Research is a vital part of a good hospital's function. That is why it is important that The Jewish Hospital of St. Louis has so many fine researchers. Our cover story is concerned with the new research on thrombosis that is being directed by Physician-in-Chief Stanford Wessler, M.D. (see page 2).

Much more happens in the Hospital, of course, than just research. The nurses have their day of fun and frolic (page 4), and those employees who have been with the Hospital for years receive the plaudits they so richly deserve (page 5). The Emergency Room, which handles dozens of cases every day, functions day and night as an integral part of the Hospital (page 14), and the Candy Stripers give their summer help to the staff (page 9).

Psychology interns (page 10), involved in a department that is often overlooked, labor in ways that are often different from the other interns in the Hospital, and the Clover Ball preparations continue (Photonews, page 16).

Our regular features; Potpourri, the Medical Staff News, Photonews, Short Subjects, and the Tribute Pages, combine with six interesting stories to make up this issue of the "216," we hope you enjoy it and find it informative.

The Editor
Thrombosis, a phenomenon which has captured first place on all mortality lists prepared by national health agencies in the nation, will be extensively studied under a new $2,490,000 five year grant from the National Heart and Lung Institute to Washington University and its affiliated hospitals.

Dr. Stanford Wessler, John E. and Adaline Simon Professor of Medicine, and Physician-in-Chief at the Hospital, has been named director of the new interdisciplinary Specialized Center for Research in Thrombosis which will involve 36 investigators from the Department of Electrical, Mechanical and Chemical Engineering at the Hill campus; and the Departments of Physiology, Preventive Medicine, Surgery, Medicine, Radiology, and Biological Chemistry at the Medical School.

The Thrombosis Center established in St. Louis is one of only five such centers across the nation dealing with thrombosis that have been recently created by the National Heart and Lung Institute. In addition, 13 centers in atherosclerosis, 11 in pulmonary disease, and 5 in hypertension were also established this summer at other medical centers.

Clotting, or thrombotic disease, is becoming an increasingly important cause of disability and death as infectious diseases respond to antibiotic therapy, as advances in operative techniques permit more extensive surgery, and as public health measures, designed to control or eliminate noxious environmental factors, become increasingly effective. This relative increase in thromboembolic phenomena is, in part, related to an increased awareness of the ubiquity of thrombosis. It is further compounded, however, by the possibility that we are also experiencing an absolute as well as a relative increase in thrombotic disease. It can be stated categorically that thrombotic phenomena in their various forms represent the number one health hazard to the American public today. In the view of some researchers the incidence of the thrombotic process has reached epidemic proportions and is striking down middle-aged Americans in the prime of life — it is not a disease process restricted to the elderly.

Thrombosis cuts across almost all branches of medical practice. Thus, thrombotic episodes are frequently associated with initial and recurrent episodes of coronary thrombosis, major and minor strokes valvular heart disease, irregularities of the cardiac rhythm and congestive heart failure. Thrombosis is also associated with shock, several types of intestinal malfunction, gangrene of the extremities, certain infections, and cancer. Clotting is the most common cause of death in elderly patients kept in bed after fractures of the hip. Thrombosis is also a hazard accompanying most major and otherwise successful surgical procedures, the use of estrogens as in “the pill” to prevent pregnancy, and in the management of major body injury.

The major thrust of the joint effort in the thrombosis center will be to evaluate, among patients prone to develop blood clots, the predictability of clotting as measured by a variety of new biochemical and radiochemical tests. The theme relating most to the clinical projects will be the unraveling of the process of clotting sufficiently to recognize the phenomenon in its incipient stages. This will facilitate evaluation of presently available methods of treating and dissolving thrombi and will also provide the essential groundwork for testing new compounds that are becoming available for the treatment of patients with thrombosis.
The BIG Game
(With Apologies to Ernest Lawrence Thayer’s Casey at the Bat)

The outlook, it was grim, for the front office men that day
For they knew that to beat the Team they’d have to play . . . and pray,
And so their best they gave it, to avoid being overwhelmed
For the Team had more than talent, they’d Levoid Johnson at the helm.

Oh, for this special game Levoid umped behind the plate
But for the regular season he’d managed, and been great,
But now he called the balls and strikes, and did a perfect job
While Jason Blake the bases umped, and nary a player’d he rob.

The crowd, they really ‘dug it’, to use the vernacular
When the Team sped to an early lead, albeit not by far,
But then administration scored one run, two, then three
And forced the Team to give its best, or lose the game you see.

The hard fought battle raged along for o’er an hour and more
With the throngs in attendance there cheering ‘till their throats got sore,
They’d cheer first for Armour, as he pitched with joy and glee
And then they’d roar again for a hit from Mr. Gee.

And when Ron Verner made a play, or Ollie Stevenson
It mattered not their team to them, this game was now for fun,
And so although the final score was the team on top by five
The players and fans felt simple joy, ‘twas good to be alive
On a day so nice as this when the sun shone in St. Louis.
And Albrecht, Scheff and Mosblech finally got their muscles loose.

The Team, with Ivory Kelly running gracefully in left,
Was happy to have won it, for their playing it was deft,
But the real joy of competing, when the winner mattered little
Eased the pain of all those basehits, round the end, and up the middle.

Perhaps that’s why the game may now become a standard thing
When once a year or maybe more front office has its fling,
For in the Team they play the best, there is no doubt of that
Even Ruth would have felt pride, if upon their bench he sat.
NURSES ENJOY ANNUAL PICNIC

June 23 dawned bright, clear and hot—normal for a St. Louis summer day. June 23 was also normal for the nurses at the Hospital—typically busy and involved, with little time for relaxation... until 4 o’clock.

For 4 o’clock was when the pinatas started breaking, the water splashing in the pool, the hamburgers cooking, and the nurses generally having a great time at the annual Nurses Picnic hosted by Mrs. Stanley M. Cohen.

The picnic, held from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m., was its usual rousing success. The approximately 130 nurses present worked their way through 200 hamburgers, 17 cases of sodas, untold gallons of potato salad, cole slaw, baked beans and other added attractions supplied by Bo Axelrod; and then gratefully escaped the heat of the day with a dip in Mrs. Cohen’s spacious pool.

Along with the delightful swimming, there was a continuous game of badminton, bingo later in the evening, and a chance to socialize with other nurses and friends.

Taking a blind swing at the pinata was one of the picnic’s highlights.

Hamburgers cooking on an open flame is what picnics are all about.

Cool water on a hot day enticed these two nurses.

It was a great day for the nurses, and the Committee on Nursing receives the plaudits for preparing the festivities. The committee members are: Mrs. Stanley M. Cohen, Mrs. Charles Steiner, Mrs. Ben Senturia, Mrs. Donald Dickler, Mrs. Jack Edlin, Mrs. Harry Franc, Jr., Mrs. Gunter Schmidt, Mrs. John Isaacs, Jr., Mrs. Tobias Lewin, Mrs. Morton D. May, Mrs. Harry Milton, Mrs. Gordon Scherck, Mrs. Charles Rice, Mrs. M. Erwin Bry, Jr., and Mrs. Jacob Probstain.
SERVICE AWARDS TEA

HOSPITAL HONORS EMPLOYEES

In 1945 the marines landed on Iwo Jima; the United Nations Charter was drafted at San Francisco; Germany unconditionally surrendered; the first atomic bomb was exploded at Alamogordo, New Mexico, followed by the August 6 bomb on Hiroshima that signaled the end of World War II; Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., published his Pulitzer Prize history, The Age of Jackson; and Dorothy Zimmermann, Leatha McCaroll, and Margaret Henson began working at the Jewish Hospital.

“I remember the old front of the building. It had a lovely front porch that the ambulance entrance ran under. We really had a family-type group then; you really felt that you knew everyone. Now, with thousands of employees, we’ve lost a little of that feeling. It’s certainly been a wonderful 25 years.” -- Dorothy Zimmermann, Chief Nurse Anesthetist.

In 1950 President Truman announced a United States program to develop a hydrogen bomb; Wisconsin Senator Joseph R. McCarthy wrote a letter to the President charging that the State Department was heavily infiltrated by Communists; “A Bushel and a Peck” and “Sam’s Song” were popular songs; and David A. Gee, Marsha Woody, Lorraine Brown, and George Home began working at the Jewish Hospital.

“In 1950 Jewish Hospital was a community hospital of 298 beds. It was a quiet and friendly place, and its greatest problems were replacing the balconies on the front of the building and stopping the leak in the 7th floor roof. It was then in the interim period between the deprivations of war and the explosion in medical and scientific patient care that took place in the next decade. Within 18 months of my coming to the Hospital, the dramatic changes had started and the excitement of expansion and program development had occurred.” -- David A. Gee, Executive Director.

In 1955 Israelis and Egyptians clashed in a battle on the Gaza Strip, the U.N. Security Council condemned Israel as the aggressor; President Eisenhower suffered a heart attack while in Colorado; The Diary of Anne Frank won the New York Drama Critic's Award for best play; and Vernice Dismukes, Betty Briggs, Rita Rutledge, Lillian C. Dennis, Bozena Kallus, and Dolores Biggins joined the growing staff of the Jewish Hospital.

"Fifteen years ago one could compare Jewish Hospital to a large family as everyone here knew everyone else; not always by name but certainly by face, or he or she could be identified with a certain area of the Hospital. Since that time the Hospital has been meeting the challenges of the community and as it has grown new people have joined us. Today it is impossible to know everyone but I'm proud to be a part of an institution that is doing so much for so many." - Lillian K. Dennis, Residence Director, School of Nursing.

In 1960 the U.S. Court of Appeals ruled that Lady Chatterley's Lover was not obscene and could be sent through the mails; Lieutenant Don Walsh and Jacques Piccard set a new ocean diving record in the bathyscaphe Trieste when they descended to a depth of 35,800 feet in the Marianas Trench, near Guam; Congress passed the Civil Rights Act of 1960, allowing federal authorities to step in when state voting registration practices are questioned; and 19 members of the present employee staff joined the burgeoning Jewish Hospital.

Then, five years later in 1965, the Beatles starred in Hard Days Night; President Johnson promised a "Great Society"; Martin Luther King Jr., led a protest march from Selma, Ala. that totalled 25,000 people; and 51 more present employees joined a Hospital that was, by then, recognized as one of the nation's top medical institutions.

It is the people who work there that make a great Hospital great. Only with their years of dedication and loyalty can the Jewish Hospital continue to grow and prosper as one of the nation's finest hospitals.

It is a sign of the Hospital's effectiveness and community support, that so many who work here remain for many, many years. The Service Awards Tea is just one small way in which the Jewish Hospital repays those who have given years of devotion. Those shown on these pages represent 690 combined years of service, certainly a remarkable total and a tribute to their dedication.
World Traveler
At Hospital

An around the world trip is every man's dream, and Richard Bulmer's reality. The 23-year-old English medical student, now serving as Administrative Resident at the Hospital, is taking two years off from his studies to travel the world before resuming his last two years of medical school at Oxford.

"I hope to see as much as I can of North America before crossing the Pacific," Richard said. His plans call for a relatively brief stay in Canada, then on to Alaska. After visiting other portions of this continent, it will be on to such ports of call as Hawaii, New Zealand, Australia, India, and North Africa.

His visit in St. Louis is his first stop, other than a two-day stay in New York, and he has found the city "typical of American towns. People seem to be moving toward the suburbs, leaving a ghetto in the city area.

Parking Garage Nears Completion

Progress is becoming very obvious as the new parking garage nears its scheduled completion. The two cranes from atop the six-story structure were removed about mid-August, and the elevators are currently being installed.

"We expect to open the new facility in mid-September or sooner," said Jason P. Blake, associate director of the Hospital. The new garage will hold 571 cars, greatly easing the parking burden that has faced the Hospital in the past.

Nadean Wright Coordinates Education Conference

Nadean Wright, R.N., CCSS, director of Central Medical Surgical Supply Services at the Hospital, was Program Coordinator for an International Association of Hospital Central Service Management Education Conference held June 21-23 at the Chase-Park Plaza Hotel.

Mrs. Wright said that the theme of the conference was "Distribution and Storage – Its Problems." The first day of the meeting was taken up with registration and greetings, followed by a keynote speech by associate director of the Hospital, Jason P. Blake, speaking on "The Role of the Central Supply Supervisor in Total Process Stores and Distribution." That speech was followed by Mrs. Wright, speaking on "Requirements and Guidelines for Sterile Storage."

Another speaker from the Hospital at the Conference was Lois Burgard, B.A.M.T., supervisor in the Department of Microbiology on "Do We Also Store Bacteria?"

Mrs. Wright is the secretary of the International Association of Hospital Central Service Management. At this meeting there were 76 registrants from 20 states and Canada.
Softballers End Season With 10-3 Mark

A heart-breaking 9-8 loss to KAC ended the season prematurely for the Hospital’s softball team. A towering homerun by KAC in the bottom of the seventh nullified the gallant come-from-behind efforts of the Hospital team, led by the clutch base hit in the top of the seventh by Charles Noble.

The game was a play-off between the two teams, after they tied for the league crown with identical 10-2 season marks. They had split the two games played during the regular season, necessitating the playoff.

“It’s a shame we lost it,” admitted team manager Levoid Johnson of Maintenance. “This was the best team we’ve ever had in the four years we have been together, and yet it is the only year we haven’t won a trophy.

“We just made too many mistakes in that last game,” admitted Johnson. “We had the hitting, but our errors were costly.”

With basketball next on the agenda for the Hospital’s amateur athletes, softball manager Johnson had one comment to his players. “We start the second week of April,” he joked, when asked about the team’s spring training, “and everybody is welcome to join us.”

Rabbi Lawrence Siegel, the Jewish Federation Community Chaplain, has invited all patients, visitors and staff members to attend the Jewish High Holy Day Services. Patients must have their doctor’s permission to attend and should ask their nurse about transportation to and from the services.

May You All Be Inscribed For a Good Year

Potpourri

Miss Margaret Loh, R.N., director of nursing and nursing service at the Hospital, has been installed as president of the Soroptimist Club of St. Louis.

The Hospital has received a bequest of $1,500 from the estate of Augusta Freund Littmann. The bequest has been made in memory of Mrs. Littmann’s late husband, Edgar, and is being directed to Dr. Ben Senturia, director of Otolaryngology, for research studies involving diseases of the inner ear.

Oliver Stevenson, Chief Inhalation Therapy Technician, has also undertaken the supervisory responsibility for the Heart Station and EEG – Endoscopy Laboratory. Mr. Stevenson has also been appointed co-chairman for the United Fund.

J. Russell Little, Jr., M.D., has been awarded a $41,852 grant from the Public Health Service for “A Study of Immunoglobulin and Membrane Active Sites.”

Candy Stripers Provide Summer Help

Candy Stripers, those helpful teenagers who contribute their summers to help ease the load on overworked Hospital personnel, aren’t always given credit for the jobs they handle.

Being a Candy Striper doesn’t mean just doing little odd jobs, running errands, and doing clerical work. While those jobs may be part of it (and an important part at that), there very often is quite a bit more involved.

Take Larry Schankman for example. Larry, a ninth grader at Parkway Junior High, spends a great deal of his time as a Teen-Aider (the boys’ version of the Candy Striper) in the Hematology Department, and not just running errands.

“Larry does a number of things for us,” asserts Mr. Irman Grant, B.S., M.T. (A.S.C.P.), Supervisor of Hematology. “He makes blood slides and differential counts; cleans slides and files them in numerical sequence; goes to the outpatient lab every half hour where the blood is drawn; checks blood in and lists the tests, then pulls the charged copies; and then he matches up the blood with requisitions on the master cards and gives the blood the proper number.”

Does that sound like enough to fill the 12:30 to 3:30 time slot Larry works in Hematology Monday through Thursday? “That sounds like a lot, but it doesn’t include the clerical things he does,” states Mr. Grant. “He assists in recording the entire day’s work on the daily log sheet, then takes the log sheets to Pathology to be Xeroxed. After that he takes the copies — 15 of each — and delivers them to the 15 different nursing stations.”

Obviously Larry likes Hematology. “I love it,” he says. “It’s very interesting, and it gives me an idea of how different functions of the Hospital work because it gets me around the Hospital a lot.”

At 14 years of age, Larry has his future pretty much decided. “I’ll be a doctor,” he has announced. And he has a pretty good head start in that direction.

“Larry is very bright and interested,” admits Mr. Grant. “Wherever he is going in life, I’m sure that he’ll get there.”

Of course, all Candy Stripers aren’t involved in manners quite so important. While Larry Schankman is busy identifying blood specimens, other members of the teenage task force may be delivering mail, working in the other labs around the Hospital, helping out in the storeroom, or working in places like the Medical Intensive Care Unit.

“They are really getting something out of it,” asserts Miss Marguerite Odell, director of Volunteer Services. “We have about twice as many teenagers involved this year as last year. And they call us up and ask to do additional days.

“The main idea is to expose them to the health care field. While they are helping us, we are helping them. The majority have stated that they want to continue on weekends and after school in the fall and winter.”
Psychology Interns in Expanded Program

The work day of any intern is interesting. The learning process that a young doctor goes through is a constant grind of stimulation, assimilation, and application. But for most interns the main concern is the human body. That is not the case with Peter DiNardo.

Pete is one of two psychology interns at the Hospital. As such his main concern is with the human mind, its problems and their solutions.

A graduate of Cortland State University in New York, and a psychology Ph.D. candidate at Washington U. in St. Louis, Pete has been interning at the Hospital since September of 1970, and this Fall will leave the Hospital to resume his studies at Washington U.

"I have one more year of course work, and a dissertation left at Washington U."

Then, hopefully, will come a move back to the Northeast, an area that both he and his wife (also a psychology major) prefer.

The psychology intern program that Pete embarked upon at the Hospital is a relatively new one. According to Dr. Norman J. Matulef, Psychologist-in-Chief, "Pete and Carl Hoppe are the first full-time psychology interns we’ve had. For the past two years we have had some interns on a half-time basis."

"I think it’s a fine program," says Pete. "It’s been exceptional in that I’ve had a real interchange between myself, Dr. Matulef, and the rest of the people involved in the program.

"We operate on an individual supervisor approach here. I have individual supervisors, including Dr. Matulef, and we discuss cases. It is an exceptional educational opportunity."

Psychologists are faced today with what Pete terms "a lot of different approaches to problems. One of the difficulties of the field is that it is changing. There are many different ways for an intern to go after he finishes his course and clinical work." He still feels that his training at the Hospital has been quite suitable for any possible future contingencies.
"The training I’ve gotten here will be useful almost anywhere. It involves some very basic clinical skills. In general I’ve been very pleased with the program here. It is flexible and uses a dynamic approach. Whether I go into private practice, working for a university somewhere, another clinic or agency, or even consulting with other psychologists, my training here will have me prepared with the basics."

Those basics include the three phases of psychology training: intake, therapy, and evaluation.

"Intake is when the people come in for the first time to be seen. They are referred to us either by private physicians, other clinics in the Hospital, or on their own. These are people with adjustment problems. Along with the intake comes therapy. Hopefully the two processes aren’t very different.

"The basic clinical skills I have obtained here are a good start for any of the directions I may go after leaving."

"Then, after a staff conference on the patient, we may have further evaluation." He adds that "It often happens that I might be involved in all three phases on a patient."

During a normal work week Pete will see seven or eight patients in therapy. He also will see some patients for intake and psychological testing. After the initial intake, the patient may be referred to one of the Department of Psychiatry’s services such as the inpatient unit, individual or group therapy in the outpatient clinic, or to some other community resource. This program also includes a variety of formal seminars.

"It makes for a busy learning experience, but one which will thoroughly prepare him for any of the possible avenues that may follow. "The basic clinical skills I obtain here are a good start for any of the directions I may go after leaving," he says.

The overall program in the Division of Psychology includes Pete and Carl as full-time interns, and Shari Servis and Abe Fenger as pre-internship trainees. In the coming Fall there will be three full-timers.

The clinical psychology training program is under the supervision of the Division of Psychology, Department of Psychiatry and is part of the department’s complete mental health teaching program. Psychologists, psychiatrists and social workers are involved in teaching and supervising full-time and part-time interns.

Franz U. Steinberg, M.D., was a member of a panel on “Resources and Facilities for Arthritis” at the Governor’s Conference on Arthritis in Jefferson City, May, 1971.

Robert M. Senior, M.D., director of the Pulmonary Division at Jewish Hospital and Assistant Professor of Medicine at Washington University, has been awarded a Trudeau Fellowship by the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

Morton Levy, M.D., director of the Hospital’s Blood Bank and Clinical Instructor in Medicine at Washington University, has developed a clinical platelet laboratory at the Hospital that is now available for the sophisticated workup of patients with essentially any type of platelet abnormality.

Samuel W. Gollub, M.D., has been named Assistant Professor of Clinical Pediatrics at Washington University, effective July 1, 1971.

Jerome J. Gilden, M.D., has been elected secretary of the Board of Directors of the Jewish Community Centers Association of St. Louis at the Association’s annual meeting.

August W. Geise, M.D., gave a speech on “Treatment of Spontaneous Subarachnoid Hemorrhage Secondary to Rupture of Intercranial Aneurysms by Common Carotid Occlusion” at the Missouri Chapter of the American College of Surgeons meeting on May 8, 1971 at Tan-Tar-A in the Lake of the Ozarks. Dr. Geise also gave a speech entitled “Low Molecular Weight Dextran” to the Neurosurgical Society of America meeting at The Cloister, Sea Island, Ga., May 9-12.

Irwin B. Horwitz, M.D., attended the American College of Surgeons Post Graduate course on Trauma, May 6-8 in Chicago. Dr. Horwitz was also recently named Associate Clinical Professor Emeritus of the Orthopedic Surgery at St. Louis University Medical School.

Samuel D. Soule, M.D., gave a paper on “Pregnancy Following Cessation of Monthly Injections of an Estrogenic-Progesterin Contraceptive Agent,” in the North American Conference on Fertility and Sterility in Puerto Vallarta, Mexico. The paper is to be published later. Dr. Soule was also a Moderator of a Conference on Teenage Emergencies of the American Fertility Society in New Orleans in March. Dr. Soule was author of a chapter of “Gynecologic Aspects of Aging” in a Cowdry and Steinberg textbook on Aging.
Dr. Michael Somogyi, Biochemist Emeritus, Dies Recently

Michael Somogyi, Ph.D., biochemist emeritus at the Jewish Hospital, died recently, leaving a legacy of work on biochemistry that is known throughout the world.

Somogyi began his medical career in America as a research assistant at The Cornell University Medical School, following his obtaining of a doctorate in Biochemistry at the University of Budapest. After several years at Cornell Somogyi returned to his native Hungary, and then came again to the United States after the first World War.

In 1926, the year that The Jewish Hospital moved to its present location on South Kingshighway from 5415 Delmar, Somogyi was asked to serve as the Hospital’s clinical chemist. In 1955, after almost three decades of service, he became Biochemist Emeritus. He was honored with the Ernst Bischoff Award (1953) and the Donald D. Van Slyke Award (1964) by his peers, and was well-known for his controversial work on insulin.

Somogyi was a firm believer that diabetes often can be controlled through proper dieting, and that insulin treatment frequently aggravates the disease instead of producing beneficial effects. The dedication of a book, Standard Methods of Clinical Chemistry, acknowledged his efforts by stating that “Our awareness of this diabetogenic rebound effect, mediated by mobilization of insulin antagonists in response to hypoglycemia, stands as a legacy to his research in carbohydrate metabolism.”

The vocabulary of medicine now uses terms such as the Somogyi unit and the Somogyi effect, relating to his contributions in measurement of amylase, an enzyme which helps convert starch into sugar in the blood.

Dr. Kenneth Russ Appointed as Staff Psychologist

Dr. Kenneth L. Russ has been appointed Staff Psychologist and Assistant Director of Psychology Training in the Department of Psychiatry at the Hospital.

Prior to his recent appointment Dr. Russ was a Postdoctoral Fellow in Adult Psychology at the University of Colorado Medical Center and received his doctorate from the University of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Russ’ responsibilities will include participation in the clinical and teaching programs of the Department of Psychiatry at the Hospital.

His research interests are in the areas of conditioning of peripheral vasodilation and the investigation of operant autonomic techniques for the treatment of psychosomatic disorders.
Emergency Room
Always Ready

Since the size of the Emergency Room was doubled less than a year ago, the number of patients facilities daily has greatly increased.

The Forest Park doors swing wide
It happens approximately 61 times a day. The Forest Park doors swing wide, and a patient enters the Emergency Room of the Hospital.

The Hospital Emergency Room, located on the ground floor, east of the Forest Park Ambulance Entrance, provides 24-hour emergency medical and surgical care for dozens of patients a day - excellent care that many could receive in few other places.

In the Emergency Room there are five examining rooms, one surgical treatment room, two special treatment rooms, and a utility room in the emergency suite. At times the Emergency Room is also used by physicians to consult with and treat their private patients.

"We try to have each patient as quickly as possible, striving to offer the best care available in the St. Louis area," said Head Nurse Smith.

Using an obvious program of need, extreme emergency patients taken directly to the Emergency Room.
upon arrival at the Hospital. For most Emergency Room patients, however, the first visit is a brief one to the Ambulatory Care Center at the Forest Park Avenue Ambulance Entrance, where necessary information about the patient is obtained. After this brief session the patient is directed, or escorted if that is necessary, to the Emergency Room.

Emergency Room Head Nurse Linda Smith gives a tetanus booster to Security Guard Phil Minnella.

"We Strive to Provide the Best Care in This Area"

The normal procedure is for the Emergency Room personnel to contact the physicians of the patients requiring medical or surgical treatment. Patients accepted under this arrangement are treated and examined by House Staff only if the private physician is not available. In extreme emergencies, however, the House Staff doctors may treat patients pending the arrival of the private physician.

Nurse Judy Cooksey and Dr. Kevin Pranikoff help a patient in one of the Emergency Room’s five examining rooms.
The Nurses’ Internship program began June 14 and will end September 2. Miss Nettie McCoy was absent when the picture was taken.

Mr. Robert Wegusen, Co-chairman of the Men’s Advisory Committee for the 1972 Clover Ball, deposits one of the many checks already received for tickets to the gala event. The next issue of “216” will feature a story on the progress and planning for this winter’s Ball.

Contributions to Jewish Hospital Funds

Contributions received are used for research, appliances for clinic patients, new equipment, and other worthy undertakings, sponsored by the Jewish Hospital Auxiliary.

The following memorial and honorarium contributions were received during the period April 1 to May 31, 1971. Any contributions received after May 31, 1971, will be listed in the next 216.

Contributions to this fund may be made by sending checks, payable to the Jewish Hospital Tribute Fund, c/o Mrs. A. Ernest Stein, Mrs. Harry W. Loeb, 216 South Kingshighway, St. Louis, Missouri 63110.
