

Washington University School of Medicine

Digital Commons@Becker

Washington University Record

Washington University Publications

3-18-1982

Washington University Record, March 18, 1982

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.wustl.edu/record>

Recommended Citation

Washington University Record, March 18, 1982. Bernard Becker Medical Library Archives.
<https://digitalcommons.wustl.edu/record/228>.

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Washington University Publications at Digital Commons@Becker. It has been accepted for inclusion in Washington University Record by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons@Becker. For more information, please contact vanam@wustl.edu.

Washington University Record

Vol. 7, No. 23

March 18, 1982

Anthropologists Johanson, Leakey to lecture

Two leading anthropologists with conflicting views — Mary Leakey and Donald C. Johanson — will give separate lectures at WU later this month.

Johanson's theories about where the fossils he has unearthed belong in man's family tree have put him in direct conflict with Leakey and her son Richard, probably the best-known anthropologists in the world today.

The views of the Leakeys, who believe that man developed much earlier than Johanson suggests, are presented in detail in Missing Links: The Hunt for Earliest Man, by John Reader, a photographer who spent considerable time at the Leakeys' camps in Kenya and Tanzania.

Mary Leakey will deliver the seventh annual Mildred Trotter lecture at 4 p.m. Tuesday, March 23, at Edison Theatre in Mallinckrodt Center. Her talk will be on the topic "The History and Meaning of the Discoveries at Olduvai Gorge and Laetoli."

Johanson, author with science writer Maitland Edey of Lucy: The Beginnings of Humankind, will speak on "Current Perspectives of Mankind's Evolutionary Past" at 11 a.m. Wednesday, March 31, in Graham Chapel. His lecture also is free and open to the public.

Johanson's book is about his discovery of a fossil skeleton of a prehuman, upright walking humanid — nicknamed Lucy — in the northern part of the Great Rift Valley in Ethiopia in 1974. Lucy, Johanson contends, is some three-and-a-half million years old.

Johanson and the Leakeys have been accused by their critics of drawing conclusions that fit their own preconceived notions. In Lucy, Johanson admits to a number of instances in which he had to change his mind about conclusions. He explains in his book how he tried to confront some of his own biases:

"There is a strong urge to learn more about where the human line started. If you are working back at around three million, as I was, that is very seductive, because you begin to get an idea that that is where homo did start. You begin straining your eyes to find homo traits in fossils of that age."

Reader notes in Missing Links that Johanson and Leakey found evidence in each other's fossils to support their own theories about human evolution. He wonders what would have happened if each of them had worked at the other's site, as well as at their own.

"With the same fossils to hand, one or [the] other of them presumably would claim his beliefs doubly affirmed, and the quantitative value of the fossils from two widely separated sites might persuade many that the evidence substantiated those beliefs," Reader wrote.

Robert H. Salisbury

Salisbury named to Souers chair in government

Mrs. Sidney W. Souers has announced plans to establish the Sidney W. Souers Professorship of American Government at WU in honor of her late husband.

The gift will come from the Sidney W. and Sylvia N. Souers Charitable Trust, which was established at Admiral Souers' death in 1973.

Admiral Souers was chief executive officer of the General American Life Insurance Co., St. Louis, a position he assumed in 1954 after retirement from naval service.

The Admiral's naval assignments included assistant chief of naval intelligence in charge of plans and later, deputy chief of naval intelligence. He was named the first director of the Central Intelligence Agency and then became executive secretary of the newly created National Security Council during the Truman administration.

The Sidney W. Souers Professorship of American Government will be occupied by Robert H. Salisbury, professor of political science. Salisbury came to WU in 1955, served as department chairman, 1966 to 1973, and was director of the Center for the Study of Public Affairs, 1974-1976. A nationally recognized author and lecturer, Salisbury has been active in many political science organizations and last year served as vice president of the American Political Science Association.

Chancellor William H. Danforth said the endowed professorship will be "a most fitting and enduring tribute to Admiral Souers and his accomplishments as a leader in government and business. We are deeply grateful to Mrs. Souers for her generous support of Washington University."

"The selection of Professor Salisbury to occupy this new chair is significant because, like Admiral Souers, he also has a long-term interest in government and is a national leader among scholars and teachers in his field," Danforth noted.

Donald C. Johanson

Mary Leakey

Mortar Board symposium explores careers, workplace morals

"Escape From The Ivory Tower: Life Beyond College" is the topic of the Second Annual Mortar Board Symposium March 23-25. Five panel discussions, which are free and open to the public, will touch on such subjects as morals in the working world, dual-career relationships, unconventional career paths and campus politics.

On Tuesday, March 23, a discussion of "Trends in Campus Politics: Conservatism or Apathy?" will begin at 4 p.m. in Eliot Hall Lounge. Panelists will include Henry W. Berger, associate professor of history; Robert H. Salisbury, professor of political science; William C. Sullivan, a law student; and Lawrence B.

Joseph, assistant professor of political science, who will moderate the session.

At 7:30 p.m., three couples, including Linda B. Salamon, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and her husband George Salamon, a reporter at the St. Louis Business Journal, will speak on "Two Career Relationships" in the Ann Whitney Olin Women's Bldg. Lounge.

On Wednesday, March 24, five WU alumnae will discuss unusual career changes in "Unconventional Career Paths: Surprise Ending" at 7:30 p.m. in the Ann Whitney Olin Women's Bldg. Lounge. Panelists will be Yvette Kirby, Hannah Roth, Sandy Greenberg, Gail Jackson and Bonnie Miller.

On Thursday, March 25, recent WU graduates Lisa Anderson, Sheila Lewis, David Herschberger and William Black will discuss "Morals in the Work Place" at 11 a.m. in Lambert Lounge, Mallinckrodt Center.

At 3 p.m. Chancellor William H. Danforth will be joined by Burton M. Wheeler, professor of English and religious studies, Christopher J. Loving, residential area coordinator, and recent graduate Laurie Pearlstein, to discuss "College Education: Can You Take It With You?" in the Gargoyle, Mallinckrodt Center.

This work on paper by Dennis Cope (M Arch, '73) was among the tributes sent in by former students of Leslie J. Laskey, professor of architecture, for the celebration March 3 of his 25th year as teacher of design at the WU School of Architecture. Cope's piece and those of many other WU architecture alumni, were displayed at Givens Hall until recently. They will be bound and presented as a Festschrift to Laskey.

Prison study shows that illness is linked to caste system

"Life is an incurable disease," grumbled Abraham Cowley, the 17th-century English poet. The work of a WU sociologist suggests that sentiment is particularly relevant to life in prison.

Wornie Reed, assistant professor of sociology at WU, has been studying prison health conditions since 1973, and his results supply evidence that social factors — especially a prisoner's standing in the "criminal caste system" — can have grave consequences for personal health and well-being.

In a Journal of Prison Health article published recently, Reed linked incarceration, social standing and health care in a vicious cycle. "Little attention has been given to the relationship between social structural aspects of a prison and problems of health," he said. "This unnatural situation (incarceration) may affect both the occurrence of health problems and the efficacy and efficiency of available medical care."

Reed spent nine months interviewing 517 of the approximately 700 prisoners serving time at the Massachusetts Correctional Institution at Norfolk and discovered an inordinate amount of health problems, despite the fact that "on the surface this prison appeared to present an ideal facility for medical care of inmates."

Norfolk, at the time of Reed's study, contained a hospital with working operating rooms; a physician and nurses on duty all day; back-up medical personnel on duty at night; some 16 medical specialists available for weekly visits; and a full-time resident dentist. Yet, Reed found a strong undercurrent of complaints about the inadequacy of the medical situation.

And they were more than just idle complaints. Reed found very real symptoms such as abdominal pains, eye and ear infections, pains in the vicinity of the heart, diarrhea, headaches and a number of "psychoemotional complaints" occurring two to five times as frequently within the big house as outside.

This shower of symptoms is especially hard to understand considering that prisoners place a high premium on being tough, "upright" and close-mouthed.

They call this attitude "doing your own time."

"The prison's social outcasts, I suspect, are the ones who are clogging up the medical system with complaints," Reed said. "The higher ranking prisoners almost definitely have fewer health problems."

The social structure is fascinating in itself. The highest ranking citizens are "cop-killers" — those accused of killing a police officer during a gun battle. The man on top of the totem pole at Norfolk had been convicted of killing a policeman in one of Boston's famous Brinks robberies.

On the bottom rung of the ladder are rapists and child-molesters. "That could have been my mother or my kid" was the reason often given to Reed by prisoners who make rapists the dregs of prison society.

The "working class" of prison society is made up of those convicted of breaking and entering. An exception is made for so-called wife-killers — people who commit first-offense crimes of passion. Prison society reserves a special limbo for these amateur criminals; in effect, they become nonpersons.

"The whole purpose of these inmate social codes," Reed explained, "is to reestablish some means of affirming self-worth, just as society at large forms its own social codes for identity."

As in the society outside, where lower socioeconomic groups in general suffer the highest incidence of disease, so do the lower ranking prisoners.

Another factor that affects health care in prison is a form of boredom-induced hypochondria, enforced by the cloister of iron bars. A number of prisoners informed Reed that since they had been behind bars they had become more introspective and sensitive to their bodies. Small physical irregularities were perceived as important illnesses. Reed theorizes that prison hypochondria may also be influenced by lack of privacy and fear for one's safety.

"Prison generates an excessive amount of illness, and it also generates a maladapted response to it," he said.

Reed will publish much of his research in a book entitled Being Sick Inside: Health Consequences of Imprisonment, due for release by Irvington Press in March. Therein, Reed suggests several improvements in the ways the prisons now deal with health.

One is to provide more psychological counseling for prison life as preventative medicine. He also suggests making the medical facility more credible to the prisoners by separating it physically from the prison administration. Finally, Reed would rotate prison medical staff regularly, thus preventing staff members from "burning out" under these stressful situations.

Robert K. Pearce

Emerson manager to succeed Eason at business school

An Annapolis alumnus, Robert K. Pearce, has been named assistant dean and director of placement at WU's School of Business and Public Administration, Dean Robert L. Virgil Jr. has announced.

Pearce, who has been personnel manager of Emerson Electric Co. since 1980, joined the University's administrative staff on March 15, and will assume full responsibility for its business school facility placement on July 1 when Leo A. Eason retires after 30 years of Hilltop service.

Noting that Eason has been responsible for business placement at this University since 1952, Virgil pointed out that Eason had a major hand in the career counseling and the launching of the professional careers of the vast majority of the 4,000 students who have earned degrees from the business school during the past three decades. For this service and his leadership of major professional organizations in the college placement area, Virgil described Eason as "Mr. Business Placement."

"Washington University, our school, and our students have benefitted tremendously from his service," Virgil said.

Pearce received a BS with a major in analytical management from the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis in 1971. He earned an MBA from Fairleigh-Dickinson University, East Rutherford, N.J., in 1977.

Chancellor declares alcohol awareness week

Chancellor William H. Danforth has declared this week Alcohol Awareness Week. BACCHUS, Student Union, Congress of the South-40 and the University Health Service are sponsoring this week's events:

Educational display, 11 a.m.-1 p.m., Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, Mallinckrodt Center.

St. Patrick's Day party, Wednesday, 4-6 p.m., Gargoyle.

Games at the Forum Party, 9 p.m., Wohl Center, lines C and D, with a band, games and refreshments.

Appeals judge talks on juvenile law at Williams lecture

Judge Irving R. Kaufman, of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, Second District, will deliver the Tyrrell Williams Lecture at 11 a.m. Wednesday, March 24, in Graham Chapel.

The lecture will be on the topic: "The Child in Trouble: The Long and Difficult Road to Reforming the Crazy-Quilt Juvenile Justice System." It honors a former professor of the law school, Tyrrell Williams, who was a member of the faculty from 1913 to 1946.

Kaufman has been the judge in a number of notable American trials, including the Julius and Ethel Rosenberg trial 30 years ago. He sentenced the Rosenbergs to death for espionage.

Kaufman also has been a critic of the narrowness of law school curricula and has called for these schools to upgrade the competency of trial lawyers.

Born in New York City in 1910, Kaufman earned his law degree at Fordham University in 1931. He was admitted to the New York bar in 1932 and was a partner in a New York law firm.

From 1949 to 1961 he was U.S. District Judge for the South District of New York. He was named circuit judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals in 1961 and chief judge in 1973.

Bieber memorial lectures scheduled

The late Professor Ralph P. Bieber, who taught history at WU from 1919 to 1962, will be honored with two lectures presented by the Historical Association of Greater St. Louis.

The schedule of Ralph P. Bieber Memorial Lectures for 1981-1982 is: Jules Zanger, professor of English, Southern Illinois University, Edwardsville, "Showboats," 2 p.m. Sunday, March 21, Missouri Historical Society, Jefferson Memorial; and Martin Towey, associate professor of history, St. Louis University, "Depression Art in St. Louis," 6 p.m., Thursday, May 6, Busch Center, St. Louis University. The last lecture will be preceded by dinner. Reservations are required and may be made by contacting the Historical Association of Greater St. Louis, 350 Chassele Drive, St. Louis, Mo. 63141.

Bieber, a specialist in Western Americana, who died on July 23, 1981, founded the Historical Association of Greater St. Louis.

Washington University Record (USPS 600-430), Volume 7, Number 23, March 18, 1982. Published weekly during the school year, except school holidays, at the Office of News and Information, campus box 1142, Washington University, Lindell and Skinker, St. Louis, Mo. 63130. Second-Class Postage paid at St. Louis, Mo. Postmaster please forward change of address to Campus Box 1142, Washington University, St. Louis, Mo. 63130.

Editor: Charlotte Boman
(Ext. 5251)

Calendar Editor:
Susan Kesling
(Ext. 5254)

Lady Bears cagers post 7-6 finish; Men go 3-16 in inaugural season

WU's men's and women's basketball teams finished successful basketball seasons recently and both coaches — Mark Edwards for the men and Gaye Kinnett for the women — look forward to next season and better records.

The women ended with a 7-6 record, and the men with 3-16. The men's mark is misleading, until it is realized that this was the first year for men's varsity basketball at WU since 1971.

Besides the three victories — over Concordia Seminary, Lindenwood and Grinnell — another three or four triumphs could have been recorded with better free throw shooting and experience, Coach Edwards said.

Fred Amos, a 6-6 freshman from Chicago, was the leading scorer with an 18.9 mark, while another Windy City freshman, 6-3 guard Daron Romanek, averaged 11.9.

Four players shared the other three starting berths and all averaged in the six-point bracket for the season. They were John Steffen, Tom Weeks, Bernard Knox and Jack Biegalski.

Others who saw plenty of action were Joe Mayberger, Bo Plurad (the only senior), Lorenzo Renfroe, Mark Dryer, Wendell Hassell and Tom Binzer.

Rounding out the team were Ken Johnson, Mike Gilliland, Nick Teter and Brian Law. All of these players, except for Plurad, are expected to return next year.

Coach Kinnett will lose only one player. Unfortunately, it is four-year star Bari Golub, who averaged 18.7 points per game.

But Kinnett has a fine nucleus for next year in Laura Vrlenich, who averaged 10.5 points, Kathy Fagan (8.0), Ellen Sullivan (7.1), Karen Platt (6.2), and Lauri Skokan (4.8). Vrlenich and Fagan are freshmen, Sullivan and Platt are sophomores, and Skokan is a junior.

Others who saw action and who are expected to return are sophomores Aggie

Four-year Lady Bear star Bari Golub (left) finished her WU basketball career with an 18.7 point average, having contributed significantly to the team's winning 7-6 season.

Malilay, Stacy Lewis, Jane Nuyen and Rose Puleo; juniors Denise Tracy and Alison Van Dusen; and freshman Meg Richardson.

The Lady Bears' 7-6 mark included victories over Maryville and Principia (twice each), Judson, Fontbonne and MacMurray.

The best individual performances of the year for both teams were by the leading scorers — Amos had 40 against Blackburn and 36 against Concordia Seminary; Golub had 34 against the University of Chicago.

Physicians' group head talks on nuclear war

Thomas A. Halsted, director of Physicians for Social Responsibility, will discuss "Preventing the Last Epidemic" at 5 p.m. Friday, March 26, in the Carl V. Moore Auditorium at the WU School of Medicine. His address is sponsored by the School of Medicine and the United Nations Association.

Halsted will discuss findings of a series of symposia held across country by Physicians for Social Responsibility on the medical consequences of nuclear war. A report on the findings of the symposia warns that the death, injury and disease resulting from even a limited nuclear war would surpass any effective medical response and civil defense.

Halsted, director of the Boston-based organization since June 1981, formerly was director of public affairs in the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency focusing on negotiations on SALT II.

Campus Notes

Harold Berlak, associate professor of education, and Ann Berlak, associate professor of anthropology and sociology at Webster College, have written a book, Dilemmas of Schooling: Teaching and Social Change, published by Methuen and Co. Based on their observations of English primary schools, the book identifies 16 dilemmas encompassing the many day-to-day decisions that teachers face in the classroom, and links them to broader political, social and cultural issues. Written for teachers, researchers, parents and policy-makers, the book attempts to provide a framework for identifying and examining differences in schooling practices.

Merton C. Bernstein, Walter C. Coles Professor of Law, will be one of three panelists at the 23rd annual Columbia University Law Symposium on "The Future of the New Deal" on March 27. Bernstein will be joined by Robert Ball, former commissioner of social security, and Mitchell Ginsberg, professor and dean emeritus of Columbia's School of Social Work, to speak on "The Nation's Social Welfare Policy: From FDR to Reagan." The symposium will celebrate the 100th anniversary of the birth of Franklin D. Roosevelt, a 1907 alumnus of the University. Bernstein received his law degree from Columbia in 1948.

Jack Botwinick, professor of psychology, received the Kesten Memorial Lectureship Award from the Ethel Percy Andrus Gerontology Center at the University of Southern California Jan. 28.

Memory Elvin-Lewis, professor of microbiology at the WU School of Dental Medicine, traveled to Nigeria in early February as a delegate to the Conference on Oral Health Research Needs and Training. She presented a paper on oral research needs and opportunities relevant to Africa. The conference, held at the University of Lagos, was sponsored by the World Health Organization, the Federation Dentaire, and the International Association of Dental Research.

Academic Press, a subsidiary of Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, has published Old Europe, A Study of Continuity, 1000-1800, by Dietrich Gerhard, William Eliot Smith Professor Emeritus of History. According to the publisher, Gerhard's book is a "corrective" for historic assumptions that modern nationalism can be traced back many centuries. Instead, "corporate organization and regional attachment" are presented as basic traits of "Old Europe," traits that were predominant cultural features until the French and Industrial revolutions.

Karen Holm, assistant general counsel, recently was promoted to associate general counsel.

She joined the University as assistant general counsel in 1980. Previously, she was associated with the litigation department of the St. Louis law firm of Peper, Martin, Jensen, Maichel and Hetlage.

Holm was a law clerk to Judge M.C. Matthes of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit from 1972 to 1974 and has been a legal writing instructor at the WU School of Law.

She earned a BA from Miami University of Ohio in 1969 and a JD degree from WU in 1972.

Karen Holm

Robert C. Watson, instructor in black studies, gave four talks last month.

He was guest lecturer for the Internal Revenue Service's Employees Department of the Treasury on Feb. 17. His topic was "Aspects of Black Culture in the United States."

Watson spoke on "The Effects of Dr. King's Dream in Education Affecting a Positive Cultural Identity and Family Life in the Community" on Feb. 15 as a panelist before the St. Louis Committee of Concerned Black Postal Employees.

"How Black Americans Pro-Acted and Reacted to Periods of Extreme Racism in the United States" was the topic of a panel Watson was on Feb. 18 during Beaumont High School's Black Awareness Week.

He was also chairman of a session on "The Rise of Anti-Black Groups" at the third annual Southern Conference on Afro-American Studies Inc. in New Orleans on Feb. 26 and 27.

Series for retirees begins April 7

The popular Preparation for Retirement series will again be offered to WU faculty, administrators, and staff who are within ten years of retirement. Spouses also may attend.

Conducted by Family and Children's Service of Greater St. Louis, the program helps pre-retirees plan for the drastic lifestyle changes that occur at retirement. Sessions will cover topics such as health care, legal problems, social security, and work after retirement.

The sessions will run for seven Wednesday evenings, beginning April 7, at the Brentwood Community Center, 2505 S. Brentwood, from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Space is limited, so early registration is encouraged. For a registration form, call Meg Gilmore in the Personnel Office, 899-5949, or Betsy Mackey at Family and Children's Service, 371-6500.

Post-doctoral fellowships in Spain available

Applications are being sought for some 12 research grants for study in Spain during the academic year 1982-83. U.S. citizens with a doctoral degree or its equivalent and competence in oral and written Spanish are eligible to apply. Fellowships are for research in the arts, humanities, and social sciences.

The grants offer monthly allowances of $1,200 to $1,800 and air fare.

The awards may be held for four to 10 months, between September 1982 and August 1983, beginning no later than next January.

Interested faculty members should apply directly to the Council for International Exchange of Scholars, Suite 300, Eleven Dupont Circle, Washington D.C. 20036 [Telephone (202) 833-4967].

Others should pick up the official announcement in department offices or at the Office of International Studies, room 201, Stix House.

No applications will be issued after April 1; completed applications are due by April 15.

March 18-27

Calendar

Lectures

Thursday, March 18

1 p.m. George Warren Brown School of Social Work Lecture, "Social Services in the 1980s," Al Kemp, regional dir., U.S. Dept. of Health and Human Services, Kansas City. Brown Hall Lounge.

Al Kemp

2 p.m. Department of Chemical Engineering Seminar, "Nanoencapsulation — The Formation of Particles in the Nanometer Range for Parenteral Administration," Jorg Kreuter, professor, Swiss Federal Institute of Technology, Zurich. 100 Cupples II.

4 p.m. School of Architecture Panel Discussion, "James Stirling's Recent Work — A Critique," Steven Holl, architect, New York City; Robert Winters, St. Louis architect and WU alumnus; and Terry Steelman, WU architecture teaching asst. 116 Givens.

4 p.m. Department of Chemistry Seminar, "Structure and Dynamic Behavior of Organolithium Compounds," Gideon Fraenkel, dept. of chemistry, Ohio State U. 311 McMillan. (3:30 p.m. coffee hour, 561 Louderman.)

4 p.m. Clinical Law Judicial Lecture/Demonstration Series with Judge George Adolf, St. Louis City Circuit Court, discussing discovery/depositions. Mudd Hall Courtroom.

4 p.m. Department of Philosophy Colloquium, "The Ethics of Controversy," Isaac Levi, prof. of philosophy, Columbia U. Hurst Lounge, Duncker Hall.

4 p.m. Plant Biology Program Lecture, "Biochemistry and Genetics of N-Fixation," Winston Brill, dept. of bacteriology, U. of Wis. 322 Rebstock.

4 p.m. Public Affairs Thursday Lecture, "Population Dynamics and Urban School Desegregation," Reynolds Farley, Center for Demographic Studies, U.S. Bureau of the Census. Sponsored by a grant from the Sperry and Hutchinson Foundation. 200 C & D Eliot Social Sciences Bldg.

7:30 p.m. Comparative Policy Colloquium, "The Politics of Public Spending in Latin America," Barry Ames, WU assoc. prof. of political science. Ann Whitney Olin Women's Bldg. Lounge.

8 p.m. Department of English and Committee on Comparative Literature Lecture, "How to Prove an Interpretation: Wordsworth's 'A Slumber Did My Spirit Steal,'" Meyer Abrams, prof. of English, Cornell U. Hurst Lounge, Duncker Hall.

8:30 p.m. School of Architecture Lecture, "The Alphabetical City and Projects," Steven Holl, New York City architect. Steinberg Hall Aud.

Friday, March 19

11 a.m. Department of Computer Science Seminar, "Modeling Concepts for Communication of Basic Shapes of Geometric Objects," Hunter Shu, senior principal specialist, McDonnell Douglas Corp. 509 C Bryan.

2 p.m. Foreign Language Days Panel Discussion, "Careers and Foreign Languages," John Biggs, WU vice chancellor for admin. and finance; Johanna Mendelson, dir. of public policy, American Association of University Women; Maryann De Julio, WU asst. prof. of French; Peter Warshaw, WU dir. of Career Planning and Placement Services; and Tobie Bernstein, WU student of Spanish and international development. Gerhild S. Williams, WU assoc. prof. of German, moderator. Ann Whitney Olin Women's Bldg. Lounge.

3 p.m. Department of Technology and Human Affairs Seminar, "Reproductive Technology and the Future of Women," Azizah al-Hibri, WU visiting assoc. prof. of philosophy. 104 Lopata.

Saturday, March 20

10 a.m. Resume Writing Seminar sponsored by University College and Career Planning and Placement Services. $10 for WU students; $20 for others. For more information, call 889-6777. (Also 5:30 p.m., Tuesday, March 23; and 10 a.m. Saturday, March 27.)

11 a.m. University College Saturday Seminar Series, "Individualism and the Art of Portraiture," Linda B. Salamon, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and WU assoc. prof. of English. Sponsored by the Master of Liberal Arts Program. Ann Whitney Olin Women's Bldg. Lounge.

Sunday, March 21

3 p.m. Opening reception for "Master of Fine Arts Thesis Exhibition, Part I." WU Gallery of Art, Steinberg Hall, and Bixby Hall Gallery.

Monday, March 22

9:30 a.m. Sixth Annual I. Gerome Flance Visiting Professor Lecture, "New Pathogens in Community-Acquired Pneumonias," Joseph H. Bates, prof. of medicine and vice chairman of the dept. of medicine, U. of Ark. Clifton Amphitheatre, Wohl Clinic Bldg., 4950 Audubon. Sponsored by the Pulmonary Disease Division.

8:30 p.m. School of Architecture Lecture, "Design Principles of Japanese Gardens," Mitchell Bring, prof. of architecture, Montana State U. Steinberg Hall Aud.

Tuesday, March 23

3 p.m. Women's Studies Colloquium, "The Impact of Feminism on Lesbianism — A Look at the Daughters of Bilitis," Liz Craven, WU visiting instructor of history. Ann Whitney Olin Women's Bldg. Lounge.

4 p.m. Mortar Board Symposium Panel Discussion, "Trends in Campus Politics: Conservatism or Apathy?" Henry Berger, WU assoc. prof. of history; Robert Salisbury, WU prof. of political science; William Sullivan, WU law student; and Larry Joseph, WU asst. prof. of political science, moderator. Eliot Hall Lounge.

7:30 p.m. Mortar Board Symposium Panel Discussion, "Two Career Relationships," Linda B. Salamon, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and others. Ann Whitney Olin Women's Bldg. Lounge.

Wednesday, March 24

11 a.m. Tyrrell Williams Lecture, "The Child in Trouble: The Long and Difficult Road to Reforming the Crazy-Quilt Juvenile Justice System," Judge Irving R. Kaufman, U.S. Court of Appeals, Second Circuit. Graham Chapel.

3 p.m. Clinical Law Program Judicial Lecture/Demonstration Series with Judge Susan Block, St. Louis County Circuit Court, discussing the closing argument. Mudd Hall Courtroom.

4 p.m. Department of Physics Colloquium, "The Casimir Effect," Kim Milton, dept. of physics, Okla. State U. 201 Crow.

4 p.m. Department of Anthropology Colloquium, "Longitudinal Growth Studies in Central Australia," Tasman Brown, School of Dentistry, U. of Adelaide, South Australia. 101 McMillan.

7:30 p.m. WU Student Bar Association Lecture, "The Handgun Ban in Morton Grove, Ill.: Are We Ready in St. Louis?" Martin Ashman, city attorney, Morton Grove, Ill. Cosponsored by the Missouri Committee for Firearms Safety. Mudd Hall Courtroom.

7:30 p.m. Mortar Board Symposium Panel Discussion, "Unconventional Career Paths: Surprise Ending," with St. Louis alumnae Hannah Roth, architect; Bonnie Miller, attorney; Gail Jackson, business executive; Yvette Kirby, physician; and Sandy Greenberg, advertising executive. Ann Whitney Olin Women's Bldg. Lounge.

Thursday, March 25

11 a.m. Mortar Board Symposium Panel Discussion, "Morals in the Work Place," with WU alumna Lisa Anderson, Sheila Lewis, David Herschberger and Bill Black. Lambert Lounge, Mallinckrodt Center.

1 p.m. George Warren Brown School of Social Work Lecture, "Financing Social Services: The Role of the United Way," Chancellor William H. Danforth. Brown Hall Lounge.

3 p.m. Black Studies Program Lecture, "The History of Discrimination Against Black Students in Chicago's Secondary Schools," T. K. Daniel, WU American Council of Education Fellow. 349 McMillan.

3 p.m. Mortar Board Symposium Panel Discussion, "College Education . . . Can You Take It With You?" with Chancellor William H. Danforth; Christopher Loving, residential area coordinator, and others. Gargoyle, Mallinckrodt Center.

8 p.m. Holocaust Lecture Series, "Roosevelt, the Jews and the Holocaust," Henry Feingold, prof. of history, Baruch College, CUNY. Steinberg Hall Aud.

Friday, March 26

8 p.m. Department of Philosophy Lecture with American novelist, Walter Abish, reading from his own work. 110 January.

Saturday, March 27

9 a.m. International Development Program Conference on Central America and U.S. Foreign Policy, with Frank Gomez, U.S. deputy assistant secretary of state for public affairs. Patrick Lacey, coeditor, El Salvador: Central America in the New Cold War; Barry Ames, WU assoc. prof. of political science; and Henry Berger, WU assoc. prof. of history. Cosponsored by the WU chapter of the Society for International Development and Student Union. Mudd Hall Courtroom.

1:30 p.m. International Development Program Conference on Central America and U.S. Foreign Policy Workshops on such topics as the church in Central America, Guatemala, Nicaragua, refugees, land reform and news media coverage. Eliot Hall, second floor.

Performing Arts

Friday, March 19

8 p.m. Edison Theatre Series, Douglas Dunn and Dancers. Edison Theatre. Tickets are $6 gen. admission; $4.50 for area students and WU faculty and staff; and $3 for WU students. (Also Sat., March 20, 8 p.m., Edison Theatre.) Tickets available at Edison Theatre box office, 889-6543.

8 p.m. Seventh Annual German Day Play, Die Massnahme, by Bertolt Brecht. Performed by WU undergraduate German students and directed by Phillip Boehm and Martina Mueller, WU graduate students in German. Mudd Courtroom. (Also Sat., March 20, 8 p.m., Mudd.)

Saturday, March 20

8 p.m. Foreign Language Week Spanish Play, En la diestra de Dios Padre, by contemporary Colombian playwright Enrique Buenaventura. Performed by WU undergraduate Spanish students and directed by Phil Keefer, WU undergraduate student in economics. Admission $1; WU students free. Graham Chapel.

Thursday, March 25

8 p.m. Performing Arts Area Production, Percival the Fool, written and directed by Hollis Huston, WU artist-in-residence in drama. Drama Studio. $1.50. Tickets available at Edison Theatre box office, 889-6543. (Also 8 p.m. Fri., March 26, and 8 and 10 p.m. Sat., March 27 and Sun., March 28, Drama Studio.)

Friday, March 26

8 p.m. Edison Theatre Series, Letters Home, by Rose Leiman Goldemberg. A powerful, tender dialogue between poet Sylvia Plath and her mother. Edison Theatre. Tickets are $6 general admission; $4.50 for area students, WU faculty and staff; and $3 for WU students. Tickets available at Edison Theatre box office, 889-6543. (Also Sat., March 27, 8 p.m., Edison Theatre.)

Exhibitions

"Books from the Lutz Library." Medical Library Annex, 615 S. Taylor. 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays. Through April 4.

"15th-Century Books and Manuscripts." Special Collections, fifth floor, Olin Library. 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays. Through April 2.

"19th- and 20th-Century Masterpieces from the University Collection." Lower Gallery, WU Gallery of Art, Steinberg Hall. 10 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays; 1-5 p.m. weekends. Through April 25.

"Contemporary Prints Published by the WU School of Fine Arts Print Workshop." Print Gallery, WU Gallery of Art, Steinberg Hall. 10 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays; 1-5 p.m. weekends. Through March 21.

"Urban Open Spaces," a photographic exhibition from the Smithsonian Institution focusing on the distinctive spaces in between buildings. Features Bernini's designs for St. Peter's Square and William Penn's plans for Philadelphia. 7 a.m.-11 p.m. weekdays. Givens Hall, first floor. Through March 21.

"Master of Fine Arts Thesis Exhibition, Part I," original works by WU School of Fine Arts graduate students. Bixby Gallery and Upper Gallery, WU Gallery of Art, Steinberg Hall. Bixby hours are 10 a.m.-4 p.m. weekdays; 1-5 p.m. weekends. Gallery of Art hours are 10 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays; 1-5 p.m. weekends. Through April 11.

Music

Friday, March 19

8 p.m. Department of Music Composers Forum, featuring original works by WU composition students. Graham Chapel.

Friday, March 26

8 p.m. Department of Music Graduate Student Recital with Paul Harris, harpsichordist. McMillan Cafeteria.

Films

Thursday, March 18

7:30 and 9:45 p.m. WU Filmboard Series, "Magic Flute." $2. Brown Hall Aud.

Friday, March 19

7:30 and 9:45 p.m. WU Filmboard Series, "Raging Bull." $2. Brown Hall Aud. (Also Sat., March 20, same times, Brown.)

Midnight. WU Filmboard Series, "Taxi Driver." $1. Brown Hall Aud. (Also Sat., March 20, midnight, Brown.)

Sunday, March 21

4:30 and 7 p.m. WU Filmboard Series, "Diamonds Are Forever." $2. Brown Hall Aud. (Also Mon., March 22, 7 and 9:30 p.m., Brown.)

Tuesday, March 23

7:30 and 9:30 p.m. American Express Film Series, "African Queen." $2. Brown Hall Aud.

Wednesday, March 24

7:30 p.m. and 9:15 p.m. WU Filmboard Series, "Rocking Horse Winner." $2. Brown Hall Aud. (Also Thurs., March 25, same times, Brown.)

Thursday, March 25

4 p.m. School of Architecture Film Series, "The Social Life of Small Urban Spaces." 116 Givens Hall. No charge.

4 p.m. Department of Art History Film, "Marc Chagall: The Colours of Passion." Steinberg Hall Aud. No charge. (Also 12:30 p.m. Fri., March 26, Steinberg.)

Friday, March 26

7:30 and 10:30 p.m. WU Filmboard Series, "Love and Death." $2. Brown Hall Aud. (Also Sat., March 27, same times, Brown.)

Sports

Friday, March 19

3 p.m. Men's Tennis, WU vs. UMSL. Tennis Courts.

Saturday, March 20

1 p.m. Baseball Doubleheader, WU vs. Ill. Tech. Utz Field.

Monday, March 22

3 p.m. Men's Tennis, WU vs. Jefferson College. Tennis Courts.

Wednesday, March 24

3 p.m. Men's Tennis, WU vs. Westminster College. Tennis Courts.

Friday, March 26

3 p.m. Men's Tennis, WU vs. University of Wisconsin. Tennis Courts.

Saturday, March 27

1 p.m. Men's Tennis, WU vs. St. Louis U. Tennis Courts.

Calendar Deadline

The deadline to submit items for the calendar period of April 1-10 is March 18. Items must be typed and state time, date, place, nature of event, sponsor and admission cost. Incomplete items will not be printed. If available, include speaker name and identification and the title of the event. Those submitting items, please note name and telephone number. Address items to Susan Kesling, calendar editor, Box 1142.

Indexed