Grecian columns rise majestically on this month’s cover as a forecast of the glamorous evening on January 22, which will be enjoyed by patrons and guests at the 1972 Clover Ball.

Our readers will be interested in knowing that the stock in this issue is re-cycled paper.
Between the Pages

With the Clover Ball on the immediate horizon, it seemed only fitting that this issue of the “216” should be primarily devoted to that prestigious event. The ladies who have spent many long months in preparation for the Ball can be justifiably proud of their work; this Ball promises to be the best yet.

Of course, that isn’t all that is contained herein. Coverage of the Auxiliary’s Conclave (mentioned in the last issue of “216”) and a story and coverage of the Associates’ very interesting tour of some of the Hospital’s facilities are also featured.

The parking garage, in use for some weeks now, is once again pictured, as is the new Cushman cart that Hospital Security Guard Grier Dennis can be seen in patrolling the new building.

These, plus the Medical Staff News, a variety of miscellaneous photos and short subjects make this one of the best issues yet. We hope you like it.

The Editor
In the not too distant future, the seeds sewn by the upcoming Clover Ball will be reaped.

The harvest will come for those with medical problems that require observation, but not hospitalization. Until quite recently, when a prototype Observation Unit was established in the Emergency Room at the Hospital, such a patient had to be monitored by medical personnel while in the Emergency Room itself, a process that took valuable time, and involved the patient's waiting on a stretcher or examining table.

The prototype Observation Room, however, proved conclusively that a fully equipped room, complete with monitors, and staffed with R.N.'s, could effectively relieve the congestion that otherwise might occur in the Emergency Room, and, more importantly, provide excellent care for the patient who has a prognosis for leaving for home within 12 hours.

The Ball, which, as a St. Louis Post-Dispatch story noted, does a far better job than most charity balls in providing funds for its projects, will provide ample money for the addition of six to eight new Observation Units in the soon to be enlarged and remodeled Emergency Rooms at the Hospital.

The gala Clover Ball, to be held once again in the Khorassan Room of the Chase-Park Plaza Hotel on Lindell, is just a short time away, January 22.

This time the theme revolvs around classic antiquity, with Ionic pillars, murals, Grecian urns and other artifacts from the Golden Ages decorating the Khorassan Room.

Del Dace, who serves as master scenic artist for the Municipal Opera and coordinator of art education for the Ladue School District, is serving as designer for the Clover Ball.

"I'd be careful about putting the designs in any one period," Dace noted in an interview about the Ball with the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. "We'll be creating more of an overall classic theme."

Mrs. Edwin G. Shifrin has her hair prepared for her modeling in the Auxiliary's Fall Fashion Show.
Fashion Show Features
Ball Gowns

In partial preparation for the Auxiliary-sponsored Clover Ball, a fashion show was held in conjunction with the Auxiliary’s annual Fall Meeting. The Dessert Tea and Fashion Show was held at the Westwood Country Club in late October, with Fashion Director Miss Jackie Block serving as commentator. A showing of courtier gowns gave the women in attendance a number of sparkling ideas for their gowns for the Ball.

Mrs. Joseph F. Ruwitch, chairman of the 1972 Clover Ball, is resplendent in a gown of white chiffon with beaded bodice.

A highlight of the Show was the appearance of Mr. Finn Birger Christensen of Copenhagen who presented a preview showing of his new fur collection.

The Stix, Baer and Fuller fashion show was important as well as beautiful. Stix stocked just one of each of the 65 outfits modeled, allowing the lucky ladies to choose from the selections shown without fear of duplication at the Ball.

Informative and entertaining talks by Stanford Wessler, M.D., Physician-in-Chief at the Hospital, and Arthur E. Baue, M.D., Surgeon-in-Chief at the Hospital, highlighted the recent biennial Presidents' Dinner.

Dr. Wessler opened the series of talks, after being introduced by Edward B. Greensfelder, President of the Hospital Board of Directors and host for the evening.

"I think one of the important things (about the Hospital)," said Dr. Wessler, while showing slides in conjunction with his talk, "is that this Hospital does have a heart, and I mean it in the double sense of the word. I think that almost all of the investigators are here not just because they are interested in research, but particularly because they are interested in applying their research to the relief of patients."

The application of research to the patient was shown with slides of the Medical Intensive Care Unit, Cardiac Cath Lab, and Pulmonary Function Lab, all of which have been developed because of extensive research in recent years into monitoring systems and the function of the heart and lungs.

Dr. Krone detailed the procedures involved in the Cardiac Cath Lab, which he directs. Using a case study, Dr. Krone explained how the lab allows the surgeons to make an accurate appraisal of potential damage to the heart, and thus the surgeon is able to decide on the proper surgical procedure, if one is needed.

"In the treatment of coronary artery disease he (Dr. Krone) has to demonstrate for us exactly where the blocks are and we, hopefully, can deal with them," said Dr. Baue, in reference to the Cardiac Cath Lab’s importance.

Dr. Baue also noted that “the development of a center for the diagnosis and treatment of thoracic and cardiovascular pulmonary disease at the Jewish Hospital has been something that is a team, or joint, effort of the Department of Medicine and the Department of Surgery. These are so intertwined and interlocked that one cannot go on without the other . . . .”
Dr. Krone, and the diagnostic facilities that he directs, “must come first,” noted Dr. Baue, but the overall efforts toward total patient care “requires development of a team which can work together to meet emergencies, can deal with problems, and can work smoothly along in order to have excellent results.”

Mr. Greensfelder, commenting about the Presidents’ Dinner, noted that it “is one way we have of telling our community about some of the exciting things that are going on at the Jewish Hospital. It is only through active concern of St. Louis leaders, that we are able to communicate the complete story of Jewish Hospital and our vital relationship with the Washington University Medical School.”

More than 100 presidents of Jewish agencies, organizations, and synagogues attended the Presidents’ Dinner.
New Parking Garage Open to the Public

Grier Dennis, a member of the Hospital’s Security Patrol, is shown in the newly acquired Cushman Police Vehicle. The cart is used by members of the Hospital Guard Force to survey the new multi-level parking garage and adjacent parking lots.

The Hospital’s new $2 million multi-level parking garage was opened to the public in November, completing Phase I of the Expansion Program for Excellence in Health Care. Entrance to the 571-car garage is on Parkview Place.

AUXILIARY CONCLAVE

The Hospital Auxiliary’s Conclave, held in early November, was a success, both in that a great deal of information was exchanged by Auxiliary members from a number of different parts of the midwest, and in that an enjoyable time was had by the ladies in attendance.

In response to an invitation from the Hospital’s Auxiliary, more than 20 delegates from hospitals in cities as far-flung as Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Des Moines, and Detroit (to name just a few) were in attendance.

The three-day agenda for the Conclave included a get-together for coffee and informal discussion, a tour of the Hospital, and general discussion on Auxiliary-oriented problems and their solutions, ranging from Volunteer Programs through Membership Services and Fund-Raising Projects.

A convivial get-together began the Conclave, allowing the various Auxiliary representatives to meet one another and exchange ideas.
ASSOCIATES TOUR
HOSPITAL FACILITIES

A recent tour of three important areas of the Hospital gave dozens of Associates an “inside” look at some of the diagnostic and monitoring equipment in use at the Hospital.

The Associates tour, which followed an explanatory talk by Arthur E. Baue, Surgeon-in-Chief and Harry Edison Professor of Surgery at the Hospital, took in the Cardiac Catheterization Laboratory, the Pulmonary Function Laboratory and the Medical Intensive Care Unit. Robert Senior, M.D., Director of the Pulmonary Lab; Herbert Zimmerman, M.D., Physician, Heart Station; and Ronald Krone, M.D., Director of the Cardiac Catheterization Lab, explained the workings of their respective areas.

The tour was followed by refreshments and an informal question and answer period.

The Medical Intensive Care Unit at the Hospital, which was provided for initially through the generosity of the Hospital Auxiliary, provides immediate comprehensive care for acutely ill medical patients.

The monitoring equipment used in the MICU, constructed on a “non-obsolescence principle,” provides optimum observation of patients by nursing and medical personnel. The unit is staffed by registered nurses, practical nurses, aides, orderlies and physicians.

The Pulmonary Laboratory, directed by Robert Senior, M.D., gives an approximate indication of the functional level of the lungs.

cardiac cath lab

The Cardiac Catheterization Laboratory, directed by Ronald Krone, M.D., measures and evaluates the pressures in the four chambers of the heart, the pulmonary artery and the aorta.

The measuring and evaluation is done through the injecting of contrast material into the heart. The injecting is achieved through a catheter, or small, long tube, which is inserted either through the groin area or a “cut-down” in the arm, and then maneuvered through the arteries into the heart area involved.
MARY McKEEVER
GIVEN AWARD

Miss Mary McKeever, long a prime mover in medical social work in both the St. Louis area and the Mid-west, and for 20 years the Director of the Department of Social Services at the Hospital, was recently awarded the Jewish Federation of St. Louis' annual Fred A. Goldstein Memorial Service Award.

The award, given annually to give recognition to outstanding professionals in Jewish Community service, was presented to Miss McKeever by Federation President Louis I. Zorensky.

OLD NEWSBOYS 'HAWK' PAPERS FOR CHARITY

The Old Newsboys hit the street again this year for the Hospital, receiving donations from passing motorists to add their total to the money collected for needy children in the Globe-Democrat's Old Newsboys Day charity drive.

This year's old newsboys collected $113.45.

Psychology Interns Named

Three advanced graduate students have received appointments as full-time psychology interns for 1971-1972. The students, from St. Louis University, are Jane Becker, Mark Harrington and Michael Keister. The appointments were announced by Dr. Norman J. Matulef, Psychologist-in-Chief, Division of Psychology, Department of Psychiatry, as part of an expanded program for the training of professional psychologists who will provide evaluative, therapeutic and consultative services for the community.

The Department of Psychiatry offers the Training Program in Clinical Psychology for graduate students enrolled in university programs leading to the doctoral degree. Training is offered at the internship and post-internship levels and several pre-intern traineeships are available. Intensive supervised clinical experience and training in a broad psychodynamic, interpersonal and sociocultural contest is the basis for training.

The program is an integral part of the complete mental health teaching program of the Department of Psychiatry. Dr. Nathan M. Simon is Director of the Department. Full-time psychologists at Jewish Hospital, in addition to Dr. Matulef, are Dr. Kenneth Russ, Assistant Director of Psychology Training, Mrs. Louise Cone, Staff Psychologist and Mr. Larry Bass who is in the Department of Rehabilitation.

Psychologists on the associate medical staff of the department also act as instructors in the training program. They are Dr. Melvin Muroff, Mrs. Libby Bass and two recent appointments in private practice, and Dr. Syd Kasper, Chief Psychologist of the Saint Louis County Mental Health Department and psychologist in private practice.

Board Sponsors Wine Tasting for Physicians

Jewish Hospital physicians were guests of honor at a Wine Tasting Party in November sponsored by the Hospital Board of Directors.

The Wine Tasting, which was held in the Moses Shoenberg Memorial School of Nursing Auditorium, followed the Semi Annual Meeting of the Medical Staff Association which featured Dr. Gerald Perkoff, of Washington University Medical School, as guest speaker.

Eugene C. Weissman, president of 905 Liquor Stores and chairman of the Community Relations Committee of the Board of Directors, coordinated the activity.

Dr. Robert Kleiger pours a sampling of wine for his table companions. French cheese and bread accompanied the wines.
Saul Boyarsky, M.D., wrote a chapter titled “Pyelonephritis” in Current Therapy, a book currently in press. Dr. Boyarsky also spoke at the International Urodynamics Symposium in Aachen, Germany, on “Urodynamic Concepts.” At the symposium Dr. Boyarsky also participated in three panel discussions, and chaired another.
