Division News Briefs

- Beginning December 19, the Division of Public Health Sciences offices will be located on the second floor of the Taylor Avenue Building on the medical campus. Our mailing address and phone numbers will remain the same. Please save the date for our open house on Wednesday, Jan. 16, from 4 to 6 p.m.

- Clinicians and clinical doctorates: Applications for the Master of Population Health Sciences (MPHS) program are due January 4, 2013. Email Program Coordinator Joyce Linn at linnj@wustl.edu for more information.

- Kate Wolin, ScD, received a grant from National Institutes of Health (R21CA161106) to study how weight loss and physical activity correlate with bone loss and remodeling among overweight and postmenopausal breast cancer survivors. The study will utilize supplemental data from women enrolled in Dr. Wolin’s ENERGY trial (Exercise and Nutrition to Enhance Recovery and Good health for You) at Washington University School of Medicine.
