11-10-1983

Washington University Record, November 10, 1983

Follow this and additional works at: http://digitalcommons.wustl.edu/record

Recommended Citation

http://digitalcommons.wustl.edu/record/286

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Washington University Publications at Digital Commons@Becker. It has been accepted for inclusion in Washington University Record by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons@Becker. For more information, please contact engeszer@wustl.edu.
Anonymous donors have established an endowed professorship at the WU School of Medicine to honor two faculty members for their accomplishments in the field of medicine. The new chair is the Irene E. and Michael M. Karl Professorship in Endocrinology and Medicine in the John Miliken Department of Medicine. The professorship honors the husband and wife team of Irene E. Karl, WU research professor of medicine for the Division of Metabolism and Endocrinology, and Michael M. Karl, WU professor of clinical medicine. The first professorship will be held by William H. Daughaday, director of the Division of Metabolism and Endocrinology, professor of medicine and director of the Diabetes Research and Training Center at the medical school. He also is a staff physician at Barnes and Jewish hospitals. His research has brought about a better understanding of basic hormonal activity, especially that of growth hormone and plasma steroid levels.

Irene Karl has been a WU faculty member since 1949, when she was named a research assistant for the Department of Preventive Medicine. She became a research instructor for the metabolism division in 1966, a research associate professor of medicine in 1974 and a research professor of medicine in 1981.

Her work as a chemist and biochemist involves a broad range of studies, but she has become known as an authority on muscle metabolism. She received a doctorate in biochemistry, as well as her master of science and bachelor of science degrees in chemistry, from the University of Wisconsin.

She is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi honorary societies, and a number of professional organizations, among them the American Chemical Society, American Diabetes Association, American Society of Clinical Research, American Association for the Advancement of Science and New York Academy of Sciences.

Michael Karl has practiced medicine in St. Louis for more than 35 years. He joined the faculty of WU School of Medicine in 1940 as an assistant in the Department of Medicine, and was named a professor in 1972. He is a staff physician at Barnes Hospital and Jewish Hospital, both sponsoring institutions of the WU Medical Center, as well as at St. John's and St. Luke's hospitals. He also has served as acting director of the medical service at Jewish Hospital.

An internist, he has helped to plan health and social services for the elderly in St. Louis and throughout the nation. He was one of 40 members of a national advisory committee appointed by the president to the White House Conference on the Family. He is governor of the American College of Physicians for Missouri and a member of the Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Science.

He holds a bachelor of science degree from the University of Wisconsin and a doctor of medicine degree from the University of Louisville. He served an internship and residency in internal medicine at St. Louis City Hospital, and a fellowship in cardiology at WU School of Medicine. He is a diplomate of the American Board of Internal Medicine, a fellow of the American College of Physicians, and a member of the St. Louis Medical Society and Alpha Omega Alpha, the honorary medical society.

Irene and Michael Karl chair established at School of Medicine

Anonymous donors have established an endowed professorship at the WU School of Medicine to honor two faculty members for their accomplishments in the field of medicine. The new chair is the Irene E. and Michael M. Karl Professorship in Endocrinology and Medicine in the John Miliken Department of Medicine. The professorship honors the husband and wife team of Irene E. Karl, WU research professor of medicine for the Division of Metabolism and Endocrinology, and Michael M. Karl, WU professor of clinical medicine. The first professorship will be held by William H. Daughaday, director of the Division of Metabolism and Endocrinology, professor of medicine and director of the Diabetes Research and Training Center at the medical school. He also is a staff physician at Barnes and Jewish hospitals. His research has brought about a better understanding of basic hormonal activity, especially that of growth hormone and plasma steroid levels.

Irene Karl has been a WU faculty member since 1949, when she was named a research assistant for the Department of Preventive Medicine. She became a research instructor for the metabolism division in 1966, a research associate professor of medicine in 1974 and a research professor of medicine in 1981.

Her work as a chemist and biochemist involves a broad range of studies, but she has become known as an authority on muscle metabolism. She received a doctorate in biochemistry, as well as her master of science and bachelor of science degrees in chemistry, from the University of Wisconsin.

She is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi honorary societies, and a number of professional organizations, among them the American Chemical Society, American Diabetes Association, American Society of Clinical Research, American Association for the Advancement of Science and New York Academy of Sciences.

Michael Karl has practiced medicine in St. Louis for more than 35 years. He joined the faculty of WU School of Medicine in 1940 as an assistant in the Department of Medicine, and was named a professor in 1972. He is a staff physician at Barnes Hospital and Jewish Hospital, both sponsoring institutions of the WU Medical Center, as well as at St. John's and St. Luke's hospitals. He also has served as acting director of the medical service at Jewish Hospital.

An internist, he has helped to plan health and social services for the elderly in St. Louis and throughout the nation. He was one of 40 members of a national advisory committee appointed by the president to the White House Conference on the Family. He is governor of the American College of Physicians for Missouri and a member of the Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Science.

He holds a bachelor of science degree from the University of Wisconsin and a doctor of medicine degree from the University of Louisville. He served an internship and residency in internal medicine at St. Louis City Hospital, and a fellowship in cardiology at WU School of Medicine. He is a diplomate of the American Board of Internal Medicine, a fellow of the American College of Physicians, and a member of the St. Louis Medical Society and Alpha Omega Alpha, the honorary medical society.

A collaboration between two WU departments has led to the award of a $500,000 contract to develop an advanced digital hearing aid and a computerized prescription fitting system for the Veterans Administration.

The Department of Speech and Hearing in the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, and the Department of Electrical Engineering in the School of Engineering and Applied Science submitted the research and development proposal through the Research Department of the Central Institute for the Deaf (CID).

The co-principal investigators for the three-year project are A. Maynard Engebretson, assistant director of research in engineering at CID, and associate professor of electrical engineering in the speech and hearing department, and Robert E. Morley Jr., assistant professor in the electrical engineering department.

The contract is intended to prepare the groundwork for a new generation of hearing aids in which digital processing of the input sound controls electronic components to adjust for changes in background noise and for a range of loud and soft sounds. New procedures for computer-assisted fittings of aids for individual ears will accompany the engineering advances.

German publisher grants fellowship for graduate study

Siegfried Unseld, director of the Subhrkamp Publishing Company (Frankfurt/W. Germany and Boston), has granted the Department of German Languages and Literatures a special Peter Subhrkamp Fellowship, named after the founder of the company. Unseld received an honorary doctorate from WU in 1980. The $7,500 grant has been given for a three-year period and will be offered, in addition to tuition remission, to new graduate students in the German department's doctorate program. For more information, call 899-5160.

Journalist to deliver McDonnell lecture

Elie Abel, chairman of the Department of Communication at Stanford University, will deliver the James S. McDonnell Lecture for Youth at 11 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 17, in Graham Chapel.

Abel, the Harry and Norman Charitable Professor of Communications at Stanford, also will participate in a morning workshop for journalists, communications and social science teachers and their students in Edison Theatre.

Abel will speak on "Global Information: The New Battleground" in Graham Chapel. A former dean of the Graduate School of Journalism at Columbia University, Abel has had a distinguished career in journalism as a reporter, broadcaster and educator.

He received the George Foster Peabody Award for outstanding radio news in 1968 and the Overseas Press Club Award for best interpretation of foreign news in 1969. His publications include The Missile Crisis, which has been reprinted in nine languages, and Roots of Involvement: The U.S. in Asia, 1784-1971.

The workshop will begin at 9 a.m. with a discussion of First and Third World views of the New World Information Order. Abel will speak on the First World view and Evelyn Hu-DeHart, WU associate professor of history, will represent the Third World view. KMOX-TV anchorman Julius Hunter will moderate the discussion and speak on the responsibilities of a journalist.

A Model U.N. debate on the New World Information Order will take place at 9:30 a.m., and a panel discussion on "Is There Such a Thing as a Free Press?" will follow at 10 a.m.

Both the lecture and workshop are free and open to the public; however, registration is required for the workshop. To register, call Marcus Albrecht at 721-1961. The workshop is sponsored by the St. Louis United Nations Association.

The annual McDonnell Lecture for Youth, held each year at a different educational institution in the St. Louis area, is designed to stimulate the interest of young people in multilateral issues and institutions. The lecture is co-sponsored by the Assembly Series and the St. Louis United Nations Association.

Contract awarded to develop digital hearing aid

A collaboration between two WU departments has led to the award of a $500,000 contract to develop an advanced digital hearing aid and a computerized prescription fitting system for the Veterans Administration.

The Department of Speech and Hearing in the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, and the Department of Electrical Engineering in the School of Engineering and Applied Science submitted the research and development proposal through the Research Department of the Central Institute for the Deaf (CID).

The co-principal investigators for the three-year project are A. Maynard Engebretson, assistant director of research in engineering at CID, and associate professor of electrical engineering in the speech and hearing department, and Robert E. Morley Jr., assistant professor in the electrical engineering department.

The contract is intended to prepare the groundwork for a new generation of hearing aids in which digital processing of the input sound controls electronic components to adjust for changes in background noise and for a range of loud and soft sounds. New procedures for computer-assisted fittings of aids for individual ears will accompany the engineering advances.

German publisher grants fellowship for graduate study

Siegfried Unseld, director of the Subhrkamp Publishing Company (Frankfurt/W. Germany and Boston), has granted the Department of German Languages and Literatures a special Peter Subhrkamp Fellowship, named after the founder of the company. Unseld received an honorary doctorate from WU in 1980. The $7,500 grant has been given for a three-year period and will be offered, in addition to tuition remission, to new graduate students in the German department's doctorate program. For more information, call 899-5160.
White receives award for outstanding service

Gloria W. White, associate vice chancellor for personnel and affirmative action, has received a Distinguished Service Award from the College and University Personnel Association (CUPA) for outstanding service to the organization.

The award was presented to White at CUPA's national conference in October in St. Paul, Minn. CUPA, a national association for personnel managers in higher education, was established in 1947 and has 1,100 member institutions. The association is headquartered in Washington, D.C.

According to Personnelite, CUPA's weekly newsletter, the award "recognizes the unselfish commitment of time and energy to the profession and the association." White was recently re-elected to a second term as CUPA's vice president for publications and research.

White has been a member of the WU administrative staff since 1967, when she became associate director of the Upward Bound Program. In 1968, she became an academic counselor and was named director of the Office of Special Projects and of the career scholarship program, a work-study program for economically disadvantaged students. In 1972, she was named WU's affirmative action officer and, in 1975, director of personnel. Later that year she was named assistant vice chancellor for personnel and affirmative action. She was promoted to associate vice chancellor for personnel and affirmative action in 1981.

She received her bachelor's degree in elementary education from Harris Teachers College in 1957 and her master's degree in guidance and counseling from WU in 1963. She also received a master's of juridical studies from the WU School of Law in 1980.

A black presidential candidate: future trends in minority politics

Blacks stand to win even if Jesse Jackson loses the Democratic nomination for president in 1988 — that's the opinion of Lucius Barker, president of the National Conference of Black Political Scientists and chairman of the WU Department of Political Science.

Barker will speak on "A Black Presidential Candidacy: Tensions and Trends in Minority Politics" at 4 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 8, in Eliot 200 C & D. His talk is part of the "Public Affairs Thursday" series sponsored by the Center for the Study of Public Affairs.

Barker says blacks stand to gain increased political consciousness and experience through a black presidential candidacy. More blacks would vote and turn out to vote, and the spillover effects of this political mobilization could be enormous.

More blacks will be stimulated to seek congressional, state and local offices, and perspectives of black office seekers on important policy issues could be articulated more directly in a campaign forum that commands wide national attention, he said. The resulting political-education benefits could influence long-term policy direction and development.

For these reasons, Barker feels that Jackson might prove to be a very effective presidential candidate. "In the present context of American politics, he could well be the best possible black candidate to achieve some of the more realistic objectives which I have mentioned," Barker said. "In addition, I think he is going to appeal to a lot of people who are disenchanted, for a number of reasons, with the way American politics are going."

When asked if it is possible for Jackson to win the nomination, Barker said, "All sorts of reasons indicate that it would take a miracle for him to actually win the presidency. Miracles happen infrequently, but they sometimes can happen."

"In terms of arousing the political consciousness of the black electorate, increasing political mobilization, and his stands on major policy issues, his candidacy would help political education."

"I also think that his charisma and personality will be very important assets. He will definitely add interest and excitement to the campaign."

Barker edited a special section on black electoral politics in a recent issue of PS, the quarterly publication of the American Political Science Association. Barker's own article was "Black Americans and the Politics of Inclusion."

Many whites believe that minorities in this country are now sufficiently included in the political system. Barker said, "This is referred to as the 'politics of inclusion.'"

"But although the 'politics of inclusion' has made some important strides to many blacks and other members of minorities the overall situation is no more than an 'illusion of inclusion,'" he said.

In short, while attention to racial matters was great in the 1960s, it has been steadily dormant ever since.

"For example," Barker said, "it seems clear that the basic issues of the 1960s — such as overcoming inequities in resource allocation and re-arranging the nation's priorities in the current political climate, a black presidential candidate who articulates the issues of the '60s must do so with the rhetoric and in the context of the '80s.'"

It seems clear, Barker said, that not much more can or will be done to improve the political-social status of blacks unless they get more directly involved in national electoral politics.

Lucius Barker

"Having blacks vie for presidential office is the most concrete way to demonstrate the concern of blacks with having a more direct voice in shaping the nature and tone of the national government's role in dealing with important policy issues," he said. "That more direct voice must include shaping of the political agenda, which is crucial for achieving black policy goals."

"And in American politics, it is the president who effectively sets the agenda."

Regina Engelken

WU ROTC Corps to march in veterans parade

WU's ROTC Corps of Cadets will participate in the downtown Veterans Day parade Saturday, Nov. 12, announced Frederick W. McCoy Jr., professor of military science and director of the University's Army ROTC detachment.

The University's ROTC program will sponsor a marching platoon under the leadership of Cadet Captain Conrad Shawn Kee, a senior majoring in political science and history. The University also will provide the color guard, a float and an information booth for all services.

The parade is scheduled to begin at noon and will be 2.5 miles long. It will originate at 16th and Olive streets and pass by the viewing stand in front of Soldiers' Memorial. It will then proceed south on 15th Street to Chestnut, east on Chestnut to Tucker, north on Tucker to Washington, east on Washington to Broadway, south on Broadway to Market and west on Market back to 16th Street.
NOTABLES

Harold Blumenfeld, professor of music, has been elected as an ASCAP (American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers) award recipi- ent. Granted by an independent panel of music educators, the awards are meant to assist and encourage writers of serious music. Blumenfeld has been honored annually by ASCAP for his work in composition for more than 10 years.

Kevin B. Herbert, chairman of the Dept. of Psychology, has become a member of the American Psychological Association's Panel on Psychology and the Arts. The panel will be on sale Wednesday afternoon, sponsored by the Campus Y. Gifts prepared for the holidays should take priority.

Shoppers who want to be well fed and entertained may want to stop at the Bazaar slated to open Nov. 9. Shoppers who want to be well fed and entertained may want to stop at the Bazaar slated to open Nov. 9.

Basketball Bears start second season with home game against Principia

WU Basketball Coach Mark Edwards is looking forward to another ambitious 26-game schedule in 1983-84. In their second season since re- starting basketball in 1981, last year's team managed a 6-20 record. The Bears open their new campaign Saturday, Nov. 19, when they entertain Principia College, Ill. In their only meeting last year, WU defeated Principia, 84-51.

Following a home game with perennial power Millikin University, the Bears will travel south to meet Southwestern in Memphis, Tenn., and Millsaps College in Jackson, Miss. For the second straight year, they are entered in the Case Western Tournament in Cleveland, Ohio, where they will be looking to improve on last year's third-place finish.

An Indiana trip over the semester break will pit them against the 1982 National Champion Wabash College, and DePauw University.

A newcomer on the schedule is the University of Missouri-St. Louis, also a NCAA Division II opponent for the Division III Bears. That game will be played at WU on Jan. 21 and marks the start of five consecutive weekends of home games. All home games will be played in Francis Gym.

The Bears will close this year's regular season on Feb. 26 in Kansas City, Mo., when they play William Jewell College.

All ticket prices are $4.50 for students, $5.50 for adults, and $6.50 for families. Home games will be played in Francis Gym. There are no season tickets available.

International Bazaar slated to open Nov. 9

Shoppers who want to be well prepared for the holidays should take note of the International Bazaar, sponsored by the Campus Y. Gifts and delicacies from all over the world will be on sale Wednesday through Saturday, Nov. 9-12, in the Ann Whitney Olin Women's Building Lounge.

Shopping at the bazaar will be easier on the budget this year because nearly all the handmade im-

Heller Symposium, Nov. 4-6, in West Berlin. Hermann Heller, a Nobel laureate in the 1950s, will be the guest of honor in the public law debate on the evolution of the Weimar period, left Germany in 1933 and died in Madrid in November of the same year.

Have you done something noteworthy?

If you have presented a paper, won an award, been named a committee, or elected an officer of a professional organization, please let us know.

The Washington University Record will help spread the good news. Contributions regarding faculty and staff scholarship or professional achievement are gladly accepted and encouraged. Send a brief note with your name, position, department and activity to Notables, Campus Box 1142. Please include a phone number where you can be reached.

Letture Entertain You!

Members of the ANTA Touring Company has it up in "We're in a Saloon," a spoof on Busby Berkeley musicals. The skit features Wendy Wasserman at a head of lettuce and C. Scott Findlay as the master of ceremonies. It is part of a two-act play on Hollywood genre films, titled "A History of the Ameri-

Can Film," that will be performed by the company on Nov. 12 at 8 p.m. in Edison Theatre. For tickets, call Edison's box office at 889-6543.

Robert P. Mecham, research assis- tant professor of medicine, was recently named editor of the Interna- tional Review of Connective Tissue Research, published by Academic Press.

Stanley L. Paulson, associate pro- fessor of law and philosophy, deliv- ered a paper at the International Basketball Bears start second season with home game against Principia

WU Basketball Coach Mark Edwards is looking forward to another ambitious 26-game schedule in 1983-84. In their second season since re- starting basketball in 1981, last year's team managed a 6-20 record. The Bears open their new cam- paign Saturday, Nov. 19, when they entertain Principia College, Ill. In their only meeting last year, WU defeated Principia, 84-51.

Following a home game with perennial power Millikin University, the Bears will travel south to meet Southwestern in Memphis, Tenn., and Millsaps College in Jackson, Miss. For the second straight year, they are entered in the Case Western Tournament in Cleveland, Ohio, where they will be looking to improve on last year's third-place finish.

An Indiana trip over the semester break will pit them against the 1982 National Champion Wabash College, and DePauw University.

A newcomer on the schedule is the University of Missouri-St. Louis, also a NCAA Division II opponent for the Division III Bears. That game will be played at WU on Jan. 21 and marks the start of five consecutive weekends of home games. All home games will be played in Francis Gym.

The Bears will close this year's regular season on Feb. 26 in Kansas City, Mo., when they play William Jewell College. For a schedule of their games, call the Department of Sports and Recreation at 889-5220.

In their only meeting last year, WU defeated Principia, 84-51.

Following a home game with perennial power Millikin University, the Bears will travel south to meet Southwestern in Memphis, Tenn., and Millsaps College in Jackson, Miss. For the second straight year, they are entered in the Case Western Tournament in Cleveland, Ohio, where they will be looking to improve on last year's third-place finish.

An Indiana trip over the semester break will pit them against the 1982 National Champion Wabash College, and DePauw University.

A newcomer on the schedule is the University of Missouri-St. Louis, also a NCAA Division II opponent for the Division III Bears. That game will be played at WU on Jan. 21 and marks the start of five consecutive weekends of home games. All home games will be played in Francis Gym.

The Bears will close this year's regular season on Feb. 26 in Kansas City, Mo., when they play William Jewell College. For a schedule of their games, call the Department of Sports and Recreation at 889-5220.

International Bazaar slated to open Nov. 9

Shoppers who want to be well prepared for the holidays should take note of the International Bazaar, sponsored by the Campus Y. Gifts and delicacies from all over the world will be on sale Wednesday through Saturday, Nov. 9-12, in the Ann Whitney Olin Women's Building Lounge.

Shopping at the bazaar will be easier on the budget this year because nearly all the handmade im-

Heller Symposium, Nov. 4-6, in West Berlin. Hermann Heller, a Nobel laureate in the 1950s, will be the guest of honor in the public law debate on the evolution of the Weimar period, left Germany in 1933 and died in Madrid in November of the same year.

Have you done something noteworthy?

If you have presented a paper, won an award, been named a committee, or elected an officer of a professional organization, please let us know.

The Washington University Record will help spread the good news. Contributions regarding faculty and staff scholarship or professional achievement are gladly accepted and encouraged. Send a brief note with your name, position, department and activity to Notables, Campus Box 1142. Please include a phone number where you can be reached.

Letture Entertain You!

Members of the ANTA Touring Company has it up in "We're in a Saloon," a spoof on Busby Berkeley musicals. The skit features Wendy Wasserman at a head of lettuce and C. Scott Findlay as the master of ceremonies. It is part of a two-act play on Hollywood genre films, titled "A History of the Ameri-

Can Film," that will be performed by the company on Nov. 12 at 8 p.m. in Edison Theatre. For tickets, call Edison's box office at 889-6543.

Robert P. Mecham, research assis- tant professor of medicine, was recently named editor of the Interna- tional Review of Connective Tissue Research, published by Academic Press.

Stanley L. Paulson, associate pro- fessor of law and philosophy, deliv- ered a paper at the International Basketball Bears start second season with home game against Principia

WU Basketball Coach Mark Edwards is looking forward to another ambitious 26-game schedule in 1983-84. In their second season since re- starting basketball in 1981, last year's team managed a 6-20 record. The Bears open their new cam- paign Saturday, Nov. 19, when they entertain Principia College, Ill. In their only meeting last year, WU defeated Principia, 84-51.

Following a home game with perennial power Millikin University, the Bears will travel south to meet Southwestern in Memphis, Tenn., and Millsaps College in Jackson, Miss. For the second straight year, they are entered in the Case Western Tournament in Cleveland, Ohio, where they will be looking to improve on last year's third-place finish.

An Indiana trip over the semester break will pit them against the 1982 National Champion Wabash College, and DePauw University.

A newcomer on the schedule is the University of Missouri-St. Louis, also a NCAA Division II opponent for the Division III Bears. That game will be played at WU on Jan. 21 and marks the start of five consecutive weekends of home games. All home games will be played in Francis Gym.

The Bears will close this year's regular season on Feb. 26 in Kansas City, Mo., when they play William Jewell College. For a schedule of their games, call the Department of Sports and Recreation at 889-5220.

International Bazaar slated to open Nov. 9

Shoppers who want to be well prepared for the holidays should take note of the International Bazaar, sponsored by the Campus Y. Gifts and delicacies from all over the world will be on sale Wednesday through Saturday, Nov. 9-12, in the Ann Whitney Olin Women's Building Lounge.

Shopping at the bazaar will be easier on the budget this year because nearly all the handmade im-
Continued from p.3

4 p.m. Assembly Series Lecture, "A Writer and His Words," Mario Vargas Llosa, Peruvian novelist. Also sponsored by the Student Union Programming Board, the Campus Bookstore and the Dept. of Romance Languages. Graham Chapel.

8 p.m. Committee on Asian Studies Lecture, "Burma's Democracy: What's the Problem?" Philip A. Kuhn, prof. of history and director of the Center for Southeast Asian Studies at Harvard, Sixix House, 6470 Forsyth Blvd.

Saturday, Nov. 12
9 a.m. Third Annual Jessie L. Ternberg Visiting Professor of Surgery Lecture, "Endoscopic Atresia and Tracheoesophageal Fistula," Elie Abel, chairman, Department of Surgery. Stix House, 6470 Forsyth Blvd.

Monday, Nov. 14
11 a.m. Department of Civil Engineering Seminar, "Cold-Formed Steel Structures," Philip A. Kuhn, prof. of civil engineering, U. of Missouri-Rolla.

4 p.m. Department of Biology Seminar, "Cadmium-113 Magnetic Resonance Spectroscopy," Paul Ellis, prof. of chemistry, U. of Carolina.

8 p.m. School of Architecture Lecture, "Modernism at Midstream." Reorder of Books, New York architect and prof. of architecture, Cooper Union. Steinberg Auditorium.

Tuesday, Nov. 15

8 p.m. School of Architecture Lecture with Hiroshi Watanabe, Tokyo architect and Japan correspondent for Progressive Architecture. Also sponsored by the Japan-America Society of St. Louis. Steinberg Auditorium.

Wednesday, Nov. 16
Noon, Central Institute for the Deaf Research Seminar, "American Speech and Hearing Association Papers" (Speakers: Gerald R. Porecka, WU research scientist; CID; Anne E. Geer, WU research scientist; CID; A. Maynard Engbertson, WU, dir. of research in elect. engineering; and Robert E. Morley, WU assst. prof. of elect. engineering. CID, 2nd fl., 909 S. Taylor Ave.

4 p.m. Department of Physics Colloquium, "Recent Developments in X-Ray Absorption Spectroscopy," David K. Misemer, Iowa State U. (11:30 a.m.)

7:30 p.m. WU Alumni Lecture Series, "Future Space Exploration," Raymond Arvidson, WU assoc. prof. of earth and planetary sciences. Ann Whitney Olm Women's Bldg. Lounge. Admission is $5 for a person. For more info., call 889-5208.

8 p.m. Department of Germanic Languages and Literatures Lecture, "Freundliche und sympathisch genannt" in the Novellein Ferdinand Saar's." Heinrich Rossbacher, prof. of German, U. of Salzburg, 320 Ridgely.

Thursday, Nov. 17

Friday, Nov. 18
2:30 p.m. Technology and Human Affairs Lecture, "Technological Change in the Distribution of Urban Population," Charles Leven, WU prof. of economics. 104 Lopata.

PERFORMANCES

Saturday, Nov. 12
8 p.m. Edison Theatre presents the ANTA Company in the "History of the American Film," a spoof of movies from the '40s and '50s. Edison Theatre. For tickets, call 889-6543.

Thursday, Nov. 17
8 p.m. Thyrion presents "Miss Margarida's Way," a two-act play set in a classroom. Directed by Joseph Roach, chairman, WU Performing Arts Area, Room 3, Dance Hall. Fri., Nov. 18, and Sat., Nov. 19, same time, Room 3, Dance Hall. Admission, $2 for more info., call the Performing Arts Area at 889-5858.

Friday, Nov. 18
8 p.m. Edison Theatre presents Mary Henderson, mezzo-soprano and WU music major, accompanied by Prospero Titermann, pianist. Henderson will sing works by Mozart and Brahms and will be joined by Paula Kaca, flute, and Carol Elliott, cello, in pieces by Ravel. General admission is $18; WU faculty and staff and area students, $4; and WU students, $4. For more info., call the Edison Theatre box office at 889-6543.

Saturday, Nov. 19
8 p.m. Women's Programming Board presents Suzanne Grace, WU instructor in dance, in "Burning Feet." Edison Theatre. Also 2 p.m. Sun., Nov. 20. General admission is $6; area students, $5; children under 12 are free. For more info., call the Edison Theatre box office at 889-6543.

Modernism at Midstream.

8 p.m. Edison Theatre presents "Miss Margarida's Way," a two-act play set in a classroom. Directed by Joseph Roach, chairman, WU Performing Arts Area, Room 3, Dance Hall. Fri., Nov. 18, and Sat., Nov. 19, same time, Room 3, Dance Hall. Admission, $2 for more info., call the Performing Arts Area at 889-5858.

Thursday, Nov. 17
8 p.m. Edison Theatre presents Mary Henderson, mezzo-soprano and WU music major, accompanied by Prospero Titermann, pianist. Henderson will sing works by Mozart and Brahms and will be joined by Paula Kaca, flute, and Carol Elliott, cello, in pieces by Ravel. General admission is $18; WU faculty and staff and area students, $4; and WU students, $4. For more info., call the Edison Theatre box office at 889-6543.

Friday, Nov. 18
8 p.m. Edison Theatre presents Mary Henderson, mezzo-soprano and WU music major, accompanied by Prospero Titermann, pianist. Henderson will sing works by Mozart and Brahms and will be joined by Paula Kaca, flute, and Carol Elliott, cello, in pieces by Ravel. General admission is $18; WU faculty and staff and area students, $4; and WU students, $4. For more info., call the Edison Theatre box office at 889-6543.

Saturday, Nov. 19
8 p.m. Edison Theatre presents Suzanne Grace, WU instructor in dance, in "Burning Feet." Edison Theatre. Also 2 p.m. Sun., Nov. 20. General admission is $6; area students, $5; children under 12 are free. For more info., call the Edison Theatre box office at 889-6543.

"The WU Wind Ensemble and Chamber Winds will present their second concert of the season on Sunday, Nov. 13, at 6:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the St. Louis Art Museum in Forest Park. The Wind Ensemble includes not only students from WU, but also students from five area colleges and universities, as well as music educators from the St. Louis area. For tickets, call the music department at 889-5581.

Midnight, WU Filmboard Series, "Little Big Man." $1.50 Brown Hall Adu. (Also Sat., Nov. 12, same time, Brown.)

Wednesday, Nov. 16
7 and 9:45 p.m. WU Filmboard Series, "WU." $2. Brown Hall Adu. (Also Thurs., Nov. 17, same time, Brown.)

Friday, Nov. 18
8 and 10 p.m. WU Filmboard Series, "Eating Raced." $2. Brown Hall Adu. (Also Sat., Nov. 19, and Sun., Nov. 20, same times, Brown.)

Midnight, WU Filmboard Series, "Kansas City Fried Movie." $1.50 Brown Hall Adu. (Also Sat., Nov. 19, same time, Brown.)

SPORTS

Friday, Nov. 11
7 p.m. Men and Women's Swimming, WU vs. Colleges and Northwest Missouri State U. St. Louis Art Museum in Forest Park. General admission, $2, WU and area students and senior citizens.

Saturday, Nov. 19
7:30 p.m. WU Orchestra Concert with Eric Townsell, conductor. Works of Haydn and J. S. Bach. Edison Theatre.

Tuesday, Nov. 15
8 p.m. Department of Music Collegium Musicum Concert with Robert Woolley, director. Graham Chapel.

Wednesday, Nov. 16
8 p.m. Department of Music Collegium Musicum Concert with Robert Woolley, director. Graham Chapel.

Thursday, Nov. 17
8 p.m. Department of Music Student Composers' Concert, Steinberg Auditorium.

Friday, Nov. 18
8 p.m. Department of Music and Vocal Point present "St. Louis Blues," featuring Leroy Pennix and Henry Townsend. Graham Chapel. General admission is $5. For more info., call the music department at 889-5581.

FILMS

Thursday, Nov. 10

Friday, Nov. 11
7 and 9:30 p.m. WU Filmboard Series, "Tootie." $2. Brown Hall Adu. (Also Sat., Nov. 12, and Sun., Nov. 13, same times, Brown.)

Calendar Deadline

The deadline to submit items for the Dec.-1 calendar of the Washington University Record is Nov. 14. Items must be typed and state time, date, place, nature of event, sponsor and admission cost. Incomplete items will not be printed. If available, include speaker's name and identification and the title of the event; also include your name and telephone number. Address items to King McElroy, calendar editor, Box 1142.