4-20-1989

Washington University Record, April 20, 1989

Follow this and additional works at: http://digitalcommons.wustl.edu/record

Recommended Citation
http://digitalcommons.wustl.edu/record/478

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Washington University Publications at Digital Commons@Becker. It has been accepted for inclusion in Washington University Record by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons@Becker. For more information, please contact engeszer@wustl.edu.

Washington University in St. Louis

Vol. 13 No. 28/April 20, 1989

$1 million gift from alumna will establish economics chair

Chancellor William H. Danforth has announced a $1 million commitment by Robin E. Herrnreich, a 1967 graduate of the University.

According to Danforth, the gift will be used to establish an endowed chair to benefit the University's John M. Olm School of Business and Faculty of Arts and Sciences. Herrnreich initially will seek a top scholar in international economics who will be known as the Herrnreich Distinguished Professor of Economics.

"We are absolutely delighted to receive this magnificent commitment from Robin Herrnreich, one of our most distinguished young alumni. We believe he is the youngest alumnus ever to make a commitment of this size to Washington University. His enlightened and generous gift will help us strengthen our faculty in economics," said Herrnreich, a native of Fort Smith, Ark., an entrepreneur who is chairman of United States Repeating Arms Co., maker of legendary Winchester guns.

Last year, Herrnreich sold Tuffi Packaging Co. to Sealed Air Corp. for $2 million, an event that involved to varying degrees, among other businesses, including broad casting and nursing homes.

Herrnreich started his business career in Jonesboro, Ark., in radio and television with his father, George T. Herrnreich, eventually owning four radio and four television stations in the areas near their hometown of Fort Smith. Herrnreich manages station KAIT in Jonesboro for 10 years, earning two Emmys and a Columbia- DuPont award.

Head football coach named

Larry Kindbom, head football coach at Kenyon College in Gambier, Ohio, since 1985, has been named head football coach at Washington University, according to John Schael, director of athletics.

"Kindbom succeeds Ken Woody, who coached the Bears in 1987 and '88 while compiling respective records of 1-9 and 2-3. Woody's contract for 1989-90 was not renewed.

At Kenyon, a 29-year-old Kindbom guided the Lords to three winning seasons in six years, including a 7-3 record in 1987 and 4-2 mark last season. Overall, he compiled a 28-30-1 record at Kenyon.

After graduating in 1974 from Kalamazoo College in Michigan, Kindbom began his coaching career there as assistant football and baseball coach. As a graduate assistant at Western Michigan University, he also served there as an assistant football coach in the spring of 1975.

In 1977 Kindbom became a graduate assistant coaching at the Ohio State University under Woody Hayes. Prior to taking his coaching position at Kenyon, Kindbom served as an assistant in the spring of 1973.

"There's no doubt we have a challenge in front of us, but all the elements of success are in place," says the Bear's new mentor. "Washington U. always has had the rich academic tradition, and they've also, at times, enjoyed the tremendous moments in football. These two elements make this coaching position exciting and challenging. While we have the resources here to do the job."

"Pride and tradition are the things that make Kenyon a vital campus; the5th head football coach at the Hilltop campus.

"I'm excited about the enthusiasm shown by the coaching staff," says Kindbom, a three-year member of the NCAA Division III National Champions, has enjoyed some memorable moments in football. The Bear's new mentor.

"The foundation of the program is good. The recent successes of other Washington sports teams are evidence that football can enjoy the same type of prosperity."

While at Kenyon, Kindbom is the fifth head football coach at the Hilltop campus.

Playwright, journalist Larry King to discuss writing in modern America

Playwright, journalist and author Larry L. King will deliver the Omnicon Delta Kappa (ODK) Honors Lecture in the Assembly Series at 11 a.m. Wednesday, April 26, in Graham Chapel. King's talk, titled "Writing in Modern America: a free and wild attack on public life," is from his book, "The Night Hank Williams Died." The lecture is co-sponsored by the Washington University Student Union and the Washington chapter of ODK, a national leadership honorary.

King's musical comedy "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas," for which he received 1,381 performances on Broadway, won two Tony Awards and was nominated for three. His book, "The Night Hank Williams Died," is currently running off-Broadway in New York City and last year the place received Theatre Lobby's Mary Goldwater Award as most innovative play of the Washington, D.C. season.

The recipient of the Sundal Walker Journalism Award for general excellence in reporting, King also won a television Emmy for a 1981 documentary on statehouse politics. His 1971 book, "Confessions of a White Racist," was nominated for a National Book Award.

King also is a features writer for the Washington Post, has had articles published in more than 50 periodicals, including the New Republic, Life and The New York Times Sunday Magazine. He has been an on-screen television correspondent for "CBS Reports" and "60 Minutes.

The lecture is co-sponsored by the Assembly Series and the Student Union. For information, call 889-5285.

ARCHIVES

Continued on p. 2
Juliet Hunter, co-anchorman for "CID Follies and Direction," will begin at 7 p.m. in Edison Theatre. Tickets cost $5 for adults, $2 for children under age 12, two will be admitted for the price of one adult ticket. All proceeds will go to the school's scholarship fund, which supports needy and worthy children at CID.

Central Institute for the Deaf kicks off 75th anniversary with fund-raising event

The school children at Central Institute for the Deaf (CID) are holding a fashion and folly extravaganza April 21 to raise money for their school and to kick off activities celebrating the 75th anniversary celebration.

The program, "CID Follies and Fashions International," will begin at 7 p.m. in Edison Theatre. Tickets cost $5 for adults, $2 for children under the age of 12, two will be admitted for the price of one adult ticket. All proceeds will go to the school's scholarship fund, which supports needy and worthy children at CID.

The children, ranging in age from 3 to 15, will model fashions from Famous-Barr and perform skits, song and dances with an international theme. A punch and cookies reception in the Edison Theatre lobby will follow the show.

Central Institute for the Deaf, part of the Washington University Medical Center, was founded in 1914 to teach the deaf to talk. The internationally known school has about 100 students who come from 14 states and four foreign countries. CID also is known for its speech and hearing clinic, its program preparing teachers to instruct the deaf, and numerous research projects. In January Richard G. Stoker, Ph.D., became director of the institute. He is the first person born deaf to head a major scientific and educational institution in this country.

In celebration of CID's 75th anniversary, 25 fund-raising parties will be hosted by friends of the institute all over the United States and eight foreign countries, including India, Japan and South Africa. Proceeds from the parties will benefit the scholarship fund.

Tickets to "CID Follies and Fashions International" can be purchased at the door or in advance by calling the school office at 652-5200.

Campus Y benefit dinner is planned

The annual Washington University fashion show, featuring designs by Famous Barr, will be held at 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. Thursday, April 27, in the Center of Contemporary Arts, 524 Trinity Ave., University City. The show will feature corresponding designs by renowned students in the University's fashion design program.

The nationally recognized design program that has fostered the talents of such well-known designers as Carol-yne Roehm and Gabriele Knecht continues to produce talented designers, says Jeff Singleton, associate professor of art and fashion design.

Singleton works to prepare the students for the fashion design world not only by encouraging creativity, but also by teaching them how to estimate production costs and calculate selling price. The annual fashion show provides practical experience for these future business people.

Annual fashion show features 11 designers

The annual Washington University fashion show, featuring designs by Famous Barr, will be held at 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. Thursday, April 27, in the Center of Contemporary Arts, 524 Trinity Ave., University City. The show will feature corresponding designs by renowned students in the University's fashion design program.

The nationally recognized design program that has fostered the talents of such well-known designers as Carol-yne Roehm and Gabriele Knecht continues to produce talented designers, says Jeff Singleton, associate professor of art and fashion design.

Singleton works to prepare the students for the fashion design world not only by encouraging creativity, but also by teaching them how to estimate production costs and calculate selling price. The annual fashion show provides practical experience for these future business people.

The A.E. Hotchner Playwriting Festival, featuring the work of Richard Byrne, a master's in physical education from Famous Barr, and flutist Betsy Feldman.

On July 4, in physical education. He earned a master's in physical education from Famous-Barr and performed skits, songs and dances with an international theme. A punch and cookies reception in the Edison Theatre lobby will follow the show.

Central Institute for the Deaf, part of the Washington University Medical Center, was founded in 1914 to teach the deaf to talk. The internationally known school has about 100 students who come from 14 states and four foreign countries. CID also is known for its speech and hearing clinic, its program preparing teachers to instruct the deaf, and numerous research projects. In January Richard G. Stoker, Ph.D., became director of the institute. He is the first person born deaf to head a major scientific and educational institution in this country.

In celebration of CID's 75th anniversary, 25 fund-raising parties will be hosted by friends of the institute all over the United States and eight foreign countries, including India, Japan and South Africa. Proceeds from the parties will benefit the scholarship fund.

Tickets to "CID Follies and Fashions International" can be purchased at the door or in advance by calling the school office at 652-5200.

Campus Y benefit dinner is planned

Juliet Hunter, co-anchorman for television station KMOV, will speak at a benefit dinner for Washington University's campus YMCA-YWCA at 6:30 p.m. Friday, April 28, at the Washington University Club, 200 N. 4th St. A social hour will begin at 5:30 p.m. Proceeds from the benefit will help fund 20 Campus Y student-led programs, ranging from those designed to raise consciousness regarding racism, world peace and hunger, to projects where students "Adopt A Grandparent," work with abused and neglected children, and help freshman make a smooth transition to college.

Some 360 Washington students are involved in volunteer projects through the Campus Y. An affiliate of both the YMCA and YWCA of St. Louis, the Campus Y has been a part of the University community for 77 years.

Music during the social hour and dinner will be provided by guitarist Alan Rosenskotter, administrative assistant in the Department of Music, and flutist Betty Feldman.

The cost for the dinner is $50 a person. To make reservations, call the Campus Y at 889-5010.

Hatchet's Playwriting Festival to showcase competition winners

The A.E. Hotchner Playwriting Festival, featuring the work of Richard Byrne, a master's in physical education from Famous Barr, and flutist Betsy Feldman.

On July 4, in physical education. He earned a master's in physical education from Famous-Barr and performed skits, songs and dances with an international theme. A punch and cookies reception in the Edison Theatre lobby will follow the show.

Central Institute for the Deaf, part of the Washington University Medical Center, was founded in 1914 to teach the deaf to talk. The internationally known school has about 100 students who come from 14 states and four foreign countries. CID also is known for its speech and hearing clinic, its program preparing teachers to instruct the deaf, and numerous research projects. In January Richard G. Stoker, Ph.D., became director of the institute. He is the first person born deaf to head a major scientific and educational institution in this country.

In celebration of CID's 75th anniversary, 25 fund-raising parties will be hosted by friends of the institute all over the United States and eight foreign countries, including India, Japan and South Africa. Proceeds from the parties will benefit the scholarship fund.

Tickets to "CID Follies and Fashions International" can be purchased at the door or in advance by calling the school office at 652-5200.

Campus Y benefit dinner is planned

Juliet Hunter, co-anchorman for television station KMOV, will speak at a benefit dinner for Washington University's campus YMCA-YWCA at 6:30 p.m. Friday, April 28, at the Washington University Club, 200 N. 4th St. A social hour will begin at 5:30 p.m. Proceeds from the benefit will help fund 20 Campus Y student-led programs, ranging from those designed to raise consciousness regarding racism, world peace and hunger, to projects where students "Adopt A Grandparent," work with abused and neglected children, and help freshman make a smooth transition to college.

Some 360 Washington students are involved in volunteer projects through the Campus Y. An affiliate of both the YMCA and YWCA of St. Louis, the Campus Y has been a part of the University community for 77 years.

Music during the social hour and dinner will be provided by guitarist Alan Rosenskotter, administrative assistant in the Department of Music, and flutist Betty Feldman.

The cost for the dinner is $50 a person. To make reservations, call the Campus Y at 889-5010.

Hatchet's Playwriting Festival to showcase competition winners

The A.E. Hotchner Playwriting Festival, featuring the work of Richard Byrne, a master's in physical education from Famous Barr, and flutist Betsy Feldman.

On July 4, in physical education. He earned a master's in physical education from Famous-Barr and performed skits, songs and dances with an international theme. A punch and cookies reception in the Edison Theatre lobby will follow the show.

Central Institute for the Deaf, part of the Washington University Medical Center, was founded in 1914 to teach the deaf to talk. The internationally known school has about 100 students who come from 14 states and four foreign countries. CID also is known for its speech and hearing clinic, its program preparing teachers to instruct the deaf, and numerous research projects. In January Richard G. Stoker, Ph.D., became director of the institute. He is the first person born deaf to head a major scientific and educational institution in this country.

In celebration of CID's 75th anniversary, 25 fund-raising parties will be hosted by friends of the institute all over the United States and eight foreign countries, including India, Japan and South Africa. Proceeds from the parties will benefit the scholarship fund.

Tickets to "CID Follies and Fashions International" can be purchased at the door or in advance by calling the school office at 652-5200.

Campus Y benefit dinner is planned

Juliet Hunter, co-anchorman for television station KMOV, will speak at a benefit dinner for Washington University's campus YMCA-YWCA at 6:30 p.m. Friday, April 28, at the Washington University Club, 200 N. 4th St. A social hour will begin at 5:30 p.m. Proceeds from the benefit will help fund 20 Campus Y student-led programs, ranging from those designed to raise consciousness regarding racism, world peace and hunger, to projects where students "Adopt A Grandparent," work with abused and neglected children, and help freshman make a smooth transition to college.

Some 360 Washington students are involved in volunteer projects through the Campus Y. An affiliate of both the YMCA and YWCA of St. Louis, the Campus Y has been a part of the University community for 77 years.

Music during the social hour and dinner will be provided by guitarist Alan Rosenskotter, administrative assistant in the Department of Music, and flutist Betty Feldman.

The cost for the dinner is $50 a person. To make reservations, call the Campus Y at 889-5010.
Jeffrey Kurtzman, went on to win the tournament.

Valerie A. Haskins and Nicholas P. Herrmann, graduate students in anthropology, presented papers at the annual meetings of the American Association of Physical Anthropologists, held April 4-8 in San Diego, Calif. Haskins' paper was on "Taphonomic and Site Forming Processes at the Walnut Creek Floodplain Mortuary Site in the Lower Illinois River Valley." The papers were part of the symposium "Secondary Deposit Burials: African, American, and Australian Contexts," a new medical specialty.

Michael W. Vannier, M.D., associate professor of radiology, presented "Medical 3-D Image Reconstruction" at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, held in San Francisco.

Robert L. Williams, Ph.D., professor of psychology and African and Afro-American studies, spoke on "Culturally Specific Attachments and Separation: From a Black Perspective" at the Missouri Psychological Association 1989 spring convention, held April 7-8 in Kansas City, Mo.

Have you done something noteworthy?

Have you: Presented a paper? Won an award? Published a book or chapter? Become an officer of a professional organization?

The Washington University Record will help spread the good news. Contributions regarding faculty and staff scholarly or professional activities are gladly accepted and encouraged. Send a brief note (with your full name, highest earned degree, current title and department along with a description of what you accomplished) to John Bartelt, by electronic mail to p72245SS at WUVMC. Please include a phone number.

Students appear on sports trivia show

A team of three Washington University students appeared on the national call-in game show "Sports Trivia," which will air in April and May.

The three students are team captain Jeffrey Ives, a senior from Richfield, Minn.; and seniors from New York; and David Weisenfeld, a sophomore from Livingston, N.J.

The team won its first two rounds by defeating the Florida State University and Florida State University before losing to Ohio State in the quarterfinals. Ohio State went on to win the tournament. Boardwalk and Baseball's Superbowl of Sports Trivia is a series of half-hour shows bringing together America's top collegiate "sports trivia" experts from 22 colleges in a single elimination format. The shows were taped Jan. 3-10 in Orlando, Fla., and aired in late March.

Washington's contest against the University of Florida will air on ESPN on the next show, Tuesday, April 7,' and against Ohio State on May 8. All shows begin at 5 p.m.

The contestants were flown all expenses paid to Orlando. Each team was given $200 for expenses and the team with the highest score received $1,000. In addition, the Washington team received a trip to the Florida Superbowl and victory. For winning the tournament, the Ohio State team received $10,000.

The School of Law recently hosted the American Bar Association's (ABA) Regional Moot Court Competition, where students from 10 law schools vied for the top title by presenting oral arguments to panels of judges.

At the regional competition, held April 8 and 9 at the University of Minnesota, the only team of first-year students in the nation advanced to the nationals. Another Washington team, consisting second-year law student Noel Sebastians and third-year law students Peter Gaido and Steve Griswold, competed at the moot court regionals.

Washington law students have participated in several competitions this semester. For the ABA's regional moot court competition, a Washington team won first place at the Midwest Regional Mock Trial Competition held at the University of Missouri-Columbia law school. The winning team advanced to the National Trial Competition held March 16-18 in Dallas, Texas, marking the nineth straight year a Washington team has progressed to the nationals.

During the competitions, law school students conduct full-jury trials based on hypothetical cases. The winning team at the regionals was third-year student Gonzalo Fernandez and second-year students Vernetta Gill and Chris Hedican. E. Thomas Sullivan, J.D., professor of law, served as faculty coach for the team. In recognition of their victory, each team member received a medallion honoring Justice Lewis F. Powell of the Supreme Court.

Another University team, comprising third-year law students Jeffrey Fairchild and John Ault, won second place in the ABA's regional moot court regional competition. The winning team advanced to the National Trial Competition held March 16-18 in Dallas, Texas, marking the nineth straight year a Washington team has progressed to the nationals.

The Washington law student team received the highest score for their legal brief. The Washington chapter of the Black Law Student Association hosted the regional competition.

The team was made up of first-year law students David L. Reminius, a second-year law student, and a third-year student. The team won their regional competition. The students also received the Goldfog Award for the best brief. Lawrence W. Hanworth, J.D., professor of law, served as faculty adviser.

In the 21st annual Midwest regional convention of the Black Law Student Association held in St. Louis, two law student teams were second-year law students Ganesh Natarajan and Jack Mallinckrodt of the Black Law Student Association hosted the regional convention. The students also received the highest score for their legal brief. The Washington chapter of the Black Law Student Association hosted the regional convention.

The law school students conduct full-jury trials based on hypothetical cases. The winning team at the regionals was third-year student Gonzalo Fernandez and second-year students Vernetta Gill and Chris Hedican. E. Thomas Sullivan, J.D., professor of law, served as faculty coach for the team. In recognition of their victory, each team member received a medallion honoring Justice Lewis F. Powell of the Supreme Court.

Another University team, comprising third-year law students Jeffrey Fairchild and John Ault, won second place in the ABA's regional moot court regional competition. The winning team advanced to the National Trial Competition held March 16-18 in Dallas, Texas, marking the nineth straight year a Washington team has progressed to the nationals.

The winning team at the regionals was third-year student Gonzalo Fernandez and second-year students Vernetta Gill and Chris Hedican. E. Thomas Sullivan, J.D., professor of law, served as faculty coach for the team. In recognition of their victory, each team member received a medallion honoring Justice Lewis F. Powell of the Supreme Court.

Another University team, comprising third-year law students Jeffrey Fairchild and John Ault, won second place in the ABA's regional moot court regional competition. The winning team advanced to the National Trial Competition held March 16-18 in Dallas, Texas, marking the nineth straight year a Washington team has progressed to the nationals.

The winning team at the regionals was third-year student Gonzalo Fernandez and second-year students Vernetta Gill and Chris Hedican. E. Thomas Sullivan, J.D., professor of law, served as faculty coach for the team. In recognition of their victory, each team member received a medallion honoring Justice Lewis F. Powell of the Supreme Court.

Another University team, comprising third-year law students Jeffrey Fairchild and John Ault, won second place in the ABA's regional moot court regional competition. The winning team advanced to the National Trial Competition held March 16-18 in Dallas, Texas, marking the nineth straight year a Washington team has progressed to the nationals.

The Washington law student team received the highest score for their legal brief. The Washington chapter of the Black Law Student Association hosted the regional convention.

The team was made up of first-year law students David L. Reminius, a second-year law student, and a third-year student. The team won their regional competition. The students also received the Goldfog Award for the best brief. Lawrence W. Hanworth, J.D., professor of law, served as faculty adviser.

In the 21st annual Midwest regional convention of the Black Law Student Association held in St. Louis, two law student teams were second-year law students Ganesh Natarajan and Jack Mallinckrodt of the Black Law Student Association hosted the regional convention. The students also received the highest score for their legal brief. The Washington chapter of the Black Law Student Association hosted the regional convention.

The law school students conduct full-jury trials based on hypothetical cases. The winning team at the regionals was third-year student Gonzalo Fernandez and second-year students Vernetta Gill and Chris Hedican. E. Thomas Sullivan, J.D., professor of law, served as faculty coach for the team. In recognition of their victory, each team member received a medallion honoring Justice Lewis F. Powell of the Supreme Court.

Another University team, comprising third-year law students Jeffrey Fairchild and John Ault, won second place in the ABA's regional moot court regional competition. The winning team advanced to the National Trial Competition held March 16-18 in Dallas, Texas, marking the nineth straight year a Washington team has progressed to the nationals.

The winning team at the regionals was third-year student Gonzalo Fernandez and second-year students Vernetta Gill and Chris Hedican. E. Thomas Sullivan, J.D., professor of law, served as faculty coach for the team. In recognition of their victory, each team member received a medallion honoring Justice Lewis F. Powell of the Supreme Court.

Another University team, comprising third-year law students Jeffrey Fairchild and John Ault, won second place in the ABA's regional moot court regional competition. The winning team advanced to the National Trial Competition held March 16-18 in Dallas, Texas, marking the nineth straight year a Washington team has progressed to the nationals.

The winning team at the regionals was third-year student Gonzalo Fernandez and second-year students Vernetta Gill and Chris Hedican. E. Thomas Sullivan, J.D., professor of law, served as faculty coach for the team. In recognition of their victory, each team member received a medallion honoring Justice Lewis F. Powell of the Supreme Court.

Another University team, comprising third-year law students Jeffrey Fairchild and John Ault, won second place in the ABA's regional moot court regional competition. The winning team advanced to the National Trial Competition held March 16-18 in Dallas, Texas, marking the nineth straight year a Washington team has progressed to the nationals.

The winning team at the regionals was third-year student Gonzalo Fernandez and second-year students Vernetta Gill and Chris Hedican. E. Thomas Sullivan, J.D., professor of law, served as faculty coach for the team. In recognition of their victory, each team member received a medallion honoring Justice Lewis F. Powell of the Supreme Court.
Lectures
Thursday, April 20
10 a.m. Medical Sciences Teaching Program: "New Drugs for Diabetes," Robert Fratantoni, DPhil, Department of Diabetes Research, University of Oxford, UK, and Subbattali Subhasis, PhD, Division of Medical Molecular Biology, International University of Health and Welfare, Japan. 10 a.m., 522 Millikan.
11 a.m. Northwest Missouri State University: "Fatigue," James A. Hargens, PhD, College of Allied Health Sciences, University of Illinois, Springfield. 11 a.m., 522 Millikan.
2:30 p.m. Department of Engineering Sciences: "The Foundations of a Dream or Reality?" Alex I. Begg, Westmont College.
2:30 p.m. Department of Mechanical Engineering: "Bioengineering of Thermoplastic Polymers," Wei Wenyun, PhD, Colorado State University. 2:30 p.m., 522 Millikan.
2:30 p.m. Department of Plant Biology: "Cell-cycle Kinetics of Photons," Barry Ouston, Dep. of Cell Biology, Stanford University.
4:30 p.m. Department of Philosophy: "The Philosophy of Language," George Plotkin, PhD, graduate student in philosophy, Washington University.
4:30 p.m. Department of Psychology: "The Student as a Researcher," James E. Gregor, PhD, Indiana University.
Friday, April 21
11 a.m. Department of Chemistry: "Seeing More: Capillary Zone Electrophoresis," Brent Stanfield, Animal Center, Tohoku University, Japan. 11 a.m., 522 Millikan.
12:45 p.m. WU Libraries Preservation Lecture Series: "How to Treat the Problem of Locke's Ethics," George Plumley, WU graduate student in philosophy.
2:00 p.m. Department of Physics: "Untangling Ava," a play written by Richard Jessor, PhD, Institute of Behavioral Science.
2:30 p.m. Department of Mathematics: "Interpolation of Operators in Mixed Normed Spaces," Israel Glicksberg, Southwest Medical Center, U. of Texas. 2:30 p.m., 522 Millikan.
4 p.m. Department of Cell Biology and Physiology: "Biophysical Approaches to the Structure for the 1990s," Joshua Epstein, Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency. 4 p.m., 522 Millikan.
Saturday, April 22
9 a.m. Northwest Missouri States University: "The Recent Cincinnati Premiere of "Fourscore: An American Comedy," John F. McMillen, PhD, Department of Art History and Archaeology.
11 a.m. Department of Cell Biology and Physiology: "Na, K-ATPase Structure and Function," Lila Gierasch, Southwest Medical Center, U. of Texas. 11 a.m., 522 Millikan.
12:45 p.m. WU Libraries Preservation Lecture Series: "M.F.A. Exhibition, Part II," 12:45 p.m., 522 Millikan.
2:30 p.m. Department of Mathematics: "Work of Joseph Allen Stein," Edward H. Furth, PhD, Professor of Art History and Archaeology.
4 p.m. Department of Physical Sciences: "Last Lecture," Edward H. Furth, PhD, Professor of Art History and Archaeology.
4:30 p.m. Department of Philosophy: "Thomas Huxley—One of the Most Important Scientists in the History of Modern Science," 4:30 p.m., 522 Millikan.
Sunday, April 23
2:30 p.m. Department of Physics: "Communicating Assertively," Robert W. Welsh, Dep. of Cell Biology and Physiology.
2:45 p.m. Department of Music: "A Classical Guitar Concert Featuring Designs Through April 28. First floor, Givens Hall. 9 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays; 1-5 p.m. weekends. For more info., call 889-5495.
5:00 p.m. Department of Social Work: "Read It Again! An Exhibit of Books From Donated by Henrietta Maizner Hochschild. Through May 3. Gallery of Art, Steinberg Hall, lower gallery. 10 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays; 1-5 p.m. weekends. For more info., call 889-9525.
7:00 p.m. Department of Music: "In Vitro and In Vivo Cell and Molecular Biology Colloquium, "Endangered Species of the U.S.," Julius Hunter, co-anchorman WU TV. 7:00 p.m., 3648 Washington Ave.
7:00 p.m. Department of Music: "Breakfast With The Beatles," 7:00 p.m., 3648 Washington Ave.
7:30 p.m. Department of Music: "The 1990s," 7:30 p.m., 3648 Washington Ave.
8:00 p.m. Department of Music: "Kappa Honors Lecture," Donald G. Donohue, Dep. of Music, 8:00 p.m., 3648 Washington Ave.
8:30 p.m. Department of Music: "Washington University Permanent Collection," Through June 6. Gallery of Art, Steinberg Hall, lower gallery. 10 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays; 1-5 p.m. weekends. For more info., call 889-9525.
8:30 p.m. Department of Music: "American History Through Music," Alex I. Braginski, Westinghouse R & D Center. 8:30 p.m., 3648 Washington Ave.
8:30 p.m. Department of Music: "David Farmer of Involuntary Music," 8:30 p.m., 3648 Washington Ave.
9:00 p.m. Department of Drama: "M. F. A. Exhibition, Part II," 9:00 p.m., 3648 Washington Ave.
9:30 p.m. Department of Music: "Workshop, "Music for the 1990s," 9:30 p.m., 3648 Washington Ave.
10:00 p.m. Department of Drama: "Workshop, "Music for the 1990s," 10:00 p.m., 3648 Washington Ave.
11:00 p.m. Department of Music: "Kappa Honors Lecture," Donald G. Donohue, Dep. of Music, 11:00 p.m., 3648 Washington Ave.
12:00 a.m. Department of Music: "A Classical Guitar Concert Featuring Designs Through April 28. First floor, Givens Hall. 9 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays; 1-5 p.m. weekends. For more info., call 889-5495.
12:00 a.m. Department of Music: "Kappa Honors Lecture," Donald G. Donohue, Dep. of Music, 12:00 a.m., 3648 Washington Ave.
12:00 a.m. Department of Music: "A Classical Guitar Concert Featuring Designs Through April 28. First floor, Givens Hall. 9 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays; 1-5 p.m. weekends. For more info., call 889-5495.
12:00 a.m. Department of Music: "A Classical Guitar Concert Featuring Designs Through April 28. First floor, Givens Hall. 9 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays; 1-5 p.m. weekends. For more info., call 889-5495.
12:00 a.m. Department of Music: "A Classical Guitar Concert Featuring Designs Through April 28. First floor, Givens Hall. 9 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays; 1-5 p.m. weekends. For more info., call 889-5495.
12:00 a.m. Department of Music: "A Classical Guitar Concert Featuring Designs Through April 28. First floor, Givens Hall. 9 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays; 1-5 p.m. weekends. For more info., call 889-5495.
12:00 a.m. Department of Music: "A Classical Guitar Concert Featuring Designs Through April 28. First floor, Givens Hall. 9 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays; 1-5 p.m. weekends. For more info., call 889-5495.
12:00 a.m. Department of Music: "A Classical Guitar Concert Featuring Designs Through April 28. First floor, Givens Hall. 9 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays; 1-5 p.m. weekends. For more info., call 889-5495.
12:00 a.m. Department of Music: "A Classical Guitar Concert Featuring Designs Through April 28. First floor, Givens Hall. 9 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays; 1-5 p.m. weekends. For more info., call 889-5495.
12:00 a.m. Department of Music: "A Classical Guitar Concert Featuring Designs Through April 28. First floor, Givens Hall. 9 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays; 1-5 p.m. weekends. For more info., call 889-5495.