hospital has formulated a new internship program in Hospital Pharmacy Administration which is one of the first such programs in this area. It is a twelve month training period, in which both didactic instruction and practical work experience will be combined. A part of the program will be in conjunction with the Washington University Course in Hospital Administration.

Entrance requirements for the internship are: applicant must be a graduate of a recognized college of pharmacy, with a B.S. degree in pharmacy, preferably between the ages of 21 and 30, must pass a physical examination, and satisfactorily complete a personal interview with the chief pharmacist and members of administration.

At present Miss Lou Fogleman is the only intern that has been accepted for the course. She is a registered pharmacist and a 1955 graduate of St. Louis College of Pharmacy. Miss Fogleman served her pharmacy internship here by working part time while she attended school.

The new program will begin September 1, 1955, and graduates will receive a certificate of internship upon satisfactory completion of the one year course in Hospital Pharmacy Administration.

(Continued from previous column)

Members can look forward to seeing the "greatest hospital show on earth" again this year. This is the huge exhibit of latest equipment and developments in hospital needs, educational booths, architects' shows. A hospital train is being sent as an exhibit by the army surgeon general's office.

- WISCONSIN HOSPITALS
MAKE THE BEST OF THINGS

Let's face it -- life isn't always a bed of roses. Each of us has his share of the usual annoyances. In times like these, especially, most of us feel on edge now and then. But when things get you down, it's smart to try and face your troubles and make the best of things.

It is true, of course, that some conditions just can't be changed. Then it's best to try and adjust to those conditions so that they do not spoil the many good things in life.

What's more, the important thing to remember is not to let your troubles get the better of you. Don't overemphasize them to the point that they interfere with your happiness and the happiness of those around you.

Some people talk problems over with a sympathetic friend or advisor. Very often the troubles will vanish as quickly as they appeared. As a rule, unpleasant conditions are short-lived. Happy events, on the other hand, are seldom forgotten.

If something is bothering you -- like fear, worry, grudges, jealousy, resentment -- you may feel tired and nervous. These feelings, or emotions, influence your thoughts and actions. They can upset your stomach and other digestive organs. They can affect your joints and muscles, your heart and blood vessels. They can also play a part in allergic disorders.

If you are feeling sick and run down, (Continued on page 6)
The things that happen to us in the living of our lives, both good and otherwise, are determined in large measure by the manner in which we place our loyalties. Some might hasten to say that it is also important that we know where to place our loyalties. There may be some shade of difference between the manner and the location, but they are essentially the same. The important thing in the whole matter is the personal character of the one doing the selecting.

In some parts of the world in which we live there is great freedom of selection when it comes to the matter of placing our loyalties. In other places such is not the case. In some ways, it is much easier to live by a pattern that is cut out and handed down with simple instructions. Somehow, this does not appeal to all people. In the democratic environment in which we are privileged to live we enjoy a high degree of freedom of thought and action. When we are honest with ourselves we must confess that we take this too much for granted.

There are many kinds of loyalty. We often hear statements which indicate that there are those who seem to think that this quality of our character applies only to the field of government. It is much broader than that, of course, and should be used in all areas in which it can be helpful. The nature of the home is determined by the loyalty of the members in daily relationships. The attitudes that exist among members of businesses and professions are determined more by loyalty to ethical ideals than by material returns.

DR. J. ALBERT KEY DIES

Dr. J. Albert Key, Emeritus Chief of Orthopedic Surgery at Barnes Hospital and Emeritus Professor of Orthopedic Surgery at Washington University School of Medicine, died August 6, following a heart attack suffered at his country home near Steelville, Missouri.

Dr. Key was recognized as one of the major figures in the field of orthopedics. He was co-author of a textbook on the treatment of fractures which has become a standard reference book on the subject. Dr. Key was a past president of the American Orthopedic Association. He was a graduate of John Hopkins University and served in World War I as a medical officer.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Eleanor Meyer Key, a son, Frank L. Key, of St. Louis, and a sister, Mrs. Jessie Stevenson of St. Petersburg, Florida.

EVENING CLASSES AT WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

The University College of Washington University is offering adult evening classes beginning September 26, 1955.

The University offers many different fields from which courses may be chosen. These courses may be pursued independently one or more evenings a week or in combination leading to degrees and certificates.

Registration will take place from September 19 to September 24, inclusive, on the main campus of the University.

(Continued from previous column)

Social life is the very outgrowth of this quality. Religion is a way of life that challenges us to loyalties that have been tested and found of value.

A sense of being loyal to a cause does not come from other people. We build it for ourselves or we do not have it.
A part of the old Physical Therapy Department is shown above being remodeled in preparation for the Department of Occupational Therapy which will move there in the near future.

Shown below is an entrance to the new Renard Hospital that is being built in the southeast corner of the Barnes employees cafeteria.
MEDICAL TECHNOLOGY STUDENTS TO GRADUATE AUGUST 26.

Graduation exercises will be held on August 26, for six students in the Barnes Hospital School of Medical Technology.

Dr. Frank R. Bradley, Director of Barnes Medical Center, and Dr. Carl Moore, Dean of Washington University School of Medicine, will be the guest speakers at the commencement program. Dr. Bradley will present the diplomas to the graduates. A reception will be held in Wohl Dining Room for the graduates and their guests immediately following the graduation exercises.

The following students will receive certificates following the successful completion of the one year course.

Colleen S. Adreon
Martha M. Calise
Shirley A. Campbell

Dorris Fischer
Mary E. Swaim
Mary C. Woodruff

MAKE THE BEST OF THINGS
(Continued from page 3)

Annoyances are more likely to bother you. That's why it's important to maintain good living habits. Get plenty of sleep and eat three good meals each day. Of course, if you notice any signs of trouble, you will want to see your doctor promptly. In fact, it pays to keep a check on your health by having a medical examination at least once a year.

Metropolitan Life Insurance Company

With a grinding of brakes, an Army officer pulled up at the side of the road. "Say, sonny," he called to a small boy standing nearby, "have you seen an airplane come down near here?" "No, sir," declared the boy defensively, hiding his slingshot behind his back, "I've just been shooting at a bottle."