Around the world in 5 days

Bill Bradley examines U.S.-Western European relations during Foreign Language Week keynote address

Bill Bradley, U.S. senator from New Jersey and former basketball star, will deliver the keynote address at 11 a.m. Wednesday, March 13, during WU's Foreign Language Week.

The lecture, titled "U.S.-Western European Relations," will be held in Graham Chapel. Part of the Assembly Series, it is free and open to the public.

Foreign Language Week, March 12-16, will feature French Day, Tuesday, March 12; Chinese and Japanese and Russian Day, March 15; German Day, March 14; and Spanish Day, March 15.

Bradley, a native of Crystal City, Mo., was the youngest member of the U.S. Senate when he was sworn in on Jan. 3, 1979, at the age of 35. He was a forward for the New York Knicks from 1967 to 1977, twice helping the team win the National Basketball Association championship. One of the most publicized of which, the Abscam probe, spawned indictments and subsequent convictions of six congressmen and one senator on charges of taking payoffs from an FBI undercover agent and FBI informant.

Prior to his appointment as FBI director, Webster served as U.S. District Judge for the Eastern District of Missouri and three years later was elevated to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 8th District.

The Globe-Democrat's Man of the Year for 1980, Webster also has been honored with a 1972 WU Alumni Citation for his contributions to the field of law, and a 1977 WU Distinguished Alumni Award from WU's law school.

The Tyrell Williams Lecture was established in 1948 by the faculty and friends of the late Tyrell Williams, a member of WU's School of Law faculty from 1913 to 1946. The evening of Webster's speech, Norris H. Allen, St. Louis attorney, and Illinois Supreme Court Justice Joseph H. Goldfogle will receive Distinguished Law Alumni Awards at WU's Law Alumni Association and School of Law's annual alumni dinner.

The awards are given each year to selected law school alumni in honor of their service to WU and their successful careers.

Allen received his law degree from WU in 1925. The same year, he was honored with a 1972 WU Alumni Citation for his contributions to the field of law, and a 1977 WU Distinguished Alumni Award from WU's law school.

The Tyrell Williams Lecture was established in 1948 by the faculty and friends of the late Tyrell Williams, a member of WU's School of Law faculty from 1913 to 1946. The evening of Webster's speech, Norris H. Allen, St. Louis attorney, and Illinois Supreme Court Justice Joseph H. Goldfogle will receive Distinguished Law Alumni Awards at WU's Law Alumni Association and School of Law's annual alumni dinner.

The awards are given each year to selected law school alumni in honor of their service to WU and their successful careers.

Allen received his law degree from WU in 1925. The same year, he was honored with a 1972 WU Alumni Citation for his contributions to the field of law, and a 1977 WU Distinguished Alumni Award from WU's law school.

The Tyrell Williams Lecture was established in 1948 by the faculty and friends of the late Tyrell Williams, a member of WU's School of Law faculty from 1913 to 1946. The evening of Webster's speech, Norris H. Allen, St. Louis attorney, and Illinois Supreme Court Justice Joseph H. Goldfogle will receive Distinguished Law Alumni Awards at WU's Law Alumni Association and School of Law's annual alumni dinner.

The awards are given each year to selected law school alumni in honor of their service to WU and their successful careers.

Allen received his law degree from WU in 1925. The same year, he was honored with a 1972 WU Alumni Citation for his contributions to the field of law, and a 1977 WU Distinguished Alumni Award from WU's law school.

The Tyrell Williams Lecture was established in 1948 by the faculty and friends of the late Tyrell Williams, a member of WU's School of Law faculty from 1913 to 1946. The evening of Webster's speech, Norris H. Allen, St. Louis attorney, and Illinois Supreme Court Justice Joseph H. Goldfogle will receive Distinguished Law Alumni Awards at WU's Law Alumni Association and School of Law's annual alumni dinner.

The awards are given each year to selected law school alumni in honor of their service to WU and their successful careers.

Allen received his law degree from WU in 1925. The same year, he was honored with a 1972 WU Alumni Citation for his contributions to the field of law, and a 1977 WU Distinguished Alumni Award from WU's law school.

The Tyrell Williams Lecture was established in 1948 by the faculty and friends of the late Tyrell Williams, a member of WU's School of Law faculty from 1913 to 1946. The evening of Webster's speech, Norris H. Allen, St. Louis attorney, and Illinois Supreme Court Justice Joseph H. Goldfogle will receive Distinguished Law Alumni Awards at WU's Law Alumni Association and School of Law's annual alumni dinner.

The awards are given each year to selected law school alumni in honor of their service to WU and their successful careers.

Allen received his law degree from WU in 1925. The same year, he was honored with a 1972 WU Alumni Citation for his contributions to the field of law, and a 1977 WU Distinguished Alumni Award from WU's law school.
Latin Day brings high schoolers to campus for fun and facts

Spring break at WU may be a time for absorbing sunshine in Florida. But it’s also a time for absorbing science in Edison Theatre.

The word science may sound Greek to most people. But, as any high school student visiting our campus next week will attest, it’s Latin. Translated, science means knowledge. And that’s just what Kevin Herbert, WU professor of classics, and Cyrus St. Clair, Latin instructor from the Parkway School District, will be giving away next Wednesday — to as many high school students who care to listen.

“ConveNts 1985,” otherwise known as Latin Day, is scheduled to occur from 9:30 a.m. until noon Wednesday, March 6, in Edison Theatre. Local Latin teachers and students are invited to attend.

“Last year, we had 450 high school students,” Herbert said. “We want to bring young Latin students to our campus, teach them and also expose them to the University in hopes that some of them will choose to attend.”

The lectures are designed to interest junior and senior high school Latin students. They are intended to go one step beyond what students are learning in class and introduce them to Latin phrases, history and concepts that will entertain and enlighten them.

“We try to go a step beyond their usually grammar lessons and the play "Julius Caesar,"” Herbert explained. “We take pieces of knowledge and try to make them fun.”

Herbert held up a dollar bill. “For instance, not many people know that many of the phrases on a dollar are written in Latin. I go over the phrases on a dollar bill with students and they seem very interested. Most of them handle money every day and don’t ever notice it.”

Gladly sharing his knowledge, Herbert will present a slide lecture, titled “Latin Is All Around Us.” During the slide show, he will show students some of the many ways in which Latin affects their lives.

St. Clair will present a slide show, titled “Big Game Hunting in Rome.”

“Latin Day serves many purposes,” Herbert said. “It’s like going to the theatre. We try to make it entertaining and not like a class students haven’t prepared for. For the teachers and the kids, it means a day away from the usual grind. And, hopefully, they’ll come away learning something, too.”

International conference explores Western European integration

“Western Europe in Transition: Germany’s Role in the European Community” will be explored in a conference March 15-17 in the Ann Whitney Olin Women’s Building. The international and interdisciplinary conference is presented by the University’s Western European Studies Program, Department of German and University College International Affairs Program.

The conference deals with recent trends in Western European integration, with an emphasis on Western German role, according to Paul Michael Lutzeler, conference coordinator and director of the Western European Studies Program. The concept of European integration formally began in 1957 when France, Germany, and Italy formed the European Economic Community. Now called the European Community (EC), the organization has 10 members.

Rudolf Hrbek, director of the political science department at the University of Tuebingen, West Germany, will open the conference with a lecture, “German Politics and the European Community” at 1 p.m. Friday, March 15. He will remain at WU for a month as a DAAD (translated German Academic Exchange Service) visiting professor, teaching four sections of a new course called “Western Europe Today.”

Other world-renowned participants in the conference include: Werner Weidenfeld, professor of political science at the University of Mainz, West Germany; Juergen Schwarz, director of the Institute of European Law at the University of Hamburg, West Germany; Wolfgang Graf Vitzthum, professor of law at University of Tuebingen; George Norman, Tyler professor of Economics at the University of Leicester, England; and Konrad von Moltek, director of the European Cultural Foundation.

WU participants include representatives of the departments and programs of political science, economics, German, comparative literature, urban studies, Western European studies, international affairs, history and the law school.

The registration fee is $25 for high school teachers and $45 for trade and economic affairs and deputy director of the EC delegation. When the registration fee is $25 for high school teachers and $45 for others. No registration fee will be charged to members of the WU community who present I.D. cards. The Friday banquet is an additional $12.50 per person. Registration deadline is March 1.

For more information, call 889-5106.

dy policy. The rally was held in response to the student rally decision regarding the DAAD(Deutscher Akademischer Austausch Dienst) and the WU community who present I.D. cards. The Friday banquet is an additional $12.50 per person. Registration deadline is March 1.

For more information, call 889-5106.

dy policy. The rally was held in response to the student rally decision regarding the DAAD(Deutscher Akademischer Austausch Dienst) and the WU community who present I.D. cards. The Friday banquet is an additional $12.50 per person. Registration deadline is March 1.

For more information, call 889-5106.

dy policy. The rally was held in response to the student rally decision regarding the DAAD(Deutscher Akademischer Austausch Dienst) and the WU community who present I.D. cards. The Friday banquet is an additional $12.50 per person. Registration deadline is March 1.

For more information, call 889-5106.
Leonard Berg, professor of clinical neurology, has been elected president of the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology, the national board with secondary control subjects.

Have you done something noteworthy?

William Kirby, assistant professor of history, has published "Republican China" (Stanford University Press, 1984) and will present a paper on "The International Development of Chinese Industry, 1928-1958" at the annual meeting of the Association for Asian Studies in March 1985.

Helfman's art exhibited in Steinberg

Paintings created by Sheldon Helfman, WU professor of architecture, will be exhibited March 5-31 in the University's Gallery of Art print gallery in Steinberg Hall. Titled "SHELDON HELLMAN Selected Works: 1959-1984," the exhibit celebrates the anniversary of Helfman's 25 years at WU. The display includes paintings in acrylic, oil and watercolor, and selected pencil, ink and ink wash drawings. An artist's reception will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday, March 10, in the gallery.

Curator of the exhibit is James Harris, assistant dean in the School of Architecture. In his introduction, Harris noted that Helfman has selected to paint his major current work will be displayed in the Fontbonne College Library Gallery, March 10-29. A reception also will be held March 10 from 2 to 4 p.m. in the Fontbonne gallery.

Mock trial team wins first place in competition

The Law School's mock trial team has won first place in the regional mock trial competition held Feb. 9 and 10 in Kansas City, Mo. The team, Debra Carlson-Wood, Chris Hartmann and Shelley Woodward, argued a murder case involv- ing a doctor accused of killing his son. They placed first out of 16 teams and will compete at the national competition March 27-31 in Dallas.

Aside from winning the regional competition, 1985-86 was the only law school to have two teams place in the quarter final rounds. The other quarter final round featuring WU placed second in the quarter final round and included Patricia Cray, John McCoy and Mike Schiff.

"The students were not only great trial advocates, but were also first-class representatives of Washington University," said Tom Sullivan, professor of law at WU and team coach.

Tuition, room and board increase lowest in 11 years

WU will increase fees for tuition, room and board 6.5 percent for the 1985-86 academic year — its smallest increase in 11 years and one of the lowest among the major independent universities in the nation. Combined fees for 1985-86 total $9,560. Board costs will increase to $2,400, lowest for increases in costs in recent years, said Robert J. Benson, chairman of the National Endowment for the Humanities and chair-elect, to which she was appointed earlier this month at the organization.

"The AAC is the only national organization which promotes liberal learning at U.S. colleges and universities. Its 500 members include public and private universities, four-year colleges and community colleges. The AAC report follows the call for undergraduate education — one of the recommendations of the AAC report. The AAC is the only national organization which promotes liberal learning at U.S. colleges and universities. Its 500 members include public and private universities, four-year colleges and community colleges. The AAC report follows the call for undergraduate education — one of the recommendations of the AAC report.

Salmon to chair Association of American Colleges in 1986

Linda B. Salmon, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, will become chair of the Association of American Colleges in 1986. Her ascendency to the top post in AAC will follow her four years as vice chair and chair-elect, to which she was elected earlier this month at the association's annual meeting in Washington, D.C.

Salman was instrumental in AAC's three-year effort to propose solutions designed to return integrity to undergraduate curriculums at American colleges and universities. She was one of three AAC leaders who explained the project and its findings at a press conference held in Washington, D.C., on Feb. 11, the first day of AAC's annual meeting.

"The report, titled "Integrity in the College Curriculum," says curricular reform and become so diversified that bachelor's degrees have lost their value. It recommends that schools concentrate on developing opportunities for basic intellectual experiences available to both liberal arts and professional program students.

Salmon's AAC board membership and participation on the baccalaureate degree committee led to WU's involvement as one of 11 institutions whose self-assessments formed the report and its recommendations.

The AAC is the only national organization which promotes liberal learning at U.S. colleges and universities. Its 500 members include public and private universities, four-year colleges and community colleges.

"We must engage the intellectual challenges and capacities we think they should have," WU's undergraduate curriculum already includes some of the "experiences" suggested by the AAC report. Among them are the emphasis on multi-cultural studies, particularly in foreign languages, and exposure to science for every student.

Salman was appointed dean at WU in June 1979. A scholar of English with a specialty in Elizabethan culture, she also was appointed associate professor of English, a position she still maintains.

Earlier she held administrative posts at the University of Pennsylvania and Wellesley College in New York, and academic posts at Bennington College in Vermont, Smith in Massachusetts and Dartmouth in New Hampshire.

As AAC vice chair, Salmon succeeds Bernard Harrelton, president of the City College of New York, who was elected chair of the association.

Salmon received her bachelor's degree in English from Radcliffe College, where she graduated magna cum laude, Phi Beta Kappa. Her master's degree and doctorate are from Bryn Mawr College.

conservation and through innovative management of University resources. By assigning responsibilities for administrative costs to each operating unit of the University, we have been able to control the rate of cost increases.

Close supervision of University funds and resources ranks us among the lowest for increases in costs in recent years," said Robert J. Benson, associate vice chancellor.

Among the 93 leading independent universities in the nation, WU ranks 67th in rate of increase costs over the past three years.

The 1985-86 increase is applicable to undergraduate students enrolled in the academic areas of arts and sciences, architecture, business and public administration, engineering and fine arts. More than half of WU's 4,500 undergraduates receive need-based financial aid.
LECTURES

Thursday, Feb. 28

2:30 p.m. Dept. of Mechanical Engineering Seminar, "Evolution and Innovation in the Engineering Design Process," William J. Coad, prof. of mechanical engineering, and James B. McCracken and assoc. 100 Cupples II.

4 p.m. Dept. of Chemistry Seminar, "Forced Rayleigh Scattering and Its Application to Polymer Diffusion and Electrophoresis," H. Yu, prof. of chemistry, U. of Wisconsin

Friday, March 1

Yu, prof. of chemistry, U. of Wisconsin 311

Polymer Diffusion and Electrophoresis," H. Cupples II.

pres., Charles J. R. McClure and Assoc. 100

C.P.E. Bach and the Failure of Words," Darrell Berg, the Louis Conservatory of Music, Biewert B-8.

6 and 8:30 p.m. WU Association Travel Film Series, "Incomparable New Zealand," Ken Armstrong, filmmaker. Graham Chapel. For ticket info., call 891-5122.

Saturday, March 2
11 a.m. Saturday Seminar, "Establishing Public Medical Policies in a Pluralistic Society," Virginia Weldon, WU deputy vice chancellor for Medical Affairs and prof. of public health, Graham Chapel. For more info., call 652-5200, ext. 71.

Friday, March 8

Monday, March 11
2 p.m. Dept. of Chemical Engineering Seminar, "Transport of Penetrants and Solvent," Nicholas A. Peppas, prof. of chemical engineering, and Richard Adeboi, assoc. dir., Japan/American Society. WU lecture Hall, Ridgley.

Monday, March 14

8 p.m. Writers' Colloquium, "On Translating Buddhism," Richard Howard, poet, critic and translator. Hurst Lounge, Dinkytown Hall.

Friday, March 15
9:30 a.m. Symposium: Western Europe in Transition. Germany's Role in the European Community. Scholars from Europe and the U.S. will speak at the program in the WU Building. (Also Sat., March 16, and Sun., March 17.) Admission is $5 for high school students and $5 for others. WU faculty and students free. Sponsored by Western European Studies Program, German dept. and International Affairs Program for more info., call 891-5106.

Friday, March 16
4 p.m. Dept. of Music, and New Music Circle cion speaker, "Alexander Tcherepnin: A Com- memorative Concert" at Edison Theatre. General admission at the door is $5, students and seniors, $3.

Wednesday, March 13
11:15 a.m. Dept. of Music Student Recital, Tiejinsu Rehearsal Hall.

Friday, March 15
8 a.m. Dept. of Music Concert with Mary Springfield, who plays medieval instruments. Holmes Lounge.

Saturday, March 16
8 a.m. Civic Chorus Concert. Graham Chapel.

PERFORMANCES

Friday, March 15
8 a.m. WU Performing Arts Area presents the play "Conte Bacc to the 5 & Dime Jimmey Dean, Jimmey Dean" at Drama Studio, Room 208. tickets $25. Also (March 16 at 8 p.m. and March 17 at 8 p.m.) Admission is $8.

EXHIBITIONS

"19th Century Art From the Permanent Collections." Through March 31. Gallery of Art, lower gallery. 10 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays. 11 a.m. weekends. For evening hours, call 891-5490.

"Crises and New Beginnings: The Book in the Renaissance." Through Feb. 28. Special Collections Library, 4th floor, Lind Lib. 9 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays.

"Jean Dubuffet: Forty Years of His Art." Through March 5. Gallery of Art, upper and print galleries. 10 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays. 1-5 p.m. weekends.

"Anah Werkhaker's Calligraphy/Art Student Show." Through March 3. Bixby Gallery, Bixby Hall. 10 a.m.-4 p.m. weekdays. 1-5 p.m. weekends.

"SHELDON HELFMAN: Selected Works: 1959-1984." March 5. Gallery of Art, print gallery. 10 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays. 1-5 p.m. weekends. For evening hours, call 891-5490. Opening reception 2-4 p.m. Sun., March 10.

Wednesday, March 13
7 and 8:45 p.m. WU Filmboard Series, "DOLX." 82. Brown Hall. (Also Tues., March 12, same time, Brown.)

Thursday, March 28
8 p.m. Poetry Reading with Richard Howard, poet, translator and critic. Hurst Lounge, Duncker Hall.

Saturday, March 16
6 p.m. WU Women's Club's Gala Dinner Auction, celebrating the club's 75th year and honoring Elizabeth G. Danforth, wife of Chancellor William C. Kirby, WU. (Also Sat., March 16, same time, Brown.)

Calendar Deadline
The deadline to submit items for the March 21-30 calendar of the Washington University Record is March 7. Items must be typewritten and state date, time, place, nature of event, sponsor and admission cost. Incomplete items will not be printed. If available, include speaker's name and identification and the title of the event; also include your name and telephone number. Address items to King McIlfroy, calendar editor, Box 1142.

Historian profiles medieval city in the Levant

David Jacoby, professor of history at Hebrew University in Jerusalem, will speak on "Crusader Acre: The Profile of a Medieval City in the Levant" at 4 p.m. Thursday, March 14, in Hurst Lounge.

His talk is free and open to the public. Sponsors for the lecture include the University's Department of History, Department of Archaeology, Jewish Studies, Urban Studies and Assembly Series.

A former chairman of Hebrew University's history department, Jacoby has been a visiting professor in the history departments of the University of California at Berkeley, Princeton University and the University of Pennsylvania.

He is the author of many books and articles on medieval Judaism, medieval Venice and the crusader states.

"Jacoby is a world-renowned scholar," said Peter Riesenberg, WU professor of history. "He's lectured at every major university in the public. He's very pleased that he will be speaking at WU."

Jacoby received his bachelor's and master's degrees in history and bible at Hebrew University. He earned his doctorate in 1958.

Webster—continued from p. 4

joined the St. Louis law firm of Anderson, Gilbert & Wolford, now Anderson, Gilbert, Wolford, Allen & Bierman. In 1930, he served as general attorney for the U.S. Department of Agriculture. He also was a member of Missouri Gov. John Dalton's Human Rights Commission.

Goldenersh, a native of East St. Louis, received his law degree from WU in 1935. After being in private law practice, he served as Appellate Court justice from 1964 to 1970. He was elected to the St. Louis County Court in 1970 and re-elected in 1980.