Celebrate it: From building floats and bonfires to watching bands and the Battling Bears, this year's Homecoming promises something for everyone to celebrate. For details on the four-day event, see story on p. 2.

132nd Founders Day

'An Evening with Mark Twain' honors six alumni

WU will observe its 132nd Founders Day with "An Evening With Mark Twain" Saturday, Oct. 12, in the King Louis IX Ballroom of the Omni International Hotel at St. Louis Union Station.

Actor William McLinn will recreate Mark Twain at the celebration, which honors distinguished WU graduates and outstanding faculty.

A former Congressional staff member and seminarian, McLinn began performing as Mark Twain in 1975. In the intervening years, he has given more performances of Twain than all other impersonators, with the exception of Hal Holbrook, combined. Every word in his performance is Twain's, drawn from his writings and speeches.

This year marks both WU's 132nd anniversary and the beginning of the 1985-86 sesquicentennial of Mark Twain's birth. It is also the 100th anniversary of Twain's celebrated American lecture tour.

Founders Day is sponsored by the WU Alumni Association. The event begins at 6 p.m. with cocktails, followed by dinner, the program and dancing.

Tickets are $25 a person. Reservations must be received by Friday, Oct. 4. For more information, call 889-5122.

The University will present distinguished alumni awards "for outstanding professional achievement, contributions in areas of public service, exceptional service to WU, or all three" to Jerome F. Brasch, president of Brasch Manufacturing Co. Inc. and Marcraft Inc.; Paula J. Clayton, M.D., professor and head of the department of psychiatry, University of Minnesota; E. Thomas Coleman, member of Congress, 6th District, Missouri; Lawrence P. Klamon, president and chief operating officer, Fuqua Industries Inc.; A. Wellborne Moise, retired vice president personnel and office administration, Ralston Purina Co.; and Judy F. Schnitzer, real estate broker.

Brasch has had a continuous relationship with WU for more than 40 years. After receiving his bachelor of science degree in 1944, he served two years as an officer in the U.S. Navy. He returned to the University in 1946 for his master's in chemical engineering, awarded in 1947. For 20 years, he taught math in University College, while operating his family manufacturing firm. He has been a member of the Engineering Scholarship Committee since 1976 and chairman from 1978 to 1981. He has established two scholarships — the Norvell C. Brasch Memorial Scholarship and the David E. Gets Memorial Scholarship. He has been a member of the Engineering Advisory Council since 1978, serving as vice chairman and chairman. He has represented the engineering school on the Alumni Board of Governors and its Executive Committee and is currently annual programs chairman of the ALLIANCE FOR WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY.

When she became professor and head of the department of psychiatry at the University of Minnesota Medical School five years ago, Clayton was the first woman to head a department at the school. She had already established a national reputation in teaching, research and clinical practice during more than 15 years of association with the WU Medical Center and affiliated hospitals. A graduate of the University of Michigan, she received her medical degree from WU's School of Medicine in 1960. She was, successively, assistant resident and chief resident at Barnes and Renard hospitals. She was named instructor in psychiatry at the School of Medicine in 1965, achieving the rank of professor of psychiatry in 1974. She continued her association with Barnes and Renard, becoming director of the Psychiatric Inpatient Service in 1975.

150th anniversary of Twain's birth observed Oct. 2-3

Samuel Clemens, known in American history as Mark Twain, was born in 1835, a year when Halley's comet could be seen from earth. He died in 1910, when the comet again neared this planet. In 1985, Twain is coming back with the comet. In celebration of the 150th anniversary of his birth and 75th anniversary of his death, WU will present "Mark Twain: An American 'Call to Literature'" Oct. 2 and 3.

The event, made possible by a grant from Mark Twain Banks, will feature lectures on Mark Twain and American humor, a concert, and an exhibit of the Missouri-born humorist's letters and manuscripts. All sessions are free and open to the public.

Trudi Spigel, coordinator of the Assembly Series, says, "It's only fitting that St. Louis should be the site of this celebration — a city on Mark Twain's river, the Mississippi."

Calvin Trillin, staff writer for The New Yorker magazine, will give the first lecture at 11 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 2, in Graham Chapel. The title of his talk is "Humor in America: Observing the (Harry) Golden Rule." Trillin is the author of Uncivil Liberties, a collection of humorous essays.

Also on Oct. 2, at 4 p.m. in the Women's Building Lounge, Harvard University professor of English Warner Berthoff will present "The People's Author: Attempting to Find Mr. Mark Twain."

At 12:20 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 3, the Gateway Brass Quintet will give an outdoor concert in the 19th-century style in Brookings Quadrangle. The four-member band will play Dixieland, ragtime and Civil War-era music. Free popcorn and soda will be served.

At 4 p.m. Oct. 3, in the Steinberg Auditorium, author Josef Skvorecky will present a reading and commentary featuring his parody of Twain's "Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County." Skvorecky, professor of English at the University of Toronto, is the author of The Engineer of Human Souls.

WU professor of English Wayne Fields will follow with a lecture titled "When the Fences Are Down: Language and Order in Huckleberry Finn."

The final event Thursday will be a writers' round-table discussion on "The Writer Twain and the Writers' Twain." In addition to Trillin, Berthoff, Skvorecky and Fields, WU professors and authors William Gass, Stanley Elkin and Daniel Shea will participate.

An exhibit of Mark Twain's manuscripts, letters and first editions will be displayed in the Olin Library Special Collections Room, on the fifth level of the library. The display may be viewed Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Oct. 31.

Alumni endow Hughes fund

Members of the WU alumni successfully completed a drive to endow the Hughes Fellowship Fund in honor of the late Arthur Hughes, a member of the physics department who died in 1978. The announcement was made by Chancellor William H. Danforth.

The Hughes fellows for the 1985-86 academic year are: Joe Halzer of Florissant, Mo., and Chad Olinger of Denver, Colo. Both are first-year graduate students in physics.

The Hughes Fellowship Fund drive was chaired by Wilfred R. Konneker, a former student of Hughes. Hughes became associated with WU in 1923 as Wayman Crow Professor and chairman of the physics department. He succeeded the late Arthur H. Compton, who was later named chancellor of WU.

During his 30-year tenure as chairman, Hughes developed a strong program of research in cooperation with the School of Medicine. He also planned construction of the WU cyclotron, which was later instrumental in developing the atomic bomb at the Manhattan Project.

Konneker is president of the Konneker Development Corp. and chairman of the University's Alumni Board of Governors.

Danforth said, "The University is grateful to Wil Konneker for his leadership in establishing this fellowship program in memory of Hughes, and to the alumni who contributed to the fund. Dr. Hughes was an outstanding member of the Washington University faculty, who was internationally recognized for his contributions to science."

Konneker has been a long-time supporter of WU and an active participant in many University programs. He is a life member of the Eliot Society, a member of the Capital Resources Committee for Arts and Sciences, and a supporter of the ALLIANCE FOR WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY, a $300 million fund-raising campaign. He holds a doctorate in nuclear physics from WU and was formerly a vice president for Mallinckrodt Chemical Co. In 1973, he was appointed by Gov. Christopher S. Bond to the Missouri Atomic Energy Commission.

The Acting Company opens fall season

The Acting Company will open the 1985-86 season at Edison Theatre at 8 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 5, with "Orchards: A Chekhov Evening" (A Mid-America Arts Alliance Production). The following evening, Oct. 6, the company will present William Shakespeare's "As You Like It."

The Acting Company, under the artistic direction of John Houseman, is the touring arm of the nation's John F. Kennedy Center.

The Acting Company commissioned a group of American playwrights, including Obie winners Samm-Art Williams and Maria Irene Fornes and Pulitzer Prize winner David Mamet, to adapt seven lesser-known short stories by Anton Chekhov. The result, "Orchards: A Chekhov Evening," directed by Robert Falls, will feature a range of style and emotion from the mysterious to the hilarious.

Shakespeare's playful "As You Like It" combines romantic comedy with a touch of satire to tell the story of an exiled royal family living in the country. Through the clever manipulations of the banished duke's daughter, Rosalind, love and loyalty triumph. The duke is restored to his rightful place, and three pairs of lovers are united in a final triple wedding. Mervyn Willis directs this classic comedy.

The program is made possible by support from the Missouri Arts Council and the National Endowment for the Arts, through their participation in Mid-America Arts Alliance, a regional arts organization.

Tickets for either show are $15 to the general public; $10 for senior citizens and WU faculty and staff; and $7 for students. For more information, call the box office at 889-6543.

'After all, Homecoming is a time to let loose and celebrate'

"Celebrate it!"

That's exactly what WU students plan to do during this year's Homecoming festivities. They'll party, participate in pizza-eating contests, construct school-spirited floats and just generally have a great time. "After all," says senior Maggie Kalkowski, who heads the steering committee for the event, "Homecoming is a time to let loose and celebrate!"

Homecoming at WU begins Wednesday, Oct. 2, and ends Saturday, Oct. 5, when the Battling Bears meet the Colorado College Tigers at Francis Field.

Lou Brock, a 1985 inductee into the National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum, will be grand marshal of the Homecoming parade at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 5, starting at Forsyth and Big Bend.

Brock holds the career record of 938 stolen bases, and the National League single-season stolen base record of 118. He received an honorary doctor of humanities degree from the University in 1980.

For the first time, the gala occasion will feature a Homecoming concert. UB 40, a 10-member internationally known band from England, will perform at 8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 3, in the University's new athletic complex. The band plays reggae music. Their current record is a remake of the Sonny and Cher tune titled "I Got You Babe," featuring Chrissie Hynde, lead singer of the rock group The Pretenders. A band called The Untouchables will open the concert.

All seating for the concert is reserved. Tickets are $12.50 for the general public and $8.50 for WU students, faculty and staff. Tickets may be purchased at the Edison Theatre box office; West End Wax, 389 N. Euclid Ave.; or by calling the Dialtix ticket agency at 421-1400.

Zip Rzeppa, sports director at television station KTVI, will be master of ceremonies for the Homecoming pep rally at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 4, in the South-40 swamp.

Other highlights of the week include a parade at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 5. The parade of floats from more than 30 student and community organizations will start at Forsyth and Big Bend, proceed north on Big Bend to Delmar, east on Delmar to Skinker, south on Skinker to Forsyth and then west on Forsyth to the Monsanto building parking lot.

A tailgate party will begin at 5 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 5, in the parking lot outside Francis Field. Sky divers from the Archway Parachute Center in Sparta, Ill., will perform and bring down the game ball from the sky. Mae Wheeler's Jazz Band also will perform.

Below is the complete Homecoming schedule:

- Wednesday, Oct. 2 — Float Night (ice cream, that is) at Fat's Down Under. Members of the Homecoming steering committee will serve as waiters and waitresses for the ice cream lovers. The fun starts at 10 p.m.

- Thursday, Oct. 3 — UB 40 concert at 8 p.m. in the new athletic complex. The Untouchables will open the concert. After the concert, there will be a "UB at the Rat" night, complete with deejay, from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Umrathskeller.

- Friday, Oct. 4 — Pizza-eating contest from noon to 1 p.m. at Bowles Plaza. • Bonfire and pep rally, emceed by Zip Rzeppa, from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the swamp. • Float-building party — beginning at 8:30 p.m. in the South-40 area and along Fraternity Row.

- Saturday, Oct. 5 — Lineup for parade participants begins at 2:45 p.m. at Wohl Center. • Parade from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. starts at Forsyth and Big Bend. • Tailgate party from 5 to 7 p.m. in parking lot outside Francis Field. The sky divers will perform at approximately 5:30 p.m. • Football game between Battling Bears and Colorado College Tigers will be at 7 p.m. at Francis Field. Fireworks at Francis Field will follow the game. • "Celebration Bash" from 9:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Gargoyle Coffeehouse. Cagney, a local rock and roll band, will perform.

Eagleton dinner to help create professorship

A dinner in honor of Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton's three terms in the U.S. Senate will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 3, in the Khorassan Room of the Chase-Park Plaza Hotel.

The Committee to Establish the Thomas F. Eagleton Endowment Fund is sponsoring the event. Proceeds from the dinner will help create an endowed professorship at WU, where Eagleton will be University Professor of Public Affairs in 1986, following completion of his third term in the Senate.

Tickets are available at $300 a plate by calling Kathy Loeb, of Fleishman-Hillard, at 982-1700.

NOTABLES

Peter P. Gaspar, professor of chemistry, is the 1986 winner of the American Chemical Society's Frederic Stanley Kipping Award in Organosilicon Chemistry. The $3,000 award and certificate, sponsored by Dow Corning Corp., will be presented at the society's 191st national meeting next April in New York City. Gaspar, the 20th recipient of the honor, is only the ninth American to receive it. Gaspar is being honored for his investigation of chemical reactions of short-lived, silicon-containing species. This work has led to the discovery of new kinds of molecules and new ways to make organosilicon compounds.

Duck O. Kim, Ph.D., associate professor of cell biology and physiology, has been elected a member of the National Institutes of Health (NIH) Hearing Research Study Section. He will serve a four-year term. Kim also was awarded a five-year research grant from the National Institute of Neurological and Communicative Disorders and Stroke, for his research titled "Auditory Biophysics, Neurobiology and Psychophysics."

Rebecca Klatch, assistant professor of sociology, presented a paper, titled "Of Meanings and Masters: Political Symbols and Symbolic Action," Aug. 18-25 at the 10th International Wittgenstein Symposium, Vienna, Austria. She also participated in a round-table discussion Aug. 26-31 at the annual meetings of the American Sociological Association, Washington, D.C. She presented a paper titled "Political Symbolism and Political Activism Among Right-Wing Women in the U.S."

Virginia Minnich, professor emeritus of medicine and lecturer in laboratory medicine, was honored recently by Her Royal Highness Princess Maha Chakri Sirindhorn of Thailand at the International Conference on Thalassemia in Bangkok, Thailand. In the 1950s, Minnich participated in an exchange program with Thailand and initiated the development of thalassemia research in that country. Thalassemia is a genetic anemia similar to sickle cell anemia.

Forest Hodge O'Neal, George Alexander Madill Professor of Law and former dean of the law school, and Robert B. Thompson, professor of law, have published a two-volume second edition of O'Neal's book Oppression of Minority Shareholders. Daniel R. Mandelker, Howard A. Stamper Professor of Law, has published the second edition of a casebook titled Planning and Control of Land Development. He also is the co-author of an article titled "Combating Housing Discrimination in the 1980s," which was published in volume 20 of the Harvard Civil Rights-Civil Liberties Law Review. Frank W. Miller, James Carr Professor of Criminal Jurisprudence, recently published the third edition of his casebook titled The Juvenile Justice Process. In addition, he has published a 1985 supplement to the second edition of his casebook titled Cases and Materials on Criminal Justice Administration. His article titled "Facts About Juvenile Justice" has been published in the 1984 edition of the Southern Illinois University Law Journal.

Kathryn S. Rogers, senior associate at the Center for the Study of Data Processing, received the Outstanding Dissertation Award from the Social Issues in Management Division of the Academy of Management, at the group's August meeting in San Diego. Her dissertation, titled "U.S. Coal Goes Abroad: Patterns in Interorganizational Networks," was written under the direction of Walter R. Nord, professor of organizational behavior. It discusses the implications of network relationships in the coal industry that resulted from expanded export trade from 1980-82. Rogers received her doctorate from the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences Interdisciplinary Program in Organizational Behavior. Other advisors were James W. Davis, vice chancellor, professor and chairman of political science, David F. Gillespie, associate professor of social work, and Gary Natriello, currently at Teachers College, Columbia University. Based on Rogers dissertation, a book titled U.S. Coal Goes Abroad: A Social Action Perspective on Interorganizational Networks will be published by Praeger this December.

Mark A. Shayman, associate professor of systems science and mathematics, has been awarded a $25,000 Presidential Young Investigators Award from the National Science Foundation. The Presidential Young Investigators Award is a cooperative program between government and industry that provides research support for scientists who have had doctoral degrees for fewer than five years. The award is given to assist universities in producing qualified scientists and engineers for academic and industrial research. Shayman received his doctorate in 1980 from Harvard University.

Mark Silver, assistant director of admissions, authored an article that recently appeared in Print, a graphic arts magazine. The article focused on David Bartels, owner of a St. Louis design firm.

William Van Cleve, chairman of Bryan, Cave, McPheeters and McRoberts, has been appointed to a fourth term as president of WU's William Greenleaf Eliot Society. He also is a member of the University's Board of Trustees. The William Greenleaf Eliot Society is a University-wide recognition organization. Its members participate in annual unrestricted giving or cumulative life-time gifts. Donald L. Bryant Jr., chairman of Bryant Planning Group Inc., has been appointed vice chairperson for membership, and Mary Zoren-sky, vice chairperson for programs.

Have you done something noteworthy?

Have you: Presented a paper? Won an award? Been named to a committee or elected an officer of a professional organization? The Washington University Record will help spread the good news. Contributions regarding faculty and staff scholarly or professional activities are gladly accepted and encouraged. Send a brief note with your name, position, department and activity to Notables, Campus Box 1070. Please include a phone number where you can be reached.

Since receiving his law degree from WU's School of Law in 1969, Coleman has progressed from political campaign volunteer to assistant state attorney general, to the Missouri General Assembly, and to the U.S. Congress in 1976. Now in his fifth term, the ranking Republican on subcommittees of the House Agriculture and Education and Labor committees and chairman of the Republican Task Force on Foreign Policy is recognized as a leader in the areas of food stamps, farm loans and federal student loans. He is a graduate of William Jewell College, with a master's in public administration from New York University.

A native St. Louisan, Klamon in 1981 was elected to his present position with the Atlanta-based Fuqua Industries Inc., a diversified manufacturing, distribution and service company he helped to develop. A 1958 Phi Beta Kappa graduate of WU, he received his law degree from Yale Law School in 1961. That same year, he joined the Kennedy administration on the staff of Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara. He is a former member of WU's Alumni Board of Governors and has been a volunteer for the Atlanta Alumni Council. He offers career advising to students and alumni through the University's ACCESS program.

A 1933 graduate of the College of Arts and Sciences, Moise was involved in athletics and extracurricular activities as a student and has remained active in University and alumni programs. He is a member-at-large of the Alumni Board of Governors and a former member of its Executive Committee. As a member, representing Arts and Sciences, and past chairman of the Planned Giving Committee, his knowledge of personal financial planning has been an invaluable asset. He is a member of the Advisory Council of the WU Association, a life member of the William Greenleaf Eliot Society and was chairman of his class' 50th Reunion Committee. In addition, he was a lecturer in University College from 1937 to 1957.

Since completing her education, Schnitzer has played a significant role in keeping WU high in visibility among her fellow California alumni. A 1967 graduate in romance languages from the College of Arts and Sciences, she taught elementary school for one year in Los Angeles before enrolling at UCLA, where she earned a Master of Library Science degree. Active in alumni programs for many years, she served as the Los Angeles Phonathon chairperson from 1974 to 1981, and was chairperson of the Los Angeles Council City from 1975 to 1980. From 1981 until the present, she also has been co-chairperson for the Alumni-Parents Admissions Program in Los Angeles, helping prospective students in Southern California learn more about WU.

Four WU faculty, to be announced later, will be honored with the University's Distinguished Faculty Award.

Nemerov, Gass, Elkin profiled on air

WU professors and authors Howard Nemerov, William Gass and Stanley Elkin will be featured in a series of literary profiles running Wednesdays at 9:30 p.m. on KWMU (90.7 FM). The interviewer is producer Lorin Cuoco.

Elkin also will be presented on National Public Radio's "Morning Edition," which will include continuous reports Sept. 25-27 from St. Louis. "Morning Edition" airs from 5 to 9 a.m. on KWMU.

Nemerov, Edward Mallinckrodt Distinguished University Professor of English, will be featured at 9:30 p.m. Sept. 25 in an hour-long show. Gass, David May Distinguished University Professor in Humanities, will be heard Oct. 2. And Elkin, Merle Kling Professor of Modern Letters, will be presented Oct. 9 and 16. The series also includes a retrospective on St. Louis-born author T.S. Eliot Oct. 23.

For "Morning Edition," Elkin will read his essay, "Why I Live Where I Live," which was published in the November 1980 issue of Esquire.

Additions to Fall Honors Dean's List

The following College of Arts and Sciences students should have been included on the Dean's List in the Fall Honors program: Eric Christian Nordby, Elaine Marie Nordine, Michael Robert Oliveras, Alison Grace Orchant, Stacey Ann Otte, Laura J. Ourada, Mark David Pagel, John Edward Pantano, Audrey Beth Pass, Robert Matthew Patrick, Janice Marie Pauli, John Joseph Pawloski, Kimberly Kae Powlishta and Sonya Lee Wu.
